BLUE AND GOLD

An old Indian sat near an open tepee weaving a blanket of indefinable beauty. A marvellous, intricate pattern it was—its gorgeous colors and perfect harmony constraining us to stand in silent awe and admiration.

"Each thread belongs," explained its maker, pleased with our apparent interest and appreciation. The words burned deep.

A student stood before an ever widening door. His college days were over. His thoughts wove a beautiful fantasy from the memories of yesterday—of friendships of deep and lasting value, of teachers whose influence was infinite, and class joys and sorrows which meant more than he could ever fully know. A wave of happiness swept over him. His heart sang, his pulse beat faster, his eyes flashed as the vision became clear.

"I have been a part of a great plan," he cried, and with a step toward the Open Door—

"Please God I shall ever belong!"—H. M.

N artist was sitting in his studio, his eyes fixed in steadfast gaze upon a vision which had risen before him. It was a form of rare beauty—a form more beautiful than his eyes had ever beheld before—a conception so wonderful in its loveliness as to transport his whole being. His frame thrilled with ecstasy as he continued to gaze upon it, and there came to him an overwhelming desire to grasp that form and make it live forever. He seized a lump of clay, and while his fingers were yet trembling with the frenzy of his inspiration, he began to mold. He pressed in here and he pressed out there. He gave a firm touch here, a tender touch there. Day after day he molded on. When the clay hardened he moistened it and molded again. And by and by there grew up from his hands a form so beautiful that the world heard the fame of it, and came and looked upon him and upon the work of his hands, and said to him, 'Well done.'

After a day of toil and worry a teacher once sat alone at twilight, her eyes fixed in steadfast gaze upon a vision that had risen before her. It was the most beautiful, the rarest, the most charming form that had ever blessed her eyes. As she looked she recognized the face of 'Him who is the fairest among ten thousand, and altogether lovely.' Her whole being was filled with the blessed vision. Her heart yearned toward Him. She threw herself at His feet and gave herself, heart and soul and mind, to Him. And when she rose there came into her heart an irresistible desire to mold some life like unto Him. And she took into her hands a lump of living clay-a little child-and trembling with the frenzy of the vision she began to mold. Day after day she taught and trained the little mind and the little heart, pressing in here, and pressing out there; firmly here, tenderly there. When the chi'd began to grow hard, her love and sympathy softened him and she molded on. And by and by there grew up from her hands a strong, symmetrical, manly man. The world heard not of what she had done, and came not; but the fame of her workmanship reached the court of heaven, and one day the Lord came down and looked upon her and upon the work of her hands, and He said to her, 'Well done.' -JESSE DAVIS.

O, Alma Mater, Dear Alma Mater, May thy sweet mem-ries linger long; O, Alma Mater, Dear Alma Mater, For thee we will be true and strong.

Ere long we leave thy stately halls
And with the world our treasure share;
All of friendship, hope and fame,
We'll owe to thee, thy love and care.

Oh we shall miss our wise professors, Who have tried their very best, To train our minds in ancient classics, Math, history and all the rest.

And there's a sigh for our dear classmates,
Who so loyal and staunch have grown;
With them we've trod through wisdom's portals,
And with them all our joys have known.

As Pilgrims we'll revisit thy halls,
When time for Alumni draws nigh;
The spell of the past shall bind us still
As it did in the days gone by. —M. R. S.

The Senior Class of 1923 has been the most renowned and most famous class of our Alma Mater. We have been a beneficial example of high ideals and perseverance to our sister classes, and we hope to bequeath to them the same worthy standards which we have maintained.

However sagacious we are, the Seniors wish to express their sincere gratitude to the Sophomore Class for a great kindness. At Christmas time the Sophomores gave us a very handsome and charming man for a present. The Senior Mascot has been of great service to us, because by his influence and encouragement, five more men have joined our class since Christmas. This is indeed very gratifying to a class of girls.

Many of our friends think we are so dignified and studious that we have no time for fun. But we have had good times this year. One chilly evening in October we could find no suitable place for a picnic except in the Gibbon park. All of us remember how appetizing things tasted that night, and best of all, we remember our ride home. In November we had a very enjoyable party at Bessie Watkin's home. It was here that Mr. Sutton really forgot that he was a sedate professor. Also, in the last of November, Mrs. Hyatt entertained the Seniors in honor of Miss Williams who was graduated the first quarter. The evening was spent in pleasant reminiscences and many humorous incidents of the past were recalled.

We are proud of the fact that we have been friendly to our fellow classmates and courteous to our instructors. The Seniors have never intentionally created any enemies, but we feel that the Juniors, especially, are very jealous of us. We advise them to follow our example. The Seniors also admonish the Freshmen not to become weary of climbing the ladder to the summit, because we will be up there beckoning them to come.

When the twilight 'round us fa'ls, As we roam o'er Life's Great Ways, Hearts will speak in gratitude Of our good old College days. Many were the friendships made Helping us our lives to mold; As a treasure growing dearer, We will love our Blue and Gold.

Extracts From a 1923 Senior's Diary.

April 26, 1943.—The spring fever got me today and I skipped the office and started for a ride in the country. Stopped to have my batteries charged. These electric cars may be all right, but I wish we were back in the old days when we had dependable gasoline motors. Just then Kenneth Newcomb drove up and we had quite a discussion over the revision of the income tax. He is as conservative as ever, but politicians have to be, especially before the primaries. He is running for governor. He said he had just heard from Harry Kanzelmeyer, who has been in the Phillipines. He is returning to the States for his health and incidently to spend some of his money. I understand he made good in the hemp market last year. He is still an eligible bachelor.

May 1.—This morning I dropped into the Columbia library for some material in Ames Cases. I loaned my copy to Helen Macaulay's (her other name is too hard to spell) son, a very bright young chap who is going to Harvard. Well who should be across the table from me but Mrs. Hyatt! I knew her in a flash. The years have touched her much more lightly than they have many of us. She is taking post graduate work at Columbia in the history department. Her grand-daughter is with her, also going to school, and they are true pals.

May 5.—Had lunch with Helen Macaulay today. She is chairman of the Woman's Party and that, with her charity work, keeps her quite busy. She is talking of going to London soon to inspect and report to the Uplift Club the moral conditions in the toothpick factories. She tells me that Mary Jackson has been hired by the Club to direct their new reform film. Mary has been directing for years and they are very fortunate to secure her. Her last picture, "The Dangerous Daring Delilah," has been a wonderful success on Broadway.

May 8.—Had a letter from Eva today. Her youngest has just had his tonsils removed. Her husband is working on combustible gases, which may in time replace gasoline, and she is helping him in the laboratories. He thinks no one else in the world can hand him test tubes excepting her, and she is happy to do it. She says that Laura Rundle's husband is in jail again. Poor Laura! I suppose she will have to go to washing again!

June 3.—I never thought it of Gladys, but there it is all over the front page of the Times. "Gladys Wareham, former Follies girl, inmate at the Muskogee, Oklahoma Old Folk's Home, discharged because the authorities discovered that she was using Golden Glint Hair Dye. I knew that she got into the Follies not long after graduation from K. S. T. C. but this—I must send this paper to Eva, she will enjoy the details.

June 6.—Lunched with Mary Jackson at the Ritz, discussing the technicalities of her contract with the Uplift Club. When we were coming through the lobby, Mary stopped and stared at a man sitting near the east entrance. Then she rushed over to him exclaiming, "Everitt Jenkins!" It really was he, but I should never have known him. Oil was discovered on his place in the sand hills a number of years ago, and he reflects his success in many ways, especially about his waist band. His wife, a slender, little dark-eyed woman, came down while we were talking. Mary invited us all to dinner next Thursday evening at her apartment.

June 7.—Received invitation. As usual, I have nothing to wear.

June 8.—Stopped at "Madame Betty's" to order a dinner dress for Thursday evening. Madame Molgard herself came to serve me. I felt honored indeed and left the entire selection with her. Her creations are the marvel of the age. Her art is supreme, but Oh!—Her bills!—Her husband, who is in New Mexico for his health, is much better and hopes to be able to return home soon.

June 18.—Received a letter from Eva. Laura Rundle's husband is out again and they have moved to Grand Island where she is matron of the Burlington station. Have telegram from Forbes and have to go to Kansas City on business

Kansas City, June 23.—Arrived hot and tired. Stopped at the station to get a soda before going up town. Next to me sat a lady of very generous proportions. Near her sat a very thin, very small man. I noticed the lady watching me critically and I frankly stared at her. Yes, it was Bessie Watkin-Tuggle. She was married not long after graduation. Bess has grown quite positive in her manner and her husband is very, very acquiescent. They are returning to their home near Alliance after visiting Esther Harman. It seems that Esther was on the verge of winning fame as a clarinet player, when she had a slight disagreement with her land lady and in the altercation that followed, she lost a front tooth. This ruined her hopes and she has retired from public life to the Ozark Mountains, where she is conducting a chicken ranch very successfully.

Bess says that she hears regularly from Frances Williams, who is having thrilling experiences as a missionary in Tibet. The recent troubles in India and China have caused many of the missionaries in her territory to flee, but she is remaining in the face of grave danger of uprisings.

Elms Hotel, Excelsior Springs, Mo., June 28.—It is so hot in the city I thought I might find some relief and rest in this quiet place. In glancing at the menu I noticed "Steenbock's Famous Table d'Hote"—and at the bottom of the page I found this: "All our meals are prepared under the scientific direction of Miss Martha Steenbock, food chemist." Yes it really was our Martha Steenbock and her name is in Who's Who for compounding a new salad dressing.

July 8.—Back in Kearney again. The old place is certainly familiar. One of the first persons I met was Florence Miller, now Mrs. Crozier. They are running a boarding house for students. I inquired for Miss Crisp and found that she is the head of the biology department at the University of Nebraska. She is a worker and deserves her success.

October 10.—A part of us went to Cambridge in Mary's Aeroplane this afternoon to see the Harvard-Yale game. Helen's son is fullback for Harvard and of course they won. Their team work was wonderful and, if they continue such playing throughout the season, their head coach, Gabriel Hayek, may well be proud of them. His last year's team was great, but this one is marvelous. I saw Ray Bean at the game. He has a chair in English Literature. His specialty, I believe is old Celtic sagas. He won renown by counting all the verbs in Shake-speare.

November 2.—Received a letter from Bess Watkin-Tuggle. She said that Maude Murphy is principal in the High School at Alliance. She was post-mistress in her home town a number of years, but she returned to school work as it was more congenial. Just read in the Tribune that "The Dangerous Daring Deliah" would be shown in Chicago for the first time on New Years Day.

The following excerpt was taken from the New York Times for November 15, 1943.

"Miss Hester Green Commits Sin of Self-Destruction."

"The following letter, taken from the effects of the dead woman, reveals the cause of the suicide.

'Alas diary dear, all these years I have been faithful to him, have hoped and longed and waited. I had supposed that tomorrow I would be in a state of wedded bliss. But now, all this can never be. Life is no longer worth the living, so tomorrow I shall go to Niagra.

My only hope is that I may not be judged too harshly." "

The Class of 1923 may well be called the pioneer Junior Class of K. S. T. C. Many of the present members were Juniors when our College was a Normal School. New members have been added since that time until we now number thirty-two.

The class has ever been prominent in promoting school spirit, scholastic ability and class loyalty. This eminence has been the result of the efficient guidance of our sponsors Miss Hanthorn and Mr. Engleman.

We have had many pleasant social events during our college days. One of our most enjoyable times this year was the breakfast held at Lake Kearney late in September. An early morning walk is always condusive to a hearty appetite, and the men prepared an excellent meal. Reminiscences of our college days caused much merriment. So also, did the amateur golfing in which we indulged just before starting for home.

Our convocation program was our most spectacular event of the year. It disclosed to our audience the exceptional talent of some of the members of the Junior Class. Phil Person, our class president, gave a very interesting discussion on a broader philosophy of life. Two pleasing numbers were a vocal solo by Miss Ardyce Danielson and a novel duet sung by John Myers and Phil Person. The last number on the program was the farce, "The Street Picker." Charles Neale typically portrayed the medicine man. He, with his helpers, Herbert Welte, the black comedian and Edward Styskal, the pickpocket, convulsed the audience with laughter. The members of the Junior Class rushed in and demanded their booty from the light-fingered faker. The program closed with the class cheer J-U-N-I-O-R-S-, Juniors.

On our past accomplishments must rest our future achievements. With true worth for our goal and with a full realization of what college spirit really means. Juniors, let us move forward.

CLASS HISTORY.

The present irresistible Sophomore Class organized as Freshmen September, 1921, with a class of over two hundred. We have lost in numbers since then but not in spirit.

Our first appearance was made in convocation. We responded to a call for a football "pep" meeting. We appeared as much like infants as possible: girls with short dresses and flowing curls; boys with broad ruffles and fluffy ties. Our next performance was in re-ponse to the Sophomore take-off, "The Freshmen at the Court of Justice." We, wishing to imply that the Sophomores were dead, retalliated with the "Graveyard Scene." The Sophomores said the stunt was ridiculous; the Juniors said it was desperately funny; but the Seniors said it was clever. People who had previously only heard of hair rising in fright, ever after could testify to its possibility. Bernice Pumphrey's long braid rose straight into the air in one of the terrifying moments.

As Freshmen we were proud that Verna Pielstick and Bernice Pumphrey came home from the State Commercial Contest with so many honors that K. S. T. C. was entitled to the State Championship in the Commercial Contest. Also, let it not be forgotten, that three of the six debators on the College team were Freshmen: Clay Daggett, Carroll Morrow and Claude Weimer.

Several delightful parties were held in the gymnasium during the year. A May breakfast at the lake closed the events of our Freshman year.

In the autumn of 1923 we found we had lost none of the old time pep in the transit from Freshmen to Sophomores.

923 BLUE AND GOL

One of the most interesting events of this year was the Hallowe'en party. There were appetizing refreshments, lively music and thrilling escapades. The evening's entertainment ended with a quiet chat around the candles. Harold Craig and Carroll Morrow entertained us with stories.

At Christmas time, the Sophomores, represented by Edward Styskal and Edna Gettys as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, gave a program and distributed appropriate presents to most of the faculty and to a number of the students. The Seniors, having no man's name entered on their class roll at that time, were given a boy doll. There are rumors that he is safely kept as the Senior Mascot.

A novelty party recently held in the gymnasium will always be remembered as the Sophomore "track meet." Different groups represented the colleges, Oxford, Harvard and Princeton. Each college prepared a number of yells and soon everyone was hoarse from yelling. Oxford came out first in everything except the relay race. Teh yown even the "standing broad jump," where the broadest grin won.

The Sophomore issue of the Antelope, published October 27, will go down in history as causing more mental disturbance in the College than any other event of the season. It brought the Juniors out of their state of apathy to the extent that the Sopholope resulted—not a work of art exactly, but a joy forever—for we found the Juniors to be really alive.

Now with all good wishes, we retire for the present, but not without our aspirations. With our splendid sponsors, Miss Ethel Craig and Mr. A. L. Phillips, who have ever been a source of inspiration and of service, we are looking forward to a happy and brilliant completion of our college life.

The Sophomores may not be an ignition element, but "The sparks fly upward, outward, ever."

The Class of 1926 assembled for the first time, September 12, in room 322. We were indeed fortunate to have two of the wide awake members of the faculty, Miss Patton and Mr. Otto Olsen, for our sponsors. Miss Ruth Scoutt was elected temporary president and Mr. Weimer, temporary secretary and Antelope reporter.

Our next meeting was held in the auditorium because all other rooms were too small for our large class of two hundred eighty-seven members. At this time the class officers were elected.

Our first social function was a wiener roast. Everyone had an enjoyable time and made many new acquaintances. The Freshman class proved its originality at the hard time party which was held in the gymnasium, November 17. The dilapidated condition of some of the garments worn afforded much amusement. The "kid party" on January 27 was one of the most unique and enjoyable events of the year. Games in accordance with the nature of the party were played.

On November 24, appeared the Antelope printed in an extraordinary and attractive color. This, of course, was the Freshman issue of the college paper. The contributions to this issue proved that the Freshmen were very capable journalists.

The Freshmen presented their convocation program on February 7. It consisted of the following: Lois Granstaff showed the fate of the little boys who cidn't say their prayers; a cornet solo by Woodward Burgert; a piano solo by Henri Todd, and a graceful solo dance by Lucille Metz. The concluding number consisted of a representation of by-gone school days.

We are looking forward to the remaining years of our college work as a source of happiness. Our goal is clearly before us—our efforts are bent toward attaining it.

The present Senior Preparatory Class was organized as Juniors in September, 1921, with Miss O'Connell as sponsor. Carroll Anderson was elected president. Monthly meetings of the small group were held throughout the year and every effort was made to co-operate with other class organizations in all school activities.

At the beginning of the present year our numbers were increased by a few new members from outside and by a lively contingent from the Training School. Mr. Fryklund was appointed as a second sponsor.

While at this stage of our career we have no great deeds or important events to chronicle, we have an abiding faith in ourselves and in our ability to make good. From our modest position in the background we are observing and taking notes. Next year we shall be full-fledged college students. Then—Watch Us Grow—for we mean to grow and not to swell.

The Junior Preparatory class is a lively and sincere group. Underneath our scrious way is the love of fun. In October of 1922 we hiked to "Sleepy Hollow" for a wienie roast. Our new class officers, elected at the first meeting in the second quarter, saw to it that we had a rousing party on January 20.

This is the first completely organized preparatory class in K. S. T. C. We are growing; look out for us. The "profs" can hardly keep us from breaking into the college Freshman Class.

The Young Women's Christian Association is the largest organization in the College, with the exception of the Women's League to which every girl in school belongs.

The primary purpose of the organization is to promote the religious life of the girls. This is accomplished by holding weekly devotional meetings every Thursday at the regular convocation period. They are contributed to by faculty members and outside speakers as well as by the students.

A second purpose of the Y. W. is to sponsor such social activities as will embody clean, wholesome enjoyment and true recreational value.

The Y. W. aids in the Annual Mixer in the fall and gives one all-school party in February. This year a "Have a Heart" Valentine Party was given and was well attended by both faculty and students.

A membership campaign was staged during the third week of the fall term and two hundred twenty-five girls were enrolled as members, each paying the yearly fee of one dollar. A membership banquet was given on September 28 in the gymnasium.

The Y. W. has had charge of the sale of tickets for the Lyceum course and was responsible for all advertising in connection with it.

The annual Holiday Festival, which is a money-making event, was held December 16, from four to ten P. M. Booths of homemade candy, handkerchiefs, Christmas cards, toys, and art-craft were open from four until time for the Orpheum in the auditorium. Six side shows, under the auspices of the Rural Club. Y. M. C. A., Camp Fire, Latin Club, Aspasians and French Club, were open to the public from seven until eight-thirty. The total proceeds from the Festival were $216.34, with a balance of $168.82. This amount was applied on the Y. W. Student Loan Fund which has now reached a total of $597.17. One hundred fifty dollars has been set aside for men students, the remainder being available to women only.

The cabinet, consisting of the president, secretary, treasurer and the chairmen of standing committees, meets on the first and third Mondays of each month to discuss plans for the organization. Several cozy cabinet suppers have been held in connection with the business meetings. Each committee chairman has a faculty adviser, one of whom is elected general chairman of the Advisory Board. They meet with the cabinet once a month and offer valuable assistance and expert advice. For the year 1922-23, the Advisory Board was as follows:

Finance Committee.......Ethel Craig (Also general chairman) Membership Emma Hanthorn Social Marjorie Pratt Program Jennie Conrad

Miss Lula E. Wirt, Dean of Women, honorary member. This year stands as a milestone in the history of the Y. W. C. A. of the Kearney State Teachers' College, both in number of members and in achievements. We bequeath to the incoming cabinet a spirit of optimism and a vision of an organization which shall be nationally known as the best student society of its kind in the United States.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET.

Greetings, most hearty and sincere, are extended by the Y. M. C. A. of N. S. T. C., to all men. We rejoice to see the great prosperity of our local, state, national, and international associations. Our greatest hope and expectation is, that, with a thousand other college associations, we will be able to eliminate the cause of war, and thus found lasting peace. We maintain that the horrors of war will be taken away only when the universal desire, the highest purpose of life, is that of service to others, rooted in Christian brotherhood instead of mutual necessity, or science, or law, or commerce. Science has killed pestilence; commerce has killed famine; but only brotherhood will kill war, for it is the only thing which will eliminate the cause. Thus, the promotion of brotherhood is our supreme commitment.

The Y. M. C. A in the State Teachers' College at Kearney holds as its standard, the teachings of Jesus as applied in every-day life. The aim of the organization is to aid in the development of the social, educational, and religious phases of college life.

On September 11, 1922, the annual watermelon feed was given. There were about one hundred twenty-five men at the gymnasium for a good time. Mr. Fisher directed the games that preceded the big feed.

Each Wednesday evening during the year the men met in the Y. M. C. A. room for their weekly devotional and educational meeting which was followed by a social hour. Among the many sports which followed these meetings were swimming, boxing, wrestling and floor work of all kinds. On one occasion, following a splendid address by Judge Easterling, a big bean feed was served.

The meetings for the year have been excellent, due to the faithful and loyal work of the program chairman. The devotional and educational meetings were of two types; namely, open forum discussions and lectures. Our program for the year included the following: a talk on "Football and Good Sportsmanship" by Coach Fulmer; a talk by Ed Neimer on the "Near East Question;" a lecture by Doctor Stearns on "Keeping Yourself Fit;" Miss Stuff's excellent talk on the "Glorified Vision of Manhood;" "The Three Great Maxims of Life," by Rev. Keve; Ben Cherrington's open forum discussion on "Why We Need a Y. M. C. A.; Father Muenstermann's address on "Know Thyself," and President Martin's speech which opened our campaign on the problems of World Peace.

The Y. M. C. A. is, and will continue to be, one of the most important organizations in the College, because it is one of those few places where the men alone can get together and freely discuss the real and vital problems of life.

Catholic Students Association.

The religious training of a student is an essential feature of his education. The leaders in Christian thought have long felt the necessity of providing a supplementary education in the Holy Scriptures and the teachings of the church.

The Catholic Students Association was organized in the early history of the school and is endeavoring to fulfill the need of a study of Catholic belief and practices and reviews of Catholic literature. This work is carried on under the guidance of Prof. B. H. Patterson.

The room, which has been so elegantly furnished by the Nebraska Knights of Columbus, is a pleasant place in which to hold weekly meetings. The generosity and interest in the work shown by the Knights of Columbus is inspirational to the students.

Several social meetings are held during the year and are thoroughly enjoyed by the students.

Kindergarten-Primary Club.

The Kindergarten-Primary Club was organized with the establishment of the school, 1905, as the Kindergarten Bund. At present the membership is more than fifty, including all students who are taking the Primary-Kindergarten Course.

We have held several social meetings this year. Each one has been unique and full of fun. New members were initiated at the first meeting, and it will be long remembered, for the ceremony was such that only the wittiest were able to gain admittance. Another enjoyable meeting was the Kid Party. The refreshments were so appropriate (?) for "kids" should not eat much before bed-time.

The club is very fortunate in having such sponsors as Miss Scott and Miss Knutzen. They are always ready to plan with us for a good time, and to help us out of difficulties.

Academy of Science and Mathematics.

This organization was founded by interested students and faculty members of the Kearney State Teachers' College on the third of March, 1916. It is one of the biggest and best organizations in the College. It is made up of energetic folk who appreciate an opportunity to learn things worth while.

It was because of the intense interest in and keen desire for further investigation and clear cut discussions of scientific topics of the day, that the Academy of Science and Mathematics sprang into existence. The organization was originally intended for those who were majoring in the departments of science and of mathematics. We are glad to find, however, many others listed with those who are concerned with the furtherance of scientific research.

No doubt the healthy habit of reading the scientific contributions of the magazines and newspapers along with the studies of the text books, is responsible in no small measure for the readiness with which students attack research problems. The particular topics selected for discussions are those that provoke thought and impress us with the advantage which such broad views give in the solution of problems of business and professional life.

This is a new and exceptional age. It is an age of scientific progress. The air is full of music, sermon, and song. It is for the scientist to successfully tap this reservoir of life-enriching materials.

We have learned that the bacteria are as essential to life as is the bird of the air or the beast of the field. Good citizenship is fostered by the study of such topics as personal hygiene, sanitation, drainage, irrigation, forestry, transportation, waterways, parks, mines, foods, plants, and good roads. These things are vital parts of every day existence and they contribute to our welfare. Student and instructor members alike find food for thought. The splendid presentations of the topics tend to clarify the atmosphere of misunderstanding and vagueness.

Time and energy are well spent in attending the monthly meetings that are held on the third Tuesday of each month of the regular school year.

Sang we then a song of welcome, Welcome to our new Wood-gatherers. Thus we sang there in the fire-light, Sang and parted for our wigwams, Hastened homeward through the starlight,

Camp Fire.

The Camp Fire of 1923 is not a noisy organization, but nevertheless we have been doing things.

We have a full camp of twenty members who are working hard for beads and ranks. We have held our meetings regularly every week. These meetings have been business, social, work and ceremonial. We have taken several hikes into the country where we cooked and ate our suppers in the open. How we enjoyed them and the walks home in the moonlight! One evening was spent at the home of cur guardian, Miss Hosic, where we enjoyed pop-corn and apples and a number of stunts which on'y Miss Hosic knows how to conduct.

We took part in the Y. W. C. A. Holiday Festival with a short program of Camp Fire songs, and Indian dances and ceremonies. The play, "A Southern Cinderella," was given in the auditorium in February. With the proceeds from this play we purchased new furniture for the Camp Fire room.

The G. A. A. was organized soon after the opening of the fall quarter of 1922, with sixty-two members interested in games and other lines of physical culture

All girls winning 800 points in contests are to be awarded large blue and gold letters that may be worn on sweaters. Besides these, there are other honors: pollywog, frog, and fish honors for swimming and felt honors for hiking.

Every Tuesday and Thursday evening during the first quarter, girls gathered in the gymnasium for games. Captain Ball, Volley Ball, Basket Ball and Newcome were the favorites. The contestants on the final team were always given 100 points, so the girls found a special interest in the games, for each G. A. A. girl would like to own a K.

As a relief from work and a sharpener of appetites, several ten mile hikes were taken. On one occasion the tired feet were rested and hearts lightened by a farmer offering free passage to his big pile of watermelons.

As winter approached, the lake afforded an opportunity for skating parties, and several pleasant evenings were spent there. During the Health Week when the health and physical culture demonstration pictures were shown, the G. A. A. purchased one reel to further the cause.

This is the first organization of its kind in the history of the College, but we hope to continue it in the future. In swimming, hiking, and all other forms of physical development for girls, it stands for a better, stronger, happier college woman.

EMANONS

The Emanons.

This society for young men was founded during the period when most of the present members were learning their first rudiments of speech.

In the fifteen years of its existence, the membership of the society has not fluctuated in number to a very great extent. During the recent war, when the young men were learning to shoot instead of argue, the membership sank to a very low ebb. Just previous to the war, the roll of the society was the longest in its history. Since the war the society has again started to grow, and the future pro-pects are rosy indeed.

The work of the organizatoin is largely what is implied in the name "Debating Society." The underlying idea is to give training in public speaking. The ability to conduct a meeting according to parliamentary law is also developed by frequent exercise and drill. The ability to think "on your feet" and not "lose your head" while under the gaze of your fellows is the end sought.

The present critic, Mr. Harding, is proving himself a most valuable asset. He is maintaining the high standard of work set for him by his predecessors.

Aspasians.

The Aspasians are a group of girls organized for the purpose of attaining unto some of Aspasia's attributes; namely, those of grace, poise and intellect. Aspasia was a native of Ionia. The date of her birth is not recorded but is placed about 480 B. C. She was a brilliant, attractive woman, whose chief charm was her intellect.

Early in the history of K. S. T. C. a need was felt for such an organization, and under the leadership of Miss Gertrude Gardner, the Aspasian organization was perfected. There have been periods of depression, yet they struggled on undaunted until 1923, when the membership reached its maximum mark of fifty.

This organization does not neglect the social side of life. Joint meetings with the Emanons are held each quarter. Some very interesting events have taken place, such as "Scrambled Pies," or "Mock Weddings," and various initiations, where the girls were made to eat angle worms, or to embrace a skeleton. Many other social occasions are provided, as well as debates, impromptu speeches, and drills in parliamentary law.

The girls wrote letters of friendship to the college students of the Near East, expressing sympathy for them in their vast problems which are holding the at-

During the Holiday Festival given by the Y. W., the Aspasians gave a "Baby Show." Later in the year they pledged their support to the basket ball tournament. We may say that the Aspasians meet all situations with gracious willingness. Once an Aspasian always an Aspasian, and thus the circle grows larger and its influence is felt farther each year.

Debates.

The months of February and March are the breezy periods for the Nebraska debaters, and during the debating season of this year the forensic representatives of Kearney were the stormy-petrels of the state conference. Not only were the members of the squad enthusiastic proponents of their side of the proposition, but the members of the student body also demonstrated an interest in debating unsurpassed in the history of the school. There were few empty seats in the auditorium during any of the debates, and at some of them the speakers orated to standing-room only.

The debating season officially began in this school on February 15, when the affirmative team from Cotner College visited the school. After winning the first debate the members of the squad were kept busy preparing both offensive and defensive armament for the following debates:

University of Wyoming at Kearney, February 22. Kearney at Laramie, Wyoming, February 23. York College at Kearney, March 8. Kearney at York, Nebraska, March 8. Central College at Kearney, March 9.

Kearney at Central City, March 9. Doane College at Kearney, March 22. Kearney at Cotner, March 22.

Kearney at Hastings, March 23.

The general interest in the question at issue aided greatly in the preparation and the support of the debates. The new material constantly appearing in books and magazines caused many changes to be made in the arguments as the season progressed. This tended in turn to augment the interest of the students. The proposition was: Resolved that all inter-allied war debts should be cancelled. This question was selected at a meeting of delegates, representing all schools in the Nebraska Conference. The representatives from this college were Phil Person and Carroll Morrow.

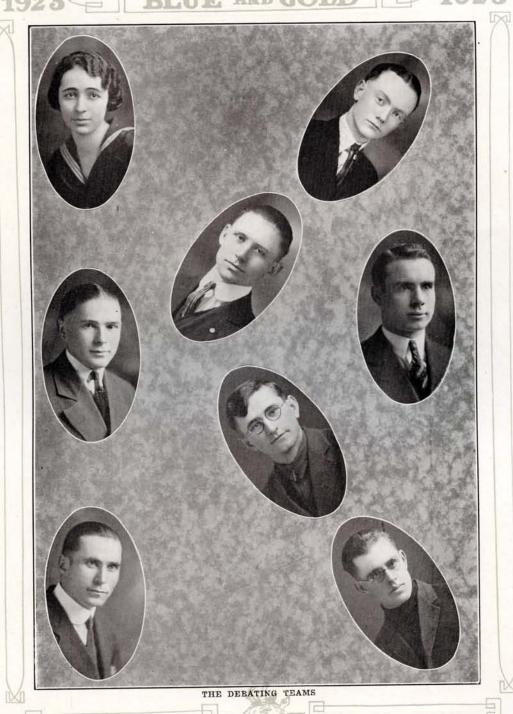

Slightly antedating the selection of the question, a Forensic League was organized in this school. The object of this organization was the promotion and the support of intercollegiate debating. The following officers were elected: Rae Weimer, president; Tillie Rerucha, secretary; Josephine Sadler, treasurer. Professor Phillips was selected as sponsor of the league. Correspondence with other schools was begun immediately by Carro!! Morrow, and the schedule as listed above was made.

Little work by the debating squad was done before Christmas. The tryout held on December 23 failed to provide a complete squad. Volunteers from the debating class stepped into the breach, and immediately after the holidays work was begun in earnest for the coming debates. The members of the squad were: Clark Cullom, Rae Weimer, Laura Rundle, Ross May, Walter McClure, Samuel Forney, Dewey Ganzel and Phil Person.

Several of the experienced debaters of the school found it impossible, because of outside and extra work, to enter the squad. This fact weakened the teams at the beginning, but the inexperienced members made up by hard work what they lacked in practice and soon overcame this disadvantage. Many difficulties had to be met by the team and as the season developed these troubles became almost epidemic. Influenza took its toll of the debaters time and strength, and the concentrated work necessary for the short post season period caused many conflicts with other events, compelling the debaters to sacrifice attendance at other affairs in order to practice from the platform. At the end of the winter term two members of the affirmative team left school and this required rearrangement of team members. Miss Laura Rundle was transferred from the negative team to the affirmative team, where she did work equal to, if not better, than she had done on the negative team. Phil Person then volunteered to fill the remaining vacancy on the affirmative team. Thus the work was carried on without interruption.

The staunch loyalty of the team to the school and their willingness to put forth every effort possible for victory are the outstanding attributes of the 1923 squad. Even as the Roman orator, Cato, ended every speech with the words, "Carthage must be destroyed," so did every member of the teams mentally begin each speech with "Kearney must win."

Theatre Arts' League.

At the opening of the school year in September, the entire constitution was revised, and the former Dramatic Club emerged as the Theatre Arts' League. One of the outstanding features of the new constitution was the limiting of the number of active members to thirty. All above that number who successfully try out for the League are put upon a waiting list to be admitted as soon as practicable.

On January 12, 1923, the League presented the play "Peg O' My Heart," by J. Hartley Manners, featuring Mrs. Pearl Plank. She was ably supported by the following members:

......Mae Livings Mrs. Chichester Ethel, Mrs. Chichester's daughter.....Lillian Hanson Christian Brent Martin Nelson Montgemery Hawkes, solicitor E. Evans Styskal Jerry Charles Sickles Footman Merle Pierce Maid Fern Everett

The entire performance was de'ightful and well presented. Mr. Pelikan aided ir. creating a setting of unusual beauty with his expert lighting effects.

On January 16th the League gave a banquet at the Midway Hotel and initiated the new members. Each initiate was dressed to repre ent an amusing character. Between courses the old members were entertained by various programs furnished by the members being initiated. The following is the cast of characters:

Tillie Rerucha A Circus Rider
Edna Gettys Humpty Dumpty Leonard Fischel Everett True Pluma Curtis Second Hand Rose Lyla Kittle Intelligent Parrot Theresa FrandsenLady Macbeth

Mr. Phillips was a delightful toastmaster. Toasts were given bearing out the idea that "All the World's a Stage They Say." Mr. Phillips spoke on the "Director." Miss Watkin's topic was the "Stage." Miss Rundle, representing the old members, spoke on the "Carpenters." Miss Grandstaff, one of the new members, answered this with her toast on the "Electrician." Mr. Craig spoke on "Cues." Miss Gunnison's subject was "Bouquets."

The Woman's League is the one organization which unites all of the women students in the College. Membership becomes automatic with registration.

The League was organized early in the autumn of 1921. The need for a democratic organization of this kind, through which all of the girls might express themselves, was keenly felt during the rapid growth of the school after it became a Teachers College. The Woman's League was then organized, the constitution drawn up, and a far-seeing program adopted by the unanimous vote of the enthusiastic women students. The League is wisely and ably sponsored by Miss Wirt, Dean of Women.

The object of the organization is to promote social and intellectual activities among the women of the school, to co-operate with the College officials in the regulation of College conventions, to foster the spirit of unity and loyalty to the State Teachers' College at Kearney, and to aid in preparation for greater world

These aims are accomplished by various means. The League sponsors parties and receptions, recommends improvements about the buildings, brings lecturers to the school, and helps in all progressive movements within the College. Two enterprises of which the League is especially proud are the publication and free distribution of the College Handbook to all the students, and the establishment and maintenance of a loan fund. The League membership fees, twenty-five cents from every girl, go into the loan fund, which is now attaining considerable proportions and is enabling several girls to continue their college courses.

Regular meetings of the League are held once each month, and the regular work is carried on by three standing committees. These committees are the school committee, the athletic and social committee, and the regulations committee.

Programs are planned and special work is done by the Council, which is composed of the League officers, the Dean of Women, and representatives from each class and Christian organization, from Green Terrace Hall, from the out-of-town girls, and from the girls who live in Kearney.

One outstanding feature of the program for the year has been the co-operation with the Kearney Wcman's Club. As a result the League members have been graciously entertained in many Kearney homes, and the city Woman's Club, as a group, was entertained at the College by the League. This meeting of the city women and the college girls was most delightful and entertaining, and may be regarded as the first step toward a much closer and mutually helpful co-operation between the two organizations.

The Woman's League stands ready to promote any movement that will make for the progress and the welfare of the student body at Kearney Teachers' College.

There are times when people wonder if the Teachers' College has started a night school. About 6:30 p. m. each Tuesday evening students are seen moving toward the college. They are not hurrying to a class, however. They merely want to be on time for the Rural Club meeting at seven o'clock.

Professor L. B. Sipple, who was at the head of the Rural Department in 1916, sponsored the organization of the Rural Club in the summer of that year. Hans Olsen was elected president and a membership of one hundred students was enrolled. This club now has been functioning for seven years and the summer membership has climbed steadily until in 1922 it reached the two hundred thirty mark. We now find more than one hundred members enrolled during the regular school year.

Our college clubs are usually organized for a purpose that fits in with the serious attitude of teachers-in-training. The Rural Club is no exception to this rule. The members meet and listen to lectures delivered by the best talent that the College affords—President Martin, many of the best teachers, and notable outsiders being invited to speak before the club. These lectures are preceded by readings and musical numbers. The members of the club are called upon to take part in the programs and thus a great amount of latent talent is discovered and developed. An ordinary Tuesday evening's entertainment generally consists of: community singing, led by John Myers; the business meeting; a lecture by some member of the faculty; a vocal or instrumental selection; and one or two readings. The rest of the evening is spent in plays and games under the leadership of Mrs. Powell.

Some of the club's achievements are: the production of the play, Home Ties, in the summer of 1922; the banquet given at Glenwood for the officers and teachers of the affiliated schools and members of the Rural Club; and the substantial aid given to the basket ball tournament held in Kearney in March, 1923.

The club has under consideration a plan to purchase a moving picture machine. This machine would be used to show the people of different districts how their respective communities rank educationally. The members will probably cause these projects to materialize in the near future and it is hoped that the greatest possible good will result from them. Another of the big hopes of the club is the production of a play based upon the theme of school consolidation. This play will be given in communities in which the topic of school consolidation is before the people.

Nearly every Friday night groups of Rural Club members attend meetings of Parent-Teachers Associations and other types of community meetings in the affiliated schools. Participation in such meetings gives prospective rural teachers excellent training for promoting community work in the districts in which they may teach.

The Latin Club has been unurually interesting this year under the very capable leadership of Miss Rundle. The c'ub was organized to give the students a clearer idea of the relationship between the Latin language and the history, life, literature, art and politics of the period in which Latin flourished.

In the papers which have been read before the club, there were many things which were peculiar and amusing, and at once entertaining and educational. The club, besides furnishing entertainment, is invaluable to the student who is specializing in Latin and expects to teach it.

The picture, Julius Caesar, wi'l be presented April 20, as the Latin Club's part of the year's program in College. It is highly recommended by the classical societies of several universities, and promises to be one of the most attractive features of the school year. It is especially appropriate as a Latin Club production because it emphasizes our purpose—to help students appreciate Latin and the history associated with it.

Le Cercle Français was organized in 1919 and is an organization whose purpose is to supplement the work of the class room. It offers additional opportunity for practice in learning and speaking the French language, and for acquiring a broader and more sympathetic understanding of the French people.

The club meets the third Wednesday of every month. The programs consist of stories, games, plays and songs, all of which tend to foster a truly French atmosphere.

The play, Le Malade Imagieniere, by Moliere, presented by Gordon Smith, Edith Kiskalt, Gertrude Toll, Elizabeth Squires, Woodward Burgert, Henri Todd, Ted Olson and Glen Carper, furnished a very interesting and enjoyable convocation program in December.

All French students and others especially interested in French are eligible to membership in the club. Visitors are always very welcome.

Men's Glee Club.

The Men's Glee Club was organized by Miss Una Snidow of the Music Department of K. S. T. C. in September, 1921. The club had a large enrollment and met for practice twice a week.

The object of the G'ee Club is to bring together students who are interested in music and to further develop the appreciation of good music throughout the school.

Many very enjoyable trips were taken to the near-by towns, and the entertainments met with the approval of the public.

In September, 1922, the Men's Glee Club was reorganized under the direction of Professor George H. Aller. Mr. Aller has had tewenty-eight years of practical experience in this line of work and is exceptionally skilled in ensemble drill.

The men have been called upon to sing at various entertainments. The music is always of the best. The concert on February 24 was well given. The boys are making an excellent showing and plans are being made for an eight day trip to be taken in the spring.

Women's Glee Club.

The Women's Glee Club was first organized in 1907. It was successfully conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Grace E. Steadman who sponsored the club until 1920. The work was continued by Miss Una Snidow, head of the Music Department, and in 1921 and '22 the club made an extended trip over the state. A cantata, "The Garden of Flowers," was thoroughly mastered.

In the fall of 1922 Prof. George Aller, former student of G. P. Lamperti, Berlin, and G. Shrigila, Paris, became head of the Music Department. The club, with a membership of more than fifty young ladies, meets twice a week under his direction, and is doing very commendable work. Special attention is given to both solo and concert work.

The organization has taken part in programs in various churches and schools. An evening's program of two parts was successfully given. The first part was composed of songs and special numbers. The second part, "A Dream," took the group around the world in an aeroplane to hear songs of various nations.

The College Band is one of our most useful and indispensable organizations. It affords an opportunity for students who are players of band instruments, to obtain invaluable instruction. Professor B. Usually two public concerts are given during the school year. The band furnishes music for all of the athletic contests.

The following is a specimen program of the annual spring concert given by the State Teachers' College Band, Prof. B. H. Patterson, Conductor, at the auditorium at 8:15 o'clock p. m., Thursday, March 11, 1922:

It is the subject of an exhaustive volume by Ignatius Donnelly, and has also served as inspiration for several novelists. This continent, it is believed, was the home of a great race which conquered and civilized the world. The Azore Islands are considered to be the tops of its lofty mountains and are all that remains above water of the great country.

Synopsis—Evening shades falling, singing of birds, firing of cannon in sundown salute, National Hymn heard in the distance played by band at the fort, flourish of trumpets announcing arrival of Her Majesty Queen Liliuckalani, citizens gathering for festival, group of serenaders (Aloha) Quartette of singers, strumming of Ukalales, Hawaiian popular song, clock striking nine, The Hula Hula Dance, dancing becomes general. The Placing Bureau.

The Teachers' Placing Bureau of the K. S. T. C. was organized in 1919. At that time Prof. H. O. Sutton was chairman of the committee. Aided by Miss Wirt and Prof. M. S. Pate, he gave unqualified and unstinted service to the applicants of the Bureau.

The committee has changed in membership from time to time. This year it has been composed of Dr. Yoakam, chairman, Miss Wirt, Professor Pate and Professor Powell. Although the membership of the committee has changed, the aims and ideals have remained the same.

The Bureau acts as a clearing house for employment. It aids all qualified matriculants of the K. S. T. C. to secure desirable positions. In this way it accomplishes its greatest aim, that of serving the schools of the state in an educational way.

The Bureau's highest ideal is to be truly professional. It discourages any attempt at competition, such as underbidding. It never appoints an applicant until assured that the applicant is fitted for the position, and but one person is appointed at a time to any one position.

Dr. Yoakam with characteristic aptness has embodied the ideals and aims of the Bureau in the following statement: "It is the purpose of this institution to educate the student for his life work; it is our purpose to give the student a chance to use that education.

BLUE AND GOLD

Football 1922.

The curtain for the 1922 football season raised and disclosed a squad of thirty-eight huskies with Coach Fulmer in charge and Fisher, assistant. Prospects for a winning team were never better at the K. S. T. C. with ten letter men and a host of other promising material on the field.

The season opened on the home field when our warriors faced Nebraska Central. The heat was intense and because of lack of training, Coach Fulmer was forced to substitute freely. However our gladiators emerged from the fray with the leng end of a 20 to 0 score.

For the next game our boys went to Hastings to battle with the Bronchos. Both teams fought hard but neither was able to push the pigskin across the goal line for a score. Several times the Blue and Gold warriors were within striking distance, only to lose the ball in the shadow of their own goal posts.

Grand Island then invaded the Antelope territory and took the game with a score of 13 to 0. The Zebras were of a more or less pugilistic nature and our boys, unused to such tactics, were forced to play against overwhelming odds. Fate seemed to be against our boys and the Antelopes were unable to make a touchdown. Grand Island was later forced to forfeit the game because of playing ineligible men. However, it must be conceded they had a strong team for they defeated Wesleyan and held Midland to a scoreless tie.

The fourth game was with our sister institution at Peru. The Antelopes presented such a strong defense that the Peruvians were forced to resort to passing. Thus they were able to score two touchdowns. The Antelopes succeeded in getting within a foot of a touchdown, when they fumbled and the referee decided that the ball should go to the opponents. The final score stood 12 to 0 against the Antelopes, but the Peru warriors had just cause for rejoicing.

Kearney came back strong in the next game, defeating York by a score of 26 to 0. Our boys were greatly handicapped, having made the trip in cars. The cars did not all arrive at the same time, and the game started with several first string men out. The Antelopes made one touchdown during the first half, but were "warmed up" somewhat for the second half and consequently pushed the oval across three times. The York team was to be commended for their glorious defeat. They tried their best to score and never gave up until the final whistle blew.

In the next game Kearney again showed her battling strength by defeating the fast Chadron eleven by a score of 15 to 7. In this game several of our strongest players were out; but not to be daunted our boys set to work and displayed such a style of football that they were able to overthrow their opponents. The Chadron Eagles should not be misjudged, for they too played a wonderful brand of football.

HOMER KUMMER, Fullback, Kearney—Pete captained the team this year with great success. He won honorable mention as all State Fullback. We hope to see Pete with us next season.

REX REED, Tackle, Stockville—This staunch and sturdy player tore holes in the opponent's line that netted many a gain for Kearney. Rex was chosen as all State Tackle this year. He captains the team next year.

THEODORE OLSON, Quarterback, Kearney—Ted as quarterback was a constant instigator of our enemy's downfall. He directed the plays in a masterful way and did his share in carrying the ball.

RAYMOND DONDLINGER, Left Half, Geneva—Dolly played the left half position. He made himself a whirlwind of trouble for the other side. His line plunges are deserving of special mention and he was as good a man on the defense.

LESTER DILLOW, Right Half, Kearney—We have with us Lester Dillow, the fighting halfback who hails from the south. Lester was remarkably swift at this position, having strength and nerve that is to be feared by any opposing player. This is Lester's second year at the College and he promises to be in the line when the whistle blows next fall.

CLAUDE SMITH, Guard, North Platte—Claude was one of the men who constantly tore big holes in the opponent's line and who brought big gains for Kearney. We are undoubtedly losing this year one of the best guards in the State.

EARL COCHRANE, Guard, Stockville—Buck was another of those "tearem-up" line men. He was a persistent player all the time.

PAT PANEK, End, Kearney—Pat played a sterling game at right end, catching passes. His defensive work was excelled by few.

HERBERT WELTE, Tackle, David City—Herbert filled the position at right tackle. He has played a steady hard-fought game, which was worthy of mention.

GEORGE REED, Center, Stockville—Reed, our center, was a stone wall in the line. With 180 pounds of muscle George made many a pyramid for the opposing team. He was placed on the all State second team at center.

EARNEST STEPHENS, End, Kearney—Steve gets his full credit as being an excellent man on end.

PUDGE BRANSON, Center, Kearney—Pudge played part time at center and guard. He passed the ball well and played a very hard game.

JACK HOLLAND, Halfback, Iowa—Holland is one of our new men. Because of injuries received Jack did not get into the game very much. He promises to be a fast man in the back field next year.

EDWARD STYSKAL, Tackle, David City—Ed deserves mention for being an earnest football player. He fought all the time and played a clean game.

BASKET BALL TEAM

Basket Ball.

Kearney opened its season of basket ball with Hastings by a defeat of 25 to 19. The game was one-sided the first half, but in the second half Kearney came back with an almost sweeping victory, making 15 points. The absence of two regular men was the probable cause of the Antelope's defeat.

On January 25 the Antelopes won their first conference game from Midland College with a score of 27 to 19. The game was a complete walk-away for Kearney. Every man starred. Kummer and Dillow played a good defensive game, while Holland, Clinite and Dondlinger worked a good offensive.

Our quintet journeyed to Doane where they met with defeat at the hands of the fast Doane team. The next night another defeat was handed to the Antelopes by last year's champions. The Peruvians were too much for our boys the first half, but the second half was an even go. The game ended 28 to 9.

Coming back strong the next week, the Antelopes surprised Grand Island by winning to the tune of 26 to 22. The game featured close guarding on both sides, but on account of the small floor most of the goals were made by long field throws.

Doane College made a return visit and expected to win by an easy margin, but the Antelopes were too much for them. The exceptionally good work of Kummer kept the Doane quintet from piling up a large score. At the end of the game the score was 55 to 26 in the Antelope's favor.

The team played Cotner University on her home floor the following week. The Bulldogs put up a hard fight, but were unable to stop the Antelopes. At the end of the first half, the score stood 20 to 10 in Kearney's favor. The Bulldogs made a strong come back in the remaining half, although not quite enough to take the honors. This victory placed Kearney third in the conference.

The Hastings boys, who had previously won from the Antelopes, met their defeat on Kearney's floor in a fast, exciting game. Pettijohn starred for the locals, shooting six field goals the first half. The game ended 25 to 13 with the Hastings team wondering how it was so easily defeated.

The Cotner Bulldogs played their return game on February 23. Cotner scored the first goal. It was not long until the fast Kearney quintet showed their metal and piled up 24 points to Cotner's 7 at the end of the first half. The second half was a repetition of scores for both sides. The game ended 41 to 15. The team as a whole played a starring game. Clinite showed accuracy in shooting long field goals.

On March 7, the Kearney boys lost a hard-fought game with the Peruvians.

The last regular games were played at Chadron on March 9 and 10.

The following men participated in the conference games: Lester Dillow, Captain, Chuck Clinite, Raymond Dondlinger, Pat Panek, Melvin Holland, Earnest Stephens, Chas. Neale, Rex Reed, Hugh Pettijohn, Homer Kummer and Glen Hardin.

"HAVE A HEART" PARTY

"Have a Heart" Party.

The annual all school party sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. occurred Saturday, February 3, in the gymnasium. Promptly at seven-thirty the guests began to arrive. When the doors were opened, a bower of beauty was revealed. Myriads of red and white lanterns, butterflies and balloons were suspended from the ceiling. This was a work of ingenuity and art. Stationed around the room were booths: here you could get your "hearts" mended and your future foretold. Strains of music issued from the Hawaiian booth, and from the corner where the orchestra was seated. A chamber of horrors, where one experienced many thrills, and a bowling alley, where your reward was given to you in hearts, received liberal patronage. One of the prettiest features of the evening was a Valentine dance by Vivian Bennett, followed by the grand march led by Dr. and Mrs. Yoakam.

Just before the announcement that "the tea room is now open to the guests," a flash light picture was taken of the merry group.

The guests were directed to the room which was indeed a fairy land. The color scheme used was salmon and green. These colors were intertwined with morning glories. The waitresses were dainty and charming in their Japanese costumes. They served brick ice cream with heart decorations.

Reception in Honor of Chadron Team.

The "All School Party," given in the gym in honor of the football team of the S. T. C. at Chadron, was one of the most distinctive social events of the College.

Promptly at 7:30 about five hundred guests and students directed their way to the place of festivities. While the orchestra played, every one became well acquainted by matching appropriate footballs. Mr. and Mrs. Powell then led the grand march, ending with a complete circle which gave all an excellent location for the musical program which followed..

The program consisted of a vocal solo by Mr. Patterson, a trombone solo by Carroll Anderson, and a whistling solo by Mr. Burton. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing the Virginia reel and other circle games, with Mr. Rae Weimer as master of ceremonies.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was artistically decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and the beloved blue and gold. At ten o'clock the orchestra played "Good Night Ladies," and all agreed that true college spirit had been shown by every N. S. T. C. student.

IMMORTAL WOIDS.

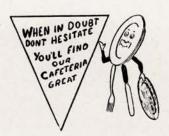

Water is a wonderful blessing,
Cood for washing necks and ears,
Just the thing for lakes and rivers,
Indispensable for concrete piers;
Nice to park beneath the bridges,
Swell for making rain and ink,
Water is a wonderful blessing,
But it makes a h——— of a drink.

Walter McClure: "Yessir, I've carried that joke all the way from my home town forty miles from here."

Joke Editor: "Well, all that I can say is that you carried the joke too far."

A student at K. S. T. C., in need of $25, wrote to his uncle as follows:

"Dear Uncle: If you could see how I blush for shame while I'm writing, you would pity me. Do you know why? Because I have to ask for a few dollars and I do not know how to express myself. It is impossible for me to tell you. I almost prefer death. I send you this message by a messenger who will wait for an answer. Believe me, my dear Uncle,

Your most loving and obedient Nephew.

P. S.—Overcome with shame for what I have written, I have been running after the messenger in order to take the letter from him, but I cannot catch him. Heaven grant that something may happen to stop him or that this letter may get lost."

The uncle was naturally touched, but was equal to the emergency. He replied as follows:

"My Dear Nephew: Control yourself and blush no more. Providence has heard your prayer. The messenger lost the letter.

Your Affectionate Uncle."

"Cut that out!" yelled Earl Patten, as the doctor grabbed his appendix.

Our Country and History

The accusation is often thrown at us by visitors from across the sea that we are a country without a history, without traditions, and we Americans, absorbed in business, complacently let such accusations go unchallenged.

Yet our country teems with history of the most poignant, romantic and constructive kind. Our history is short, but vibrant and decisive; our early struggles with the Indians; our Revolutionary War that made us a Nation; the migration West; Gettysburg, and every step in our history has made for progress.

The history of our Stores has also been rapid, but like that of our Nation, it has been successful and constructive.
