Rings stolen in Mitchell

On March 2, 2004, two precious rings were stolen from the Antelope Bookstore. One ring had a pearl with a diamond on each side of it. It had a 14k white gold band with twigs on it. The other ring was a cubic zirconia on a silver band.

Both rings were special to Thomas. “The pearl was a Christmas present from my finance,” Thomas said. “It’s 1,390 miles away and the one precious gift I had from him is gone.” The other ring had sentimental value, as it was passed down to Thomas from her mother. “The one precious gift I had from him is gone.” The other ring had sentimental value, as it was passed down to Thomas from her mother.

Questions rushed into Thomas’ head: Would someone have stolen the rings? Did someone turn them in? What were the chances of those rings being taken in the few minutes that she had left them? It was later that Thomas found out the thief had waited silently in a stall for her to leave.

“I hate that someone would take something that belonged to someone else and not have the decency to turn it in,” Thomas, an Auburn sophomore, said.

Mitchell Center computer lab, she remembered her mistake. She rushed back into the bathroom, only to find that the rings were already gone.

The theft was caught on tape by a video camera located in the bathroom according to Keith Terry, Chair of the Department of Public Safety. “We are positive the thief was caught on the tape,” Terry said.

The University of Nebraska-Kearney men’s basketball team finished the season as runner-up in the RMAC Tournament, losing in the finals to Metro State, 99-78. The Lopers beat Colorado State-Bakehead in the first round and knocked Metro State out to the final game with a 78-62 win. In the Wednesday night game at the Health and Sports Center, UNK cruised to a 94-67 win over Colorado State.

The Lopers went 3-0 in the three matches and remain unbeaten.

The UNK men’s tennis team recently completed a three-day home stand against Emporia, St. Cloud and Mankato.

The win featured outstanding three-point shooting by the Lopers, hitting 13 of 27 (75 percent) from behind the arc. CSUJ also shot well from the outside, making 12 three-point shots in the game, but it wasn’t enough to keep up with the Lopers.

UNK came out in the first half and knocked down 13 shots from the outside, leading to a 38-20 lead at the half. The lead would remain at least 16 points for the remainder of the contest.

“My mom is my role model because she has worked really hard for me and my family.”

“I like to exercise in general and like to know what to expect when competing against someone, but I don’t know how to improve my game and I can go into competition without any preparation.”

“Steve is looking forward to the rest of the season, and hopes to improve for Friday and Saturday when the Lopers will be facing their next opponents.”

Brian Dunagan takes a shot from a CSUJ defender.

“Brian Dunagan and I are both excited to play against American, a very good team.”

Music is very powerful and mysterious. Songs, melodies, and lyrics can remind you of experiences you have had in your past. Take the time to think about the words and the experience they evoke.

Stereo 360's Lutt's Cut sparks several comments from the audience.

The members of the California-based band Stereo 360 have created an album that achieves this powerful and mysterious aspect of music. Their latest release, "Enjoy Your Life Positively," is a soaring accomplishment in the alternative rock genre. Each song from the 11-track album builds new feelings and concepts to create a unique experience for the listener.

"Enjoy Your Life Positively" contains the rock sound of the 1980s mixed with the more modern rock and punk sound of the 1990s. The result is a unique influence from bands such as Weezer and Nirvana. It also hails back to the days of the Beach Boys, where vocal harmonies and guitar riffs were paramount to the music.

"Plato's Revenge/Follow Superstar" is the opening track on the album. It's hard hitting alternative rock sound with guitar riffs, vocal harmonies, and the band's unique vocal harmonies.

The instrumentation on the album, although simplistic, is tight and inventive throughout each song. Most impressive are the vocal melodies contained in each track, which fit perfectly with the band's, heavy guitar sound.

"Sick of Being the Loser" begins with lyrics that are similar to modern-day rock group Weezer. Yet it still retains some of Lucas's signature sound and feeling of warm California skies.

After the heavy "Baseline" Stratocaster's bass leads the way on "Radio Parade." His solid technique keeps the brooding verse sections together so that the drum line follows right along. Hills and Cunningham make excellent use of spatial guitar effects throughout the song. The seventh track, "Don't Belong," is another mellow point in the album. The song contains contemplative lyrics about life and very emotional chord changes. The unique vibe in the song makes it stand out from the other tracks on the album.

"Mouth," Zimmerman's bass guitar and vocal harmonies of music are so vivid that your imaginations makes it seem real.

Stereo 360's "Enjoy Your Life Positively" is a rock sound that will compel listeners to dance. The music is so vivid that you're actually just sitting standing in a crowd at a concert, creating experiences. While listening to these songs, you get to know Paravonian and his band. You get to see a different side of a comedian.

Paravonian has taken his act on the road for the last ten years displaying his talent as a musician as well as a comedian. Paravonian's humor is more funny than a stand up act, but he has enough music to remind you of your favorite music. Paravonian's humor was very relevant to what many students in the audience were going through.

They were getting ready for the last day of college and were getting ready to leave campus. They were getting ready to get away for a week to some place.

UNK student trying for Olympic dream

For most athletes, the opportunity to compete in the Olympics is only a distant dream. However, for one Wood River sophomore this dream might actually become a reality.

Adam Knecht has been skeet shooting since he was twelve years old. After years of watching his dad shoot, he decided to give it a try. In 1999, Knecht won his first World Championship at the age of fifteen. Following his success, he has consistently made the USA National shooting team along with the World Championship and World Cup Teams.

Knecht proved to be an exceptional year for Knecht. That year he won the national tournament by setting a new record. Knecht shot 296 out of 300 targets, breaking the old record of 292 out of 300.

From March 21 to 26, Knecht is going to try his luck at the USA Olympic trials in Columbus, Ga., hoping to fill one of the two spots on the Olympic team for this summer’s Olympics in Athens, Greece.

He will be shooting against approximately 113 competitors from all over. Out of those competitors, he is currently ranked fourth and the only one from Nebraska.

“I never thought shooting would take me this far, especially with the traveling to different places and getting to experience different cultures,” said Knecht.

To train for the Olympics, he has been shooting his Pottini MX 2000 pan between four to five times a week at the Grand Island Gun Club and Sporting Clay Club. Knecht also travels to more international competitions.

His success in the competitions has given him more time and experience, but sponsors as well. Gladwin Machinery, Virgil Eisenhen and Oakley sunglasses currently sponsor Knecht.

In the object. At the end of every day, Delgado files a report of the department's activity. The report has a description of all the merchandise that has come in that day. If anything matches a description of a theft, it is reported to the police. The department will contact the owner of the stolen item, who will have to go to the shop and purchase it back for the amount of money they paid for it. The shop owner will get a new one from the manufacturer.

Delgado said, “If the owner can come to the shop and purchase it back, then it's on us. But if not, we have to report it to the police.”

There are a few cases where the shop owner does not want to replace the item or does not have the means to do so. In those cases, the police can help by investigating the theft and找回ing the item.

Delgado said, “The police can help us by investigating the theft and找回ing the item. They can also help us by providing any information they have about the suspect.”

The police can also help by providing any information they have about the suspect.
