Nippy weather only brought out the gusto in these students' voices, as they serenade all passers-by. Harriett Conger, Agnes Hawthorne, and Dora Mae McGrew handle the feminine tones, while Don Wise, Paul Baker, Don Jester, and Glenn Reinertson give out with male harmony.

While September winds blew outside, students such as these returned to college, and stood in seemingly endless lines. However, Elinor Cook and Betty Marcellus know that the wait is almost over as they reach the registrar's window.

In May, seniors Helen Dailey and Gerald Richter saw a dream come true, as they headed for commencement and well-earned diplomas.

FALL

FALL BROUGHT BIG MOMENTS . . . the day you paid your last dime to the bursar, but college was worth it, wasn't it? . . .

. . . and remember the way you carted your radio to school, just to see if the Dodgers or the Yanks would win. . . .

. . . then the night you held your breath along with Donna Neal, as she was crowned Homecoming Queen by President Cushing.

THE call of "Hi" across the lawn, as old friends reunite . . . The shy "Hello" of freshmen as they embark on a college friendship . . . A Homecoming worthy of the name . . . A blazing campfire, and a pledge of renewed devotion . . . The rustle of leaves on a technicolor campus . . . The appearance of mittens and earmuffs as midsemester exams draw near . . . A football trip by air . . . FALL UNLOCKED THE FIRST DOOR, AND REVEALED A GREAT COLLEGE.

"There is something in the autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood;
And my heart is keeping rhyme,
With the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time."
Bliss Carman

"Wintry boughs against a wintry sky;
Yet the sky is partly blue—"
Christina Rossetti

A VESPER service by candle-light . . . The feverish haste of completing a Christmas Carnival idea . . . The pinning of a pledge ribbon . . . A crowded gymnasium, standing to see the Antelopes in action . . . Debate tourneys held near and far, and Kearney in the midst of all . . . The scent of corsages, marking the date of a formal affair . . . A campus shrouded in white . . . WINTER TURNED THE MIND TO LOVE AND BROTHERHOOD.

WINTER HELD BEAUTY . . . unnoticed before, until that first snow, and then you gazed with awe at the picture Nature painted with the Administration Building as her subject . . .

. . . as you mailed your letter home, you wished Christmas would be as beautiful as Case Hall was this morning . . .

. . . duty is duty, even on a nippy morning at Men's Hall. This fellow probably regretted the night's snow, although it made a beautiful picture.

Spring

SPRING CAME . . . and found you cramming for finals in the library just as Marjory Hewitt and Edward Harvey were. . . .

. . . however, classes were far from your mind as you headed down the avenue after a full afternoon. . . .

. . . before you could hardly believe it, you were graduated, and leaving Case Hall, your college home for four years, as Marjorie Soderholm and Frances Hurdle could tell you.

THE busy whirl of college life, as we scheduled events for every waking moment . . . The lazy, warm spring days, as we turned down a book for an afternoon of loafing . . . The farewells of seniors, looking strange in cap and gown . . . The realization that another year was over, for some, the end of school; for others, only the beginning, but for all, SPRING REVEALED A WIDER VISTA OF KNOWLEDGE.

"Eternal Spring, with smiling Verdure here Warms the mild air, and crowns the youthful year."

FALL.

BETHINE JOHN
BARBARA BRYANT

The story of fall includes all the typical things, such as Homecoming, football, and Sadie Hawkins Day, plus the very essential, but not really seasonal, faculty and freshmen.

HERBERT L. CUSHING

Directors

Many yearbook staffs have endeavored to put the personality of our college president on paper. They have probably succeeded in their attempts as much as anyone could in beginning such a momentous job. We realize our inadequacy when we begin to tell you of President Cushing, for you know the kind of man he is.

To say that Mr. Cushing is an administrator is correct. To say that he is a manager, a planner, to say that he sees the future of our college, to say that he is a friend of teachers and students, would be correct. However, more than any of these badges of integrity, Mr. Cushing should be known as an educator.

President Cushing received his A.B. degree from the Grand Island College, his M.A. degree from the University of Chicago, and the University of Nebraska. The Nebraska Wesleyan University conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Education.

Because of his powerful speeches on school and national policies, his "Lotus Lattice" poem in the faculty skit, his able direction in all matters of school interest, we are proud to say "There goes 'Our President.'"

Although President Cushing proved his prowess with the biscuit cutter, his worries were over on that score, as he discussed menus with Mrs. Anna Thompson.

Once again the President was leaving on business, whether to contact new teachers or to discuss business with colleagues, we do not know.

Supreme

Active participants in the State Normal Board's items of business were President Cushing, E. L. Randall, President Nicholas of Peru, Ralph Carhart, president of the board, Beverly Haxby, A. D. Majors, Bertha I. Hill, and President Morey of Wayne.

The unsung heroes of the education field are members of the State Board of Education, who take time out from their business to meet and discuss the problems of the four state teachers colleges. No salaries are paid these public officials, they are not backed by any political party, thus their concern is always centered on the four schools they serve.

The oldest member on the board, from the point of service, was Edgar Ferneau, who passed away Friday, December 5, 1947. He was 76 years of age at the time of his death. Mr. Ferneau had served the board since 1931. During this time, he was chairman of the legislative committee, and also one-time president of the board. While his profession was that of an attorney, Mr. Ferneau also found time to act as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

Perhaps Mr. Ferneau's greatest service to the board was the proposal he presented to the legislature of 1921 that established the State Board of Education as a constitutional body. This resolution provided for a board of seven members, six of which are appointed by the governor, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who becomes a member by virtue of his office. Each member serves a term of six years, and his office is not retractable because of political reasons.

E. D. Crites, a Chadron attorney, has served the board for three terms. Among his many interests is the Masonic Lodge, in which he has attained a high degree.

Ralph Carhart is noted as being a man of substantial business knowledge, and has gained much respect because of his success in his lumberyard at Wayne.

A hometown man, E. L. Randall has a background of the educational problems of the colleges because he is a graduate of Nebraska State Teachers College, and has also served as superintendent of schools at Bladen. A. D. Majors of Omaha has almost inherited his post on the board. His uncle, Colonel Thomas Majors, served on the board for many years.

The wise and judicious counsel of Mrs. Bertha I. Hill is much appreciated by board members as they seek the story of college, not only from the business angle, but also from the viewpoint of a mother. Mrs. Hill is noted for her work with the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Wayne O. Reed, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has proved his value to the board by being a man of action and ideas.

Another generation of NSJC'ers, known as the class of '51, took its place among the assortment of geniuses and social queens already in school.

Coordinating the efforts of the training school with the general purposes of the college, constituted the main duties of Mr. Del Danker. Mr. Danker also aided the college with his work as head of the Placement Bureau, a college service to all students looking for a teaching position.

Under the direction of Mr. Harvey Cole and Mr. Joseph Bowes, a veterans' counseling service is provided here on the college campus. This counseling service is specially adapted to predicting the type of vocation a veteran is interested in, and his aptitude and ability in that vocation. The tests that these two men spend their time giving are very extensive, and cover every possible type of question.

By popular election fourteen students, representatives of each class, take their places as Student Council members.

Whether the announcement was a dance, a pep rally, or a convo, Bill Long was explaining the whole deal.

Council members met informally every Monday evening to conduct numerous items of business.

In keeping with the NSJC romance ratio of the year, which is three to one in favor of the males, again the feminine sex finds itself in the minority. The male-female ratio on the council this year is six to one. However, you can rest assured that the women held their own.

The Student Council, headed by "Big" Bill Long and assisted by Dean "Skeet" Nicholson in the roles of president and vice president respectively, has accomplished much in the way of providing a well-rounded college program.

Recognizing the need for more school spirit and a new pep organization to back the team, the first major undertaking of this group was the organization of the Buck and Doe Clubs last fall. Roland Welch, faculty advisor of the Student Council, also took on the sponsorship of the Buck Club, the pep organization for men. Remember, he was the first to sport the organization's hat of gold corduroy, trimmed with a blue "Buck" hat band.

Homecoming was the next event which called for their planning and direction. Along with the afternoon football game they sponsored a parade down Central Avenue which proved to be the biggest and best in the history of the school. They also offered prizes to the organization that could set up the best campus display depicting the victory of the Kearney Antelopes over the Wayne Wildcats. A Homecoming Queen was coronated at the dance that evening, and the Student Council presented her with a football necklace.

Numerous other dances highlighted the year because of the council's sponsorship. Dances followed football games for collegiates who sought entertainment after the game, and on those few Friday nights when nothing else was going on, the council again invited students to an "all-college dance in the gym."

For those who liked to follow the team, the council chartered buses, so the student body could watch the team play on the opponent's field.

Sadie Hawkins' week has become an annual social event on our campus because of the council's sponsorship. For one week all smokes, cokes, and coffee were furnished by the girls, and it all ended in a Dogpatch dance, where prizes were awarded for the best costumes of the evening.

There was no one to operate the Campus Cave this year, so again the student council members added one more responsibility to their list. "Big" Bill Long and Dick Hock did the actual behind-the-counter work.

More planning was necessary on the part of the Student Council when army surplus buildings were moved onto the campus to serve as a temporary student union. It was up to them to decide just how the space would be utilized.

At their meetings on Monday evenings at 5:15, the council often got into heated arguments and debates, but always seemed to present new and better ideas for improving our college.

The guardians of seven hundred students are kept extremely busy, answering phone calls, sending notices, writing letters, and a hundred other duties that seem to fit themselves to the term "dean."

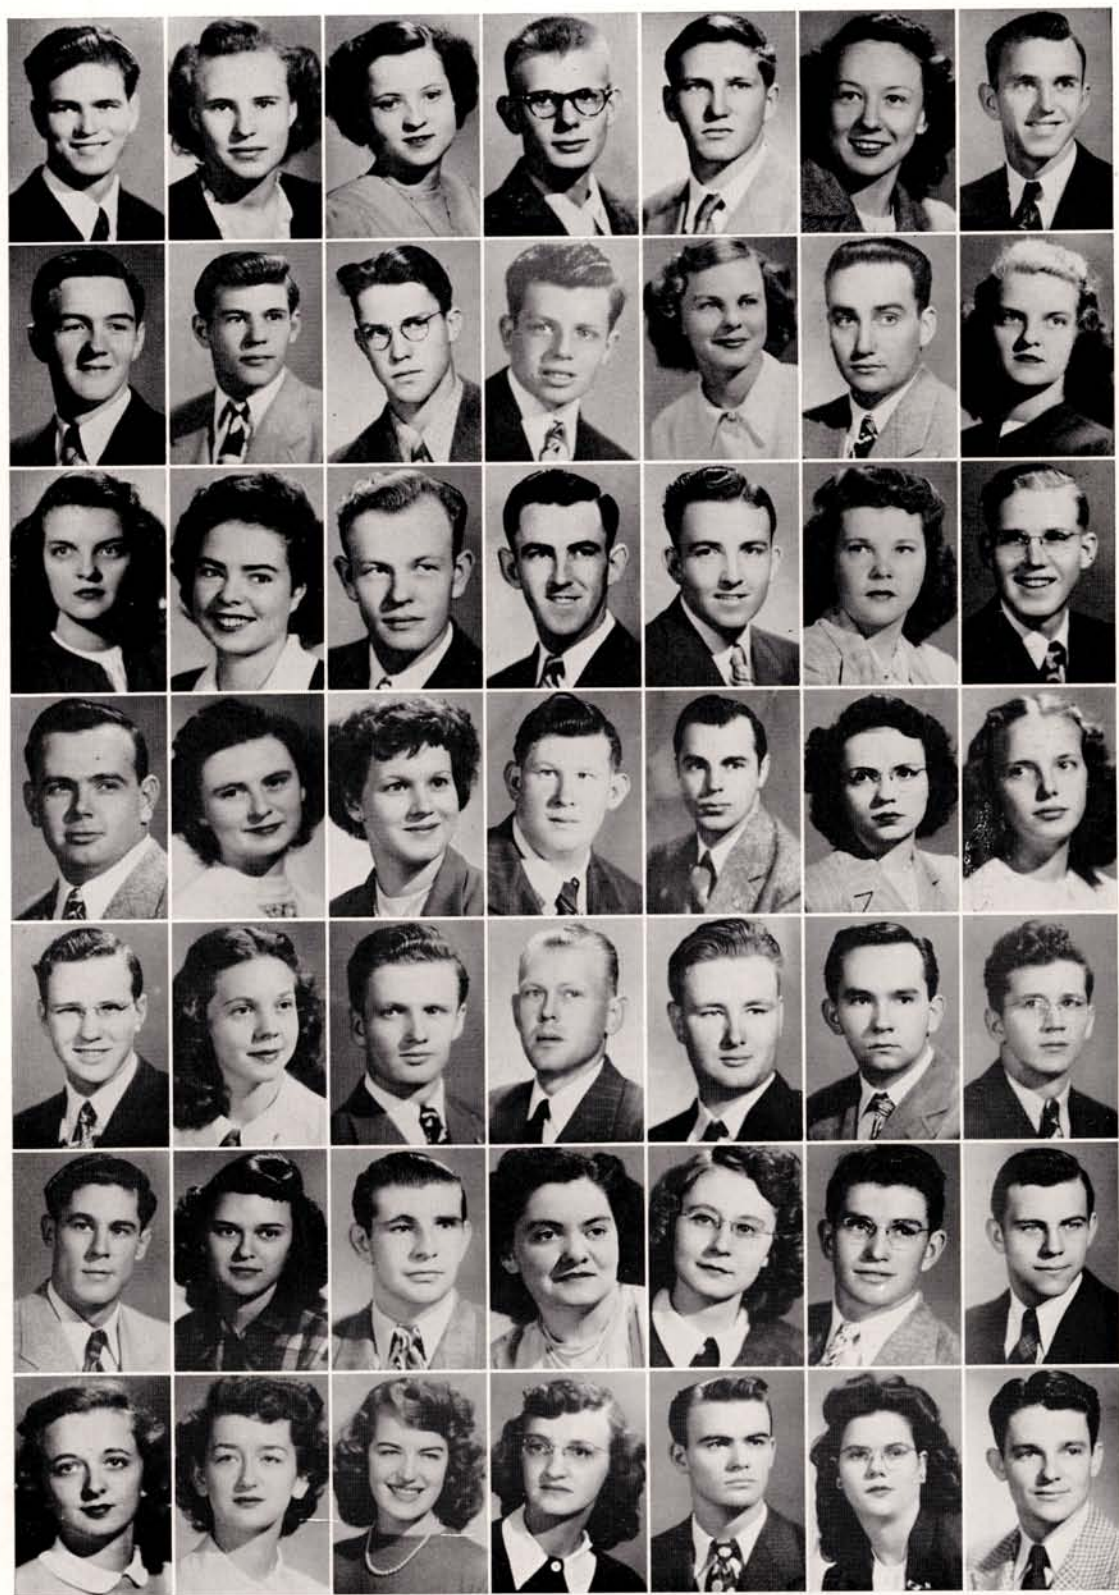

The sponsorship of men's and women's league, as well as their respective councils, also occupied the thoughts of both Miss Robinson and Mr. Stutheit, as they planned interesting programs for the members.

1947 Homecoming activities began Friday evening with a snake dance and bonfire sponsored by the Buck and Doe clubs. Saturday morning the Deltas and Sigmas entertained alumni at their annual luncheons; whereas, the Zetas had their reunion in the evening.

The parade from the depot to the football field began at 12:30, and most of the campus organizations decorated floats for the procession. Vets' Village won the ten Homecoming events were climaxed at the dance Saturday night when Donna Neal, Odessa senior, was crowned Homecoming Queen by Herbert L. Cushing, college president. The coronation was followed by a grand march led by the queen.

Autumn 47 . . . found couples, gangs, and interested parties crowding old NSTC'S stadium . . . remember? Nor was all in vain for home games ended in victories, but games away were not as successful, and these dropped us to fifth place. All in all, it was a fine season climaxed by fairness, honesty, and square-shooting on our part. Even without the championship berth, fun, experience, and comradeship are more our goal than a professional rating.

Kearney 26-York- 6

A powerful reserve force was the key to the Antelope's impressive score against the York Panthers, and although the score was uneven, the game was more hotly contested than indicated. Already the stiff opposition from a comparatively weak team made the fact clear that the NCC 1947 football championship team would have to be resourceful and carefully work its budget out in cunningness, mentality, and brute force, with some luck thrown in for good measure. Some impressive Antelope cagers included Hauver, Osborn, Augustyn, and Harding.

Kearney 24-Hastings 7

Although definitely outplayed according to statistics, how can you explain our 24-7 victory? It is rumored that Coach Foster had a rabbit's foot well concealed the evening of September 26, and it might have been so. The first score came after Rumbaugh juggled

One of the factors behind Kearney's driving line was the powerful reserve force.

Hauver displayed a fighting spirit, as did the entire team, even though we lost to a plunging Wesleyan eleven.

The brains behind the outfit were Coaches Foster and Copeland.

Kearney was stopped cold by a clicking Wesleyan team.

a pass from center, couldn't kick, so simply ran it 21 yards. From here, line driving led to the first tally. Another 28 yard pass to Korte heightened the score. After these setbacks, and the bucking of our immovable forward wall, the Broncos were soon discouraged with head-on drives into the line, and they resorted to an aerial offensive. Quick thinking and acting on our part turned these evil prongs into Hastings and we scored standing up with two intercepted passes.

Chadron 7-Kearney 6

"We were robbed," was the cry of our boys and spectators. Even the striped shirts admitted one other touchdown was legal, and that Chadron should have had a few penalties against Kearney's unheard of total of 200 yards. This poorly refereed game snatched us from our top perch and both our championship hopes and spirits were lowered. Our only score came on a 36 yard Hauver to Korte pass, early in the game. It appeared the Antelopes might win on this slim margin, but in the fourth, Butterfield tossed to Colerik for a touchdown. The extra point defeated us.

Wesleyan 13-Kearney 0

The Wesleyanites seemed demon possessed as they lugged the pigskin before their own homecoming crowd. Our own heavy line was penetrated again and again as the Plainsmen ground down the field. A poor Kearney punt bounced out of bounds on the Antelope 26. From this, line driving produced the first tally for Wesleyan with only three and one-half minutes gone in the game. Several times Kearney rallied, but couldn't quite reach the goal line. The second touchdown came for Wesleyan from an intercepted pass carried to the Kearney 38. From here, White and Bacon alternated the running until another six points were added.

Kearney 34- Sterling, Kansas 0

The Antelopes, in topnotch shape, won a convincing 34-0 frolic from Sterling, Kansas eleven. Our southern neighbors were completely routed by strong Antelope forces that entirely dominated the field. Long runs and pass interceptions were the highlights of this engagement. Big feature of the contest was a 75 yard run by Keith Weiderspan in the last three seconds of the game. Some excellent blocking also allowed Hauver to turn in another 76 yard touchdown punt return.

Antelope men proved to be worthy of our following both at the Homecoming game against Wayne, and the southern jaunt to battle the Roswell, New Mexico Army team.

Kearney 0—Midland 0

Again the Midland-Kearney game was played under the severest of conditions, as the two teams battled it out for four scoreless quarters in mud and rain. Our only scoring chance came after moving to the five yard line, first and five to go. In three plays we picked up only two yards, and Conway was instructed to kick. The ball would have been good, had it not been for a treacherous side wind that caused it to veer over to the left of the bars. The Warriors did not get inside the Antelope thirty yard stripe.

Doane 3—Kearney 0

The Antelopes fell prey to the Doane Tigers and to sixth place in the loop standings. The contest was played on a muddy, spiritless field, and would have ended in a scoreless deadlock had it not been for the trusty toe of Hugh Morrison. Three times the Tigers were backed to their own goal line, but each time they managed to bog down the determined Antelope attacks. At one time in the game Bob Hauver intercepted a Doane pass, but slipped on the 15 yard line, and our best scoring chance was quelled.

Kearney 14—Wayne 0

A well-played game greeted the more than two thousand homecoming fans, as they sat through two hours of damp, miserable weather. The field was wet and soggy, and for a considerable time the playing took place between the 30 yard lines. Five minutes before the half, Hauver nipped a mild scoring threat by bagging a Wayne aerial and scampered to the Wildcat's own five before being dropped. From here Augustyn carried it over. Our second touchdown nucleized on a bungle from Wayne's center. An overthrow was pounced on, and a pass to Korte and several drives from Ryan and Hauver took it across. Dan Conway kicked the extra point.

Kearney 14—Peru 6

The Bobcats received no pampering or mothering as the Antelopes immediately started hammering for the goal line, and very soon had seven points to their credit. This, however, did not cause the Peruvians to lose heart, and in the opening minutes of the half, an explosive 60 yard run put the game on an even basis again. Second quest for another touchdown came from an intercepted pass by Nye. Successive runs with the prolific yardage of 13, 12, 10, and 13, with almost perfect blocking put the Kearneyites on scoring ground.

Kearney 27 Roswell, New Mexico 13

For the first time it was our privilege to travel to Roswell, New Mexico. Pilgrimage by air transport made this after season game more glamorous than ever. It was one of the best played games, if not the best, since Coach Foster has been here. With the precision of an adding machine, the boys went to work on the Bombers, and every man did a marvelous job. No Antelope men were exceptional stand outs, all played good ball. The only really gloomy thought we brought back was our occupation of fifth place in the conference. With a team like the one in New Mexico, fifth place just doesn't fit.

Although a baby organization on the campus, the Doe Club gained a large membership devoted to supporting the team. The effect of the strengthened cheering section improved Kearney's school spirit like a shot in the arm. Interests in sports increased, while Doe members sponsored an intensive drive for members.

The Doe Club, sponsored by the Student Council, was born when that organization sensed the need for a rousing pep organization. Miss Carrie Ludden, former sponsor of the Pep Club, consented to continue as sponsor of the new organization. With her cooperation and the constant backing of the Student Council, the college witnessed a new organization with the pep and steam of an old-timer.

Doe Clubbers did not confine their interest to the field of sports alone. They could be seen in full force at the Homecoming Parade, they managed to get things accomplished for the Christmas Carnival, beside ushering for all important social events.

The blue hat with the yellow band became something traditional on the campus when looking for fun and zip. Does could be found sitting together at all sporting events, practically outcheering all others, even though smaller in number. Does could be found leading the cheers on the main floor at the basketball games—in fact, Does could be, and were, found most everywhere.

Bigshot of the Does was Beverly Austin, Franklin junior. Beverly rounded up the girls for their infrequent business meetings, and took a large share of the responsibility.

The 1947 Student Council can claim its share of credit for the Doe Club, since it was originally their brainstorm. But, regardless of who thought of it, the Doe Club is a credit to the school, as it cheers the team to another Kearney victory.

Providing the masculine tone in pep at Kearney was the Buck Club. Under those yellow hats with the flashy band, were fellows ready to go the last mile for good old NSTC. Don Wise, chief Buck, led the gang into turning out to the last member for all games. Bucks, in order to get a better glimpse of the Does, sat directly across from them at all basketball games.

Roland Welsh, sponsor of the organization, instigated large scale school spirit through his cooperation and loyalty. The Bucks, originating at the same time as the Does, were also sponsored by the Student Council.

For many years, men have left the cheering entirely up to the girls. It seems they either thought it was a girl's job, or that their bass voices were not made to say "rah." The organization of the Buck Club proved both these assumptions to be false, as we revived the lagging school spirit through both of these newborn organizations.

Coordination of the Bucks and Does was the purpose of this meeting of Beverly Austin and Don Wise.

Take Your Choice

Ted Jameson howls as Miss Elliott tweaks his prize-winning beard.

What looked like police round-ups were really the winning contestants in the Sadie Hawkins costume race.

"I'm ketched!" was the mournful cry of many a Kearney male as the annual Sadie Hawkins week rolled around. Eligible bachelors were tagged with orange "ketched" signs, and although their cokes, smokes, and coffee were paid for during this week by their female escorts, precious freedom was lost for five whole days.

Admission to the Friday night dance was two cents for every inch of a couple's waists combined, which amounted to a considerable expense for some NSTC lassies.

Geraldine Innes made certain of her Thanksgiving turkey. She was the lucky winner of the turkey raffle, sponsored by the junior class.

Karolyn Bohy and Paul Wilmot won the prize for being the most typical Dogpatch couple. Paul appeared in long underwear and a white beard, while Karolyn wore a gunny sack.

Faculty wives Mrs. Donald Fox and Mrs. Harry Hoffman made the decision that Ted College students could look better, but at a Sadie Hawkins Dance, who wants to?

It looked as though Barbara Bryant was determined to catch a man, as she races for Kenny McCord.

Ronald Kenney didn't have a fighting chance, since he was "ketch" by two women.

Jameson had grown the longest whiskers for the occasion.

Gordon Hansen and Victor Shada, posing as Hairless Joe and Lonesome Polecat, tied for the single man's prize—one carton of cigarettes.

Kickapoo joy juice was served to the dancers by council members. The vat, located at one end of the floor, was one of the most popular resting places for the tired Dogpachers. Incidentally, the floor had precedence over chairs when students sat.

While others did the Turkey Trot, Gerry Innes had the real thing.

There was quite the "contrast" when Vic Shada, Shirley Meline, and Gordon Hansen sat this one out.

"This is the Nebraska State Teachers College at Kearney, presenting another of their daily programs, originating in the campus studio." These are those you heard.

Jeannette Harrison interviewed Mr. Harold Ahrendts, director of student broadcasts, on her regular program.

Larry Martin was a man you heard little from, but who did much toward the success of the broadcasts.

One of the highlights of the curriculum was the daily half-hour radio broadcast from the campus studio in the second floor of the administration building. According to a report from the speech department, the radio features of this college rate above those of most of our rivals.

Students participated in every phase of radio work, from running the controls to typing the script for the afternoon program. A variety of shows were broadcast. Anything from music to interviews gave the program a high Hooper rating in the community.

Throughout the first semester, some of the well-known entertainers were Ella Mae Sizer, Jack Becker, and Cathryn Spelts. The girls' trio composed of Ruth Stenjem, Gloria Bruner, and Merrylyu Evans also had a large following.

To be informed, listen to the Antelope of the Air.

Every Friday, The Antelope of the Air, Kearney's first radio program, gave to the public the highlights of the week at college. This program was under the direction of Mr. Calvin T. Ryan. The remainder of the week's events were handled by Mr. Harold Ahrendts.

In addition to the regular programs, classes in radio received instruction in the fundamentals, so they might be prepared for actual work in the radio workshop. Mr. James Harding, second semester speech instructor, also participated in the daily broadcasts.

"Marimba Melodies" were furnished the public by Don Jester and Margaret King.

Hal Saum was high on every coed's hit parade. Fern Nelson provided the musical background.

Tuesday deadlines . . . A "Big Scoop" in the front hall . . . "No-News Blues" . . . these were the Antelopemen's worries . . . yes, and our worries too.

Joan Althouse, Jeannette Harrison, Don Atwater, and Gloria Bruner supplied the features.

Big business seemed to occupy the time of Barc Wade, first semester Antelope editor.

Second semester chieftains were Don Jester and Keith Jorgensen.

On Friday, at any hour, you can see students hovering around a table piled high with papers. This table is situated outside a door which has a sign painted with the words "Antelope Office," and the papers are the Antelope, the college weekly newspaper.

This newspaper comes off the press on Friday, and it contains news of all the campus activities. It has special features on campus personalities and a page devoted entirely to sports. Some of the well known columns are DDT, Breezin' Bout; Campus Tactics; Roamin' Round; and Scientifically Speaking.

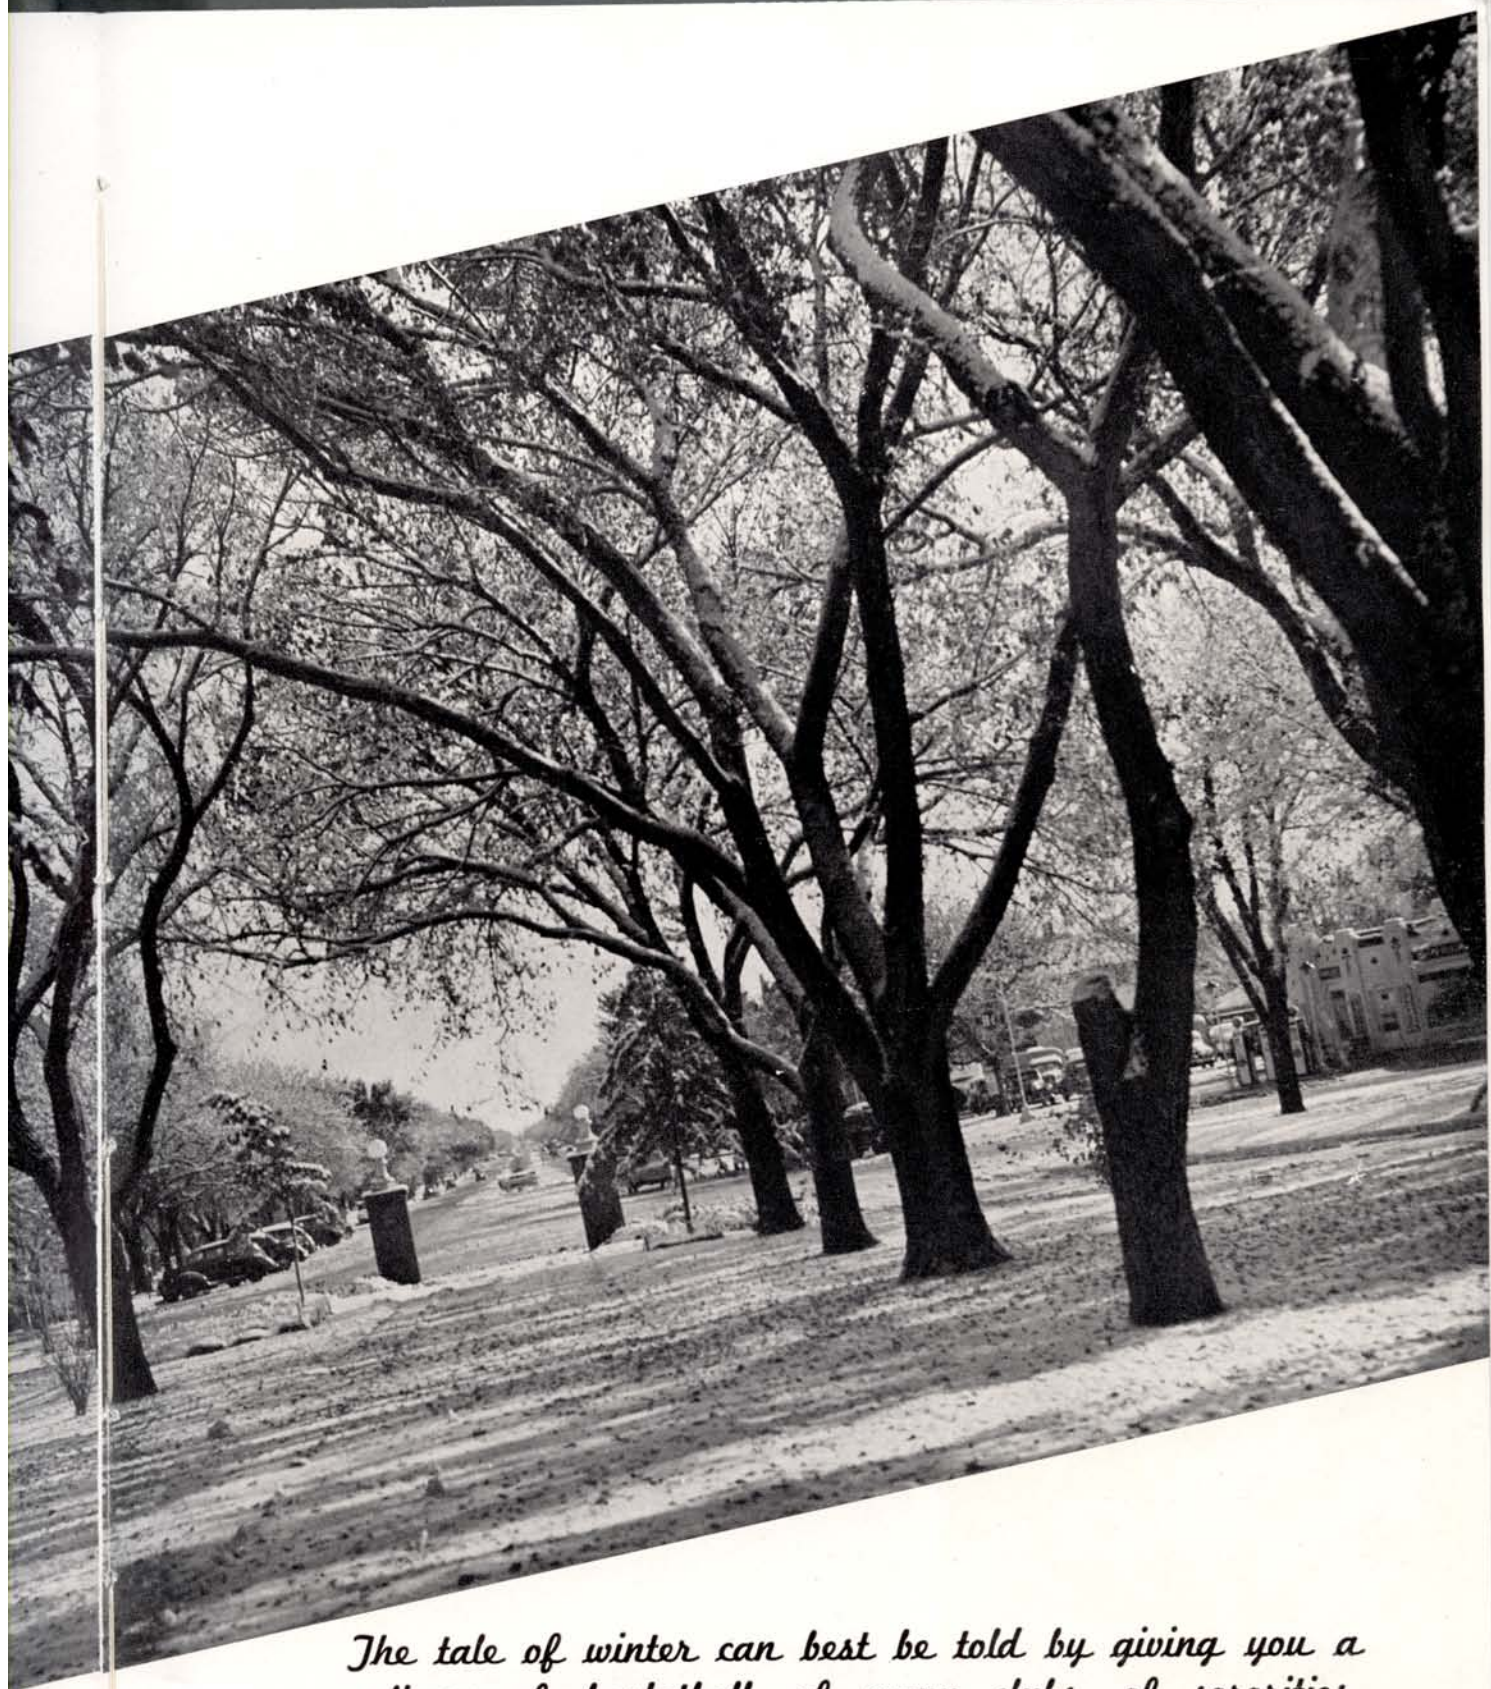

The first semester editor was Barc Wade; assistant editor was Don Jester, and Margaret Peterson was business manager. Don Jester took over as editor second semester and Keith Jorgensen became business manager.

The goal of any college newspaper is to become an All-American, and the Antelope is no exception. For the past few years, the Antelope has succeeded in doing just that, and with so many rising young journalists on our campus, it will probably do so again.

Toward A Better World

Girls that have something to do, girls with ability and pep, are found in the YWCA. The YWCA, standing for Christian principles of charity and helpfulness, fulfills its standards each year by bringing not only to students of this college, but to others, the best they have to offer.

As is a tradition with the YWCA, the year was started with a Big-Little Sister Tea. The purpose of this function was to acquaint freshmen girls with the college, and with other girls. For several days, Big Sister gave Little Sister helpful hints on college life.

Close on the heels of the Big-Little Sister Tea was the Marshmallow Sing at Kearney lake, sponsored in cooperation with other religious organizations.

YM members joined forces with the YW once each month.

Bright spots in the year were the Mother's Day Tea, the membership dinner, the Estes skit, and the 75th anniversary of the YWCA. As usual, the YWCA sponsored jointly the Christmas Carnival with the YMCA.

Cabinet meetings are held twice a month, at which the business of the organization is conducted. Cabinet members include Treva Lewis, president; Joyce Didriksen, vice-president; Arlene Nelson, secretary; Marjorie Soderholm, treasurer; Beverly Tabor, Fay Spangsberg, Mary Ellen Moore, Doris Johnson, June Zimmerman, LaVonne Rousey, Betty Augenstein, Faythe Santo, committee chairmen.

YWCA members had opportunities to become acquainted with other workers throughout the state through the Cabinet Training Conference at Camp Brewster, and the Spring Conference at Lincoln. The organization, started on this campus in 1906, is sponsored by Miss Delia Garrett, with seven additional faculty advisors.

The YW cabinet meet twice a month to plan the month's activities, and the general business of the group.

If scientific farming was not greatly benefited by the discussion of Bowes, Olsen, Danker, and Houston, it wasn't because they didn't have the information, but because the Swedish accent was a bit hard to translate.

Anything

"Pretty-boy" Cushing and "dream-girl" Laidig stole the show when they were named the healthiest boy and girl in Nebraska.

From hockey to cigarette girls with Christmas cards—you could take your choice at the Christmas Carnival. Every conceivable type of concession was offered by the organizations of the campus. The purpose? To raise some money to add to depleted treasuries, and also to have a lot of fun on the side.

The Christmas Carnival, sponsored by the YWCA-YMCA's, was as great a success this year as in years past. Proceeds were split 50-50 between the YM-YW and the individual organizations raising the money.

Again Sigmagrams were much in demand as coy girls and shy boys arranged a date for the dance.

A close-up of faculty members Houston, House, and Bowes revealed they looked as corny as possible.

The finale of the faculty skit closed one of radio's most unusual programs.

Social Science Clubbers lured Ken Baustian and Dewayne Triplett into their booth to throw "Gertie's Garter."

"Curse you, Jack Dalton," cried Deltas as they poured out their heart and soul in a tear-jerking melodrama.

Could Happen

Among the activities were a fish pond, numerous raffles, a bingo concession, fortune-telling, skits, a house of horrors, and plenty of food for sale. The first and second floors were entirely devoted to the Christmas Carnival, with something doing in practically every room.

Faculty members kept the students entertained for almost an hour with their radio station, KORN. The variety of programs presented on this station gave students a chance to get innumerable laughs. Master of Ceremonies, Harry Hoffman, presided over the general confusion. Whether your taste was murder mysteries, round-table discussions, or music, the faculty skit had it.

After the faculty skit, an all-college dance was sponsored by the YWCA-YMCA in the cafeteria. At intermission Gretchen Story and Dick Hock were crowned Christmas Queen and King. Students selected for this honor were nominated by each organization, and voted on by the student body.

Blodgett's Chicken Mash, sampled by every one on the first six rows, was promoted by Mrs. Mantor, assisted by a trio composed of Dr. Failor, Miss Garrett, and Miss Smithey.

It seems the Green-n-n-n Dragon-n-n-n had Mrs. Haines completely under his power.

Del Danker read the commercial, while Miss Elliott provided the sound of chewy Shredded Alfalfa, by gnawing a stalk of celery.

Sophomore officers, Pat Wear and Ann Lee waited patiently for their picture to be taken so their efforts were rewarded.

Ascending to great heights, they found themselves the sophomores, the post-grad frosh. They now had that worldly attitude that distinguished them from the freshmen . . . and from everyone else.

Excellence Preferred

Big shots in the estimation of orchestra members were LaVern Hutchins, Business Manager; Frances Hurdle, Personnel Manager; Helen Dailey, Librarian; and Gretchen Story, Publicity Director.

The best in great music was presented by the college orchestra, under the direction of Harold Cerny. Members profited from the experience of working together, and listeners gained by just listening.

The first concert of the orchestral season was presented November 18 in the college auditorium. This concert marked the beginning of the series of musical events sponsored by the fine arts department. E. P. Harvey served as concertmeister.

The orchestra planned a tour to serve two purposes. First, to present worthwhile music to small Nebraska towns, and second, to aid student musicians in obtaining practical experience in playing before audiences of all types.

Members of this year's orchestra were: First Violin, Paul Harvey, Kenneth Lotspeich, Eugene Cerny, Harry Payne, Adelbert Bonner, Alexandria Kappas, Leota Sneed, Gwendolyn Eaton, Ruth Christensen, Verna Hansen; Second Violin, LaVern Hutchins, Leone Zimmerman, Gretchen Story, Glenn Reinertson, Madeline Wright, Margaret King, Raymond Frakes, Ralph Barry; Viola, Pearl Cerny, Janice Bate, Mathew Shoemaker, Jerry Payne, Lee Hemmingway, Charline Jordan, Ruth Naviaux, Helen Dailey; Cello, Robert House, Sue Barnes, Doris Lichtenberg, James Christensen; Bass, Alexander Carson, Bettelee Lewis, Edna Nigh, Thomas Sibbitt, Robert Smith; Piccolo, Jo Ann Mundorff; Flute, Jo Ann Mundorff, Phillip Harvey, Natalie Maser; Oboe, Colette Donaly, Helen Schatz, Verna Vannier; English Horn, Helen Schatz; Clarinet, Rodney Wendell, Kenneth McCord, Agnes Hawthorne; Bass Clarinet, Donna Lewis; Bassoon, Theodore Hanley, Donald Zimmerman, Pat Ibsen; Horn, Jack Perrin, Don Hicks, Frances Hurdle, Carolyn Hecox, Eugene Conrad; Trumpet, Ralph Sponberg, Robert Paschall, Robert Wolf, Shirley McCann; Trombone, Ashtford Kelley, Lavonne Rousey, Ruth Robinson; Bass Trombone, Marjorie DeBrunner; Tuba, Verle Straatman; Tympani, Harold Smith; Percussion, Lila Whitaker, William Giesler, Lois Kutz; Harp, Lila Whitaker.

Versatile Artists

"Oh, that Wesleyan trip!"

Groans can still be heard coming from the band members who made the trip. They are justified, I'm sure.

The band had to change buses in Grand Island going to Lincoln, and then on the way back, the bus broke down a few miles from Seward. No, this usually wouldn't cause so much unhappiness, but the weather was cold and rainy and the buses didn't creep back to Kearney until the wee, wee hours of the morning. But that's enough of that.

The college band is under the direction of Robert W. House. There are 52 members. The drum major is Harold Smith, and Barbara Bryant and Betty John are majorettes.

Other officers include Alexander Carson, business manager; Gretchen Story, personnel manager; and Ted Hanley and Rodney Wendell, librarians.

Just leaving a three-to-five band rehearsal are officers Alex Carson, Gretchen Story, Ted Hanley, and Rodney Wendell.

Have you ever heard of L.S.A.? Sounds like alphabet soup, we admit, but if you haven't heard of L.S.A. you just haven't been around much. L.S.A. stands for Lutheran Student Association.

Lutheran Club is a popular spot, it would seem from the large crowd that appeared at the meetings.

M. R. Olsen is sponsor, and he, with Glenn Reinertson, president, plan the weekly meetings. Such meetings include talks from Lutheran students on subjects of Christian interest, discussion, outside speakers, and parties also fill the schedule.

Come fall, Lutheran Students hiked to a camping site, and had a bonfire, complete with all the trimmings.

Installation services were held in the formal atmosphere of the First Lutheran Church. The quiet dignity of the service impressed upon club members the importance of their profession.

The executive duties of the Lutheran Club were capably handled by Glenn Reinertson, president; Mr. Olsen, sponsor; Twila Olson, vice president; Vernon Anderson, secretary-treasurer; Fern Nelson, reporter.

True to The Faith

Just as an evening ended with prayer, the morning began with it.

Case Hall girls gathered each evening at 10:10 for devotions.

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is an inter-national, inter-denominational, and inter-collegiate organization which provides fellowship of Christian students with each other, and with their Lord.

The constitution of the Kearney chapter was signed in February, 1947. That April, five members and Miss Theodora Nelson, their sponsor, attended the retreat in Topeka, Kansas. That summer the group was represented at Campus in the Woods, the summer camp in Ontario, Canada. The state conference this spring will be at Camp Harriett near Omaha.

In February, 1948, Nancy Coull, staff member for this area, brought the message at the anniversary meeting, to which other religious organizations were invited.

Bible study meetings are held each week, and prayer groups meet each morning. Kearney is known by other I.V. chapters as "the home of the famous 'ten-ten'."

It was time for another Thursday evening Bible study, according to Carolyn Hecox, Yvonne Harris, Charlotte Hoffman, Rodney Wendell, Marjorie Soderholm, Agnes Roemmich, Harvey Soderholm, Don Bushnell, Gretchen Story, Miss Nelson, Pat Wear, Dorothy Knight, Shirley McCan, Norma Lewis, and Jesse Ross.

It Can Be Done

The Y.M.C.A., Young Men's Christian Association, holds business meetings every Wednesday night at seven. The purpose of the Y.M. is to minister to the spiritual, intellectual, social, and physical needs of young men and for the comfort, morals, and spirit of each individual member.

O. W. Means and J. L. Williams sponsor the organization. Officers are: president, Harold Adams; vice-president, Leo Galloway; secretary, Alan Carlson; treasurer, Winston Whitney.

The Y.M. takes part in the Christmas

Carnival and such intramural sports as football, basketball, and softball.

Eugene Yanney is district representative to the regional council, and Alan Carlson is state co-chairman for the Student Christian Conference.

The spring and fall Student Christian Conference; Estes Summer Camp; and the National Assembly of the Student Christian Association Movement are out-of-town meetings attended by members of the organization.

Thirty-eight boys belong to Y.M.

Officers Adams, Galloway, Carlson, and Whitney spent much time planning Y.M. activities.

Y.M. members displayed their school spirit as they caged a Wildcat for the Homecoming parade.

It helps to have friends with a common interest in what you are, and what you believe. This unity of purpose was found in the Catholic Club. Their Wednesday night meetings not only served their social interests, but gave them a chance to accomplish their purpose, which was the promotion of Catholic action and the enrichment of spiritual life.

Under the leadership of Father Tschida and Beverly Haxby, Catholic Club officers Emmitt Gannon, Bernard Shotkoski, Alice Wink, and Aldon Sobieszczyk planned the year's events.

High on the list of social standouts were the Christmas breakfast, the fall and spring picnics, and the spring banquet. Nor did the Catholic Clubbers stop at that, for parties were in order all year long.

Club rooms were a mecca for the reading of religious newspapers and magazines while resting between classes. The Catholic Club strengthened religious ties, and gave a sense of "belonging" to each member.

Much has been done and much is left to be done. Your challenge is great if you make this fear-crazed world a better place in which to live.

Along with the weary hours spent in translation and wrestling with the German language, there are the better times that are fun and make those chilling questions seem a snap after all. The parties were a good place to reminisce, sympathize with each other, to conjugate verbs and in the end realize that German is fun.

Training for the Future

The Home Economics Club was an organization with a definite purpose, that of giving a girl a basic foundation in the art of home-making.

Home Ec members were easily recognized by the neatness of their appearance, and by the fact that the smart dress they were wearing was probably something they had made. The emphasis, however, was not entirely on clothes, as the girls spent much time on meal planning, food preservation, and all that goes with a good cook.

The girls proved their interest in others by wrapping and collecting gifts for European children. Many of the garments had been made by the girls themselves.

Christmas holidays saw the Home Ec Club entertaining the children of Vets' Village residents at a party in Case Hall. Club members had another chance to get personally acquainted with the small fry when they entertained at a dinner, featuring a regular family group.

President Ann Nelson provided the leadership for the many activities. She, with the help of the cabinet, arranged the concentrated program for the year. Miss Delia Garrett and Mrs. Bernice Mantor acted in advisory capacities.

One of the most unusual features of the Home Economics Club was the foreign fellowship dinner, in which foreign foods were served exclusively. At the dinner, conditions in foreign countries were vividly described by club members. Individual contributions were given to the foreign fellowship fund. Last year, the Kearney group contributed more to the fund than any other college in the state.

Business was the topic as officers, Carrie Jo Blakeman, Lorraine Schmidt, Arlene Nelson, Treva Lewis, Dorothy Siebenaler, and Betty Augenstein got together.

A Matter of Rules

Badge of Achievement

Much of the peace and harmony that exists between college fraternities and sororities is due to the mediating force of the Inter-Fraternity-Sorority Council. Sponsored by Miss Yingling, it is the job of this group to decide what can and what can't be done when it comes to the matter of rushing.

Each sorority and fraternity on the campus sends one representative and their president to represent them on this council.

Members of the Pi Omega Pi, national honorary commercial fraternity, must qualify highly to meet the stiff scholastic barriers placed by this organization. Not content to maintain only high scholastic standards, Pi Omega Pi seeks students that have shown abilities in leadership.

Monthly meetings allow members to gather information on subjects of common interest, and to take care of the necessary business.

The Meaning of the Arrow

Yes, the Deltas! A sorority in which the emphasis is placed on scholarship, leadership, and fellowship.

Our sorority, which meets twice a month has planned many eventful things, which will be treasured as the years go by.

We won't forget the fun decorating Jackie's car like a football for Homecoming day, or our annual luncheon that was held at the Fort Kearney, with some of the alumnae attending.

The gala affair was the Homecoming Dance, held in the evening with our sorority president, Donna Neal, reigning as Homecoming Queen.

The biggest event of all was the Holly Dance. The girls arrayed in all colors and their escorts danced to the music of Norris Haring's orchestra. During the dance, Donna Neal was crowned Holly Queen of 1947.

To the Christmas Carnival, the Deltas contributed a play entitled, "Curse You, Jack Dalton."

The new year was opened with thoughts given to the Mother and Daughter rush breakfast held in the Crystal Room. Following this, the rushees designated their preference for our sorority by attending the preference dinner. In March, these girls went to the tea, and in April, formal initiation was held, when they were at last recognized as active members. No, we must not forget one thing, and that is informal initiation, which is held before our rushees become active members. All I have to say is—a hilarious time was had by all, especially the actives. Our social life was completed by having the Mother-Daughter Tea in May.

This year has been a successful one, and we sorority sisters have had a lot of fun together.

Yes, the meaning of the arrow is everything to us, we love it, we live it, and we're proud to wear it.

Alums were in the limelight at the Delta Homecoming luncheon.

Out of a wreath of evergreen, stepped Donna Neal, Delta Holly Queen.

Casually chatting were Delta officers, Joan Althouse, Libbie Storch, Merryly Evans, Lily Ann Hansen, Jackie Wedemeyer, Donna Neal, and Ann Nelson.

Charting the Course

Dear Diary:

What an eventful year this has been! It seems only yesterday that we had the first social event of the year—a big watermelon feed—remember?

Remember, too, the Homecoming alum luncheon and parade; and Christmas carnival with the traditional Sigma-grams; and all the other Sigma traditions carried out during the Christmas season—caroling followed by a taffy pull—Sigma breakfast—remember?

It has been a good year, diary! How thrilled we were when Cathryn Spelts and Ardella Rundquist both came forth from the Log of the S. S. Sigma to be crowned 1948 Sigma Sweethearts at the first semester rush party.

Remember how busy we were during rush week, and how happy we were when 30 of the 31 girls who preferenced became active pledges of Sigma Theta Phi? Informal initiation followed with its unusual costumes and typical humor.

Remember, diary, the beautiful formal initiation ceremony—the flickering lights of the candles of the triangle—solemn words to pledge and renew our Sigma ties.

And remember, diary, the annual Sigma Spring Formal Dance; the Spring Breakfast honoring the senior girls; and the Mother Daughter tea.

Yes, diary, we'll keep these memories of the past in our hearts, and dream of eventful Sigma days ahead.

Goodnight,
Lora Siel

Another Sigma leader was Mary Mason, who ruled over the K Club dance.

President Cathryn Spelts greeted alums at the Homecoming Luncheon.

It was a Sigma scene, judging from the girls in the Case Hall reception room.

Today Decides Tomorrow

Hello everybody! "Quality, not quantity" — "Today decides tomorrow", and with those two Zeta sorority mottos, Dr. Leona Faylor, sponsor, and Elaine Webb, president, started the Zeta year at the first semester alumni dinner at the Fort Kearney on Homecoming Day. Sorority members also participated in events of the day by decorating and entering a float in the Homecoming parade.

On every first and third Tuesday of each month, the president met with sorority members and other officers, Carrie Jo Blakeman, Frances Amen, Hazel Ibsen, Phyllis Day, and Frances Hurdle, to conduct business meetings and plan social activities.

By that time Christmas wasn't far away, so the girls had a Christmas breakfast at Elliott's Motor Lodge and attended the Presbyterian Church services.

At the Christmas Carnival, fortune-teller,

Frances Hurdle, in her gypsy tent on second floor, delighted the superstitious and the suspicious.

Then it was time to rush, and the Zetas had their first semester rush party at the Crystal room in the Fort Kearney. On February 10th, carrying out the Valentine theme, Elliott's Lodge was the scene of the Zeta Rush Party.

Some of the important activities of the spring season were formal initiation, an outdoor breakfast, and a formal dinner for the installation of new officers.

Another highlight was the Mother and Daughter Tea. Pastel colors and spring flowers predominated in the decorations.

Friendship, scholarship, and leadership compose the three-fold aim of the Zeta Chi Alpha sorority, the youngest on the campus, and they may be congratulated on having achieved that aim.

The secrets of the future were revealed by fortune-teller, Frances Hurdle.

Zetas feted alums at their luncheon on Homecoming Day.

Just a moment of relaxation was the main concern of Marjorie Soderholm, Frances Hurdle, and Wilma West.

Concerning Kilts and Bagpipes

In the north of Scotland there lives in the ancient legends of Celtic lore the deeds of a gallant band of Highlanders who, by their great feats of strength upon the battlefield; by the uncanny wit and the burning passion of their love of liberty, engraved forever upon the most glorious pages of Scottish history the name Caledonia.

It was the lives of these early clansmen that a group of young men at Kearney College, during the first World War, chose to emulate.

The purpose of the group is the bringing together of those men having mutual interests, those men who are desirous of promoting social welfare of its members, college spirit, and the better interests of the student body, making a good college even better.

Membership in the fraternity is limited to forty-five members. New members are rushed each year in order to maintain the membership at this level. Men possessing outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, and special abilities are selected for membership.

Activities associated with the selection of new members consist of the smoker, the preference dinner, and a period of pledgeship.

The Caledonians sponsor many social events throughout the year. Leading this parade of social activities is THE event of the year, THE BOWERY BALL.

The Bowery Ball, in the costume of the gay 90's affords an opportunity for former Cal's and guests to renew and make acquaintances, thereby maintaining a fraternal and college spirit among former Cal's and students.

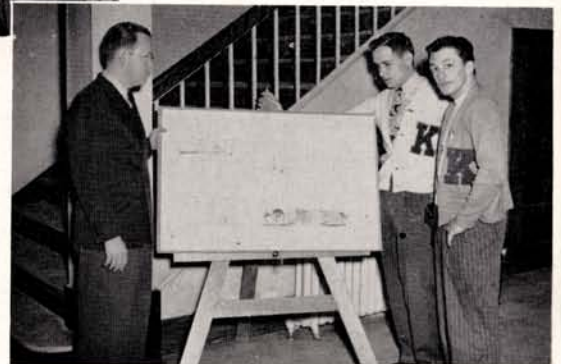

Kenneth Carlson serves the fraternity as sponsor.

High men in the frat were Larry Martin, Paul Wilmot, Wayne McKinney, and Dick Hock.

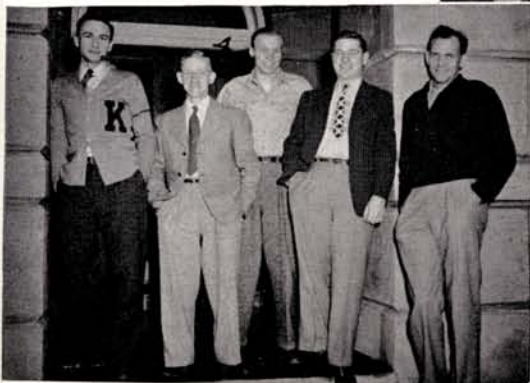

The dress and atmosphere indicated that you were attending the Cals' Bowery Ball.

Mr. Carlson, Cal sponsor, Tom Nye, and E. R. Smith, seem interested in the proposed student union.

Bob Hauver, Phi Tau active, was out-numbered by pledges Lyle Biggerstaff, Harold Lengkeek, and Don Pavelka.

The success of their fraternity put smiles on the faces of Paul Baker, Leo Galloway, Joe Buettner, Bill Callahan, and Kenneth Lamb.

Paul Baker, high-point man in the intra-mural basketball league, was served a malt by Bill Long, co-manager of the Cave.

Take Your Choice

The biggest fraternity on the campus showed its power and strength when sixty-nine fellows signified that they would like to become full-fledged Phi Taus. What was the reason? Here it is.

The Phi Tau Gamma Fraternity was started on this campus in 1915. Twenty-five charter members framed its constitution of high standing in leadership, scholarship, and fellowship. The Phi Tau Fraternity of today has strived and succeeded in following the ideals of the founders.

This year Phi Tau members chose Ellis Burton to fulfill the duties of Chancellor, Bill Callahan, Vice-Chancellor, Leo Galloway, secretary, and Paul Baker, treasurer. Pledge-masters Joe Buettner, Dale Orth, and Kenneth Lamb established pledge principles and rules.

Highlights of the Phi Tau year included a chili feed at cottonmill lake; a fall dance; the rush smoker; and the preference dinner. Biggest event of the entire year, however, was the spring formal dance, sometimes called the "Sweetheart Ball."

Regular meetings were held in the administration building, but for a change of atmosphere, Phi Taus gathered at the Fort Kearney occasionally, and at the home of E. K. Yanney.

Phi Taus are well represented in all campus activities. Eight Phi Taus hold posts on the student council; Joe Buettner served as Inter-fraternity president; three out of the four Men's League officers are Phi Taus; and both the junior and senior class presidents are members of this fraternity.

The Phi Tau Gamma colors, red and white are worn by all pledges until the period of indoctrination is over. Perhaps, for the reasons outlined above, sixty-nine fellows wanted to join the friendly atmosphere of the Phi Tau Gamma fraternity.

Mr. Ahrendts was told of the plans for the next meeting by officers Lily Ann Hansen, George Wade, and Ella Mae Sizer.

New initiates were read the formal pledging service by actives.

Speaking of Speaking

The Nebraska Zeta chapter of the Pi Kappa Delta honorary forensic society was established on the campus in 1923. It was organized to promote and stimulate progress in intercollegiate oratory, debate and public speaking.

The president, George Wade, presides over the monthly meetings which are held on the first Thursday of the month. Other officers are Margaret Davidson, secretary-treasurer, and Lily Ann Hansen, corresponding secretary. Mr. Harold Ahrendts of the speech department is the sponsor.

One of the highlights of the year for Pi Kappa members is the all-college oratorical contest, the winners of which go to the state contest. Winners this year were Lily Ann Hansen, Arthur Taylor, and George Wade.

The intra-mural debate tournament is another big event. The winning team this year was composed of Phil Harvey and Jerry Young. Dean Hascall and Ronald Kenney were the runners-up.

This year, Pi Kappa Delta is sponsoring an all-college talent show, the first of its kind. It is to be a program of all student entertainers. The proceeds from the show will send all members of the fraternity to the Province of the Plains convention at Ft. Collins, Colorado. This year the meeting is a regional one. The national convention is held every two years.

The annual spring banquet winds up a successful Pi Kappa Delta year.

After a month's elimination, the best intramural debaters on the campus were found to be Phil Harvey, Jerry Young, Ron Kenney, and Dean Hascall.

Lily Ann Hansen, Art Taylor, and George Wade seem pleased that they won the all-college oratorical contests.

E. K. Yanney and Art Taylor thought of a good attack against the opposition, as they planned for the Denver tournament.

A pensive Cornelia, played by Beverly Tabor, greeted the ship's medical inspector. The reason? Measles.

Highlights in the college production. . . . The French George Wade completely disgusts Mother Conger and Father Glenn, but Cornelia and Emily are utterly thrilled by him.

Rodney Wendell furnished a musical interlude, playing the tunes of 1920.

A very Frenchie Frenchwoman and her daughter put the girls to some inconvenience with their bed-bug-bed.

A Pleasure Trip

To take a trip to France alone, that is, without your parents, was the finishing of an education. Anyhow, that was the belief shared by Emily Kimborough and Cornelia Otis Skinner in the college production of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Beverly Tabor and Zelda Jeanne Ryan, cast in the leading roles, gave theatre patrons an evening of the best in comedy. Their success was further enhanced by the presence of a staunch supporting cast, and an efficient production staff.

Mrs. Miriam Drake, directing her first production on this stage, not only gave us an insight into the abilities of college actors, but gave us a glimpse of her own proficiency in directing comedy. With the aid of Mrs. Cathryn Spelts, student director, the comedy was presented with speed and finesse, as the French would say.

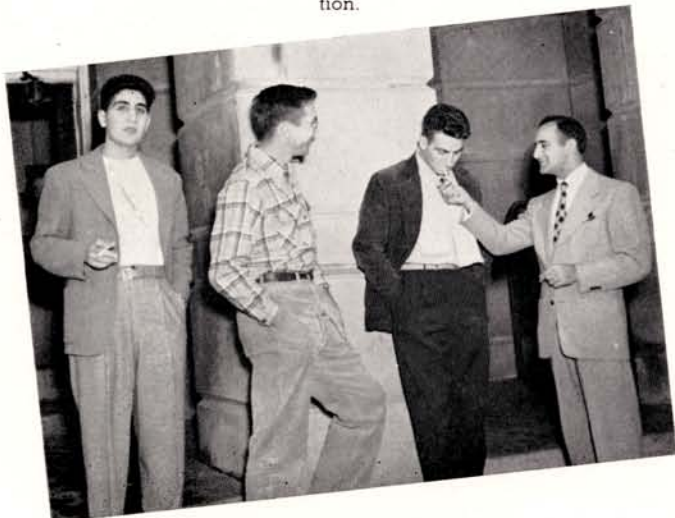

"Joint Owners in Spain" enjoyed a long run in the Kearney vicinity, with almost a dozen performances to its credit. The cast included Ardyce Schroeder, Frances Hurdle, Norma Lewis, and Colleen Martin.

The entire cast of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" took a curtain call for the photographer.

Contemplating . . .

Harold Lengkeek, Woodrow Deeb, Anthony Deeb, and E. K. Yanney, found that there was just time enough between classes for a smoke and some conversation.

Top characters in the junior class were Wayne Rhoades, president; Bill Gogan, vice-president; Dora Mae McGrew, secretary; Russell Bogue, treasurer.

. . . the cap and gown, these were the juniors, the runners-ups. They eagerly entered those courses indexed 3—they always heard about but never dreamed of taking. At registration they advised their advisers but found later they'd have to go to summer school to make up for their easy schedules.

Following the novel and thrilling excursion to Roswell, New Mexico, many of the KSTC'ers abandoned their heavy football togs and donned our fresh, eye-catching, gold and blue jerseys. Also, a number of boys not out for football increased our firing power by their participation.

After a few days of practice, we found ourselves host to Wayne on December 13. Bob Korte, Dean Nicholson, Joe Simanek, Russ Bogue, and Warren Monnington found themselves on the starting line-up, and gave us an idea of their potentialities. Six minutes before the Wayne game ended, the score was tied up, and to our dismay Wayne substituted Vernon Harder, who luckily made five out-of-court shots which lost us the game. For some, it lowered their hopes of our team's championship, but for others, their hopes mounted even higher as they noted the smooth-rolling five. This was the only conference game before Christmas vacation.

JUNIOR POOL

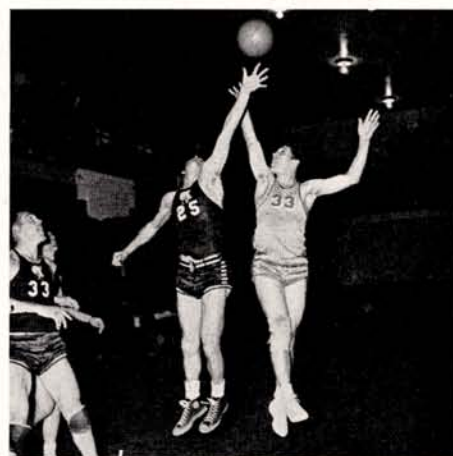

During the Christmas season we entered two tournaments mainly to get practice, and to determine how strong our team really was. At Hastings we trounced Tarkio College and Kansas Wesleyan to clinch first place in this tournament. At York we were nearly as successful. After hustling to the finals, we dropped a game to Peru, and consequently settled for second place. Nevertheless, a first and second place in the two play-offs gave everyone notice that we would be one of the top contenders for the NCC title.

The remainder of the games were conference tussles, with loads of fight in each one. After all was said and done, we had the official record of third place in the NCC, with 11 wins and 5 losses. The only losses were to Wayne, Wesleyan, Hastings, and Peru (2). Peru won 20 of the 22 games that she played, while Wayne finished one game ahead of the Antelopes.

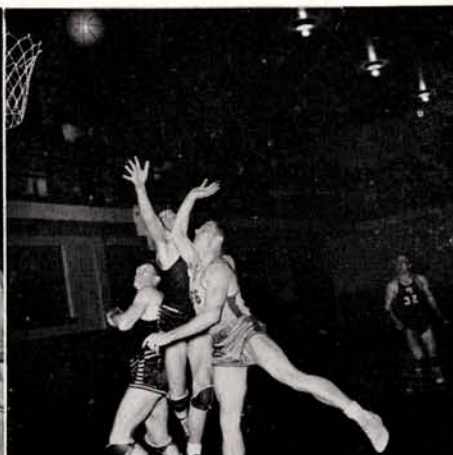

Although we didn't win the conference title, we probably put more records on the books than any other school. Just as in football, our statistics looked far better than our team standing. Three times the locals roared over the 80 mark, while only Wesleyan, of all the conference teams, managed to wriggle over once. The second record was the result of the tromping we handed Chadron on our own floor. Even with the second team playing nearly half of the game, it wound up 88-

Monnington shared tipping with a Hastings player during the first part of the second half.

Picturesque moments in the Hastings-Kearney fracas. . . . Korte shoots and puts it through. . . . Hauver battles it out in a jump. . . . Korte and Nicholson prevent Hastings from nabbing the ball.

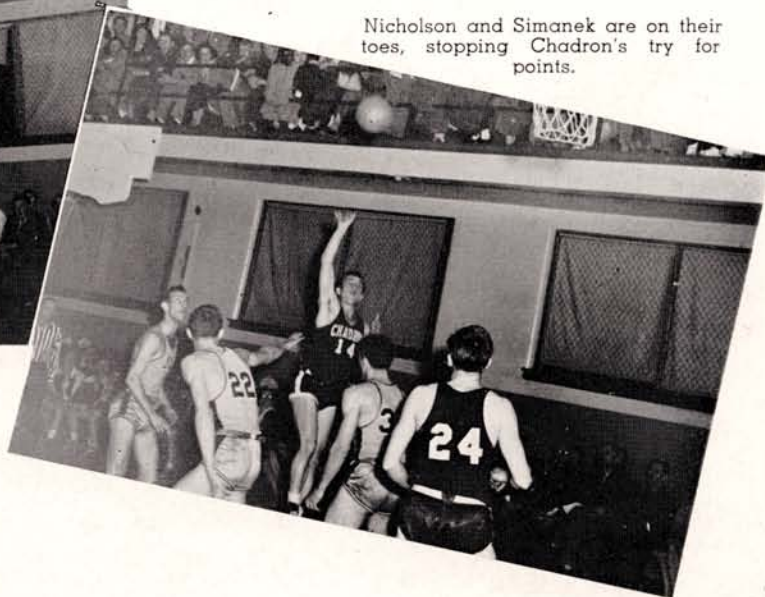

"Skeet" Nicholson shoots, while both Broncos and Antelopes look on and await the results.

Simanek guards a Chadron player, who tries in vain for a basket.

Nicholson and Simanek are on their toes, stopping Chadron's try for points.

57, and if Coach Foster had dared leave the first team in, it would have been a murderous score. This game included the highest individual score, and the highest combined score of the conference.

Our alma mater also scored more points in loop play than any other team with a total of 1,383 points in 22 games. We were also top team in having less points scored against us, which were 1,231. Statistics lean toward a first place, but points were not divided properly. At times points would fall as fast as raindrops in a cloudburst, leaving our opponents befuddled and unorganized. On other occasions there were heavy overcasts, but a dearth of baskets.

The World-Herald named Bob Korte as forward on the All-Conference team, and strongly considered Dean Nicholson. Bill Maden of the Hastings Tribune selected both Nicholson and Korte, while Fremont gave Kearney the honor of including Joe Simanek along with the other two.

With talent flooding the market, the K Club was bolstered by a large number of recruits. Again the pre-war status was back to normal with seventy-five fellows attaching their names to the organization. This statement is somewhat erroneous in that the incoming athletes have little say in becoming members, except to prove beforehand they've got what it takes on the gridiron or on the court. Once the K Club insignia is attained, they may wear their letters and hold membership all through college.

Lee Marrow, Lincoln senior, served as president this year, and John Rumbaugh, Phillipsburg, Kansas senior, was vice-president. Bill Gogan, Arcadia junior, and Bernard Shotkoski, Loup City junior, held the secretary and treasurer jobs respectively, and of course, the entire organization was under the sponsorship of Coaches Foster and Copeland.

On the second Thursday of each month, at ten o'clock, Lee Marrow could be found conducting the club's business meetings, which were planned to promote "courage, loyalty, and clean sportsmanship." These meetings were "very informal" and the main idea was to get what business there was done in a more or less democratic spirit . . . with everyone speaking their mind.

Beside their athletic ability, they proved to be adept in other activities as well. The K Club Dance, held in the college gym, November 21, was a big success, and Mary Mason, Arcadia sophomore, reigned as K Club queen. Twenty-five new members were also introduced.

Dale Harding was named guard on the All-Nebraska College Conference team, and John Rumbaugh, end, and Bob Hauver, back, received honorable mention.

Kearney can boast of their clean sportsmanship. Oftimes we noticed our boys help the opponent up on the football field if they received a harder than usual bump or were badly shaken up. We can also remember when they carried York's forward, Denny Auchard, off the floor after a serious injury in basketball. This reputation, by the way, is the return of the efforts of the K Club in their quest for clean sportsmanship and good fellowship on the campus.

Mary Mason, honored K Club Queen, led the grand march with her escort and attendants.

The winners of the hotly contested intramural championship were the Vets Village quintet, including Mr. Welsh, Lee Marrow, Willard Rosenfelt, Bill Long, Dale Harding, C. E. Mitchell, Leroy Pope, and Jack Williams.

For the Fun of It

There was probably more interest in the Kearney intramural basketball tournament (excluding varsity sports) than in any other phase of athletics. All in all, there were approximately three months of steady playing, and playing was continuous each night from 3:15 to 8:15. Over 180 men found their way into the playing and almost 200 games were played.

Technically speaking, they officially began on December 8, and were climaxed on March 17. All of the games were officiated by students and it was completely a student program. Games lasted 32 minutes with the time divided into two 16 minute halves, and a five minute rest between the periods.

This year, eighteen teams were entered, compared with sixteen clubs last year. The season was also divided into two halves. The winners of each half were to play a game to decide the championship. The first half was knotted, with Vets Village, Question Marks, and the Hope Shots tying for first place. This, of course, threw a wrench into the planning machine, and only the late season, and Vets Village's good record kept them from the play-off as planned earlier in the season.

Out of the large total of eighteen teams, Vets Village finally managed to hammer their way to the top of all the teams. They clinched the title when they won the championship game from the Hope Shots in the second half tournament by a score of 47-32.

Those on the team that kept Vets Village coming through the rough spots were Leroy Pope, Jack Williams, Jack Evans, C. E. Mitchell, Lee Marrow, Bill Beasley, Bill Long, Willard Rosenfelt, Roy Dethloff, Dale Harding, Dick Clark, and manager, Mr. Welch.

The names of the members of this team will be posted on the plaque that is in the gymnasium. It will serve as a remembrance to those fellows and their friends when they visit the old alma mater, yes, maybe thirty years from now when they are head coach at some huge university.

Every record was broken over last year. The highest team scoring of the season went to the Question Marks, when they played the Dark Horses on February 2, and ran up 78 points. The highest individual scoring record in one game went to Kennon Norris of YMCA, with 45 points scored against the No Stars. Willard Rosenfelt of Vets Village was high point man for total scores of the season, and runner-up was Paul Baker. Many records were broken, but they will get stiffer and stiffer to break, after years have gone by in the organized tournament.

Bill Conway looked as though his bounce was in good form, as he jumped high into the air to put 'er through.

The second half of the tournament was handled so that a team was disqualified when it was defeated twice, and the last team to drop out was given first place in the second half elimination bout. Vets Village moved down the line and were sole possessors of the title. Since they also shared in the first half standings, they were given first place without the playoff.

Many were the games that went into overtime, and many were the games that ended with a point or so grace. Remember that half court shot in the last two seconds that won the game. For some they were heartbreaking experiences, and for some they were miracles, depending on the side you were on.

The intramurals were very beneficial to all members participating in them. The greatest assets from them were the fun and the experience. The gymnasium furnished a place for the boys to spend their time and save their money. Majors and minors in the physical education field received much-needed experience in officiating.

Assistant coach, Leland Copeland, was responsible for the well scheduled handling of the games. Few colleges realize the role that sports for all can play in developing the most in school spirit, and individual skill.

Newcomers

Second semester found students noting the gradual growth of the temporary student union, which was moved to Kearney from abandoned airfields.

MARJORIE DeBRUNNER, Cum Laude

HELEN DAILEY, Cum Laude

RUBY OLSON, Cum Laude

Lifetime

Your highest ambition was realized! Yes, you were the graduates with two Latin words behind your name, Cum Laude. Only two words with a volume of meaning, for Cum Laude meant work and achievement. High scholastic averages, plus many outside interests proved that you were worthy of the honor.

Three women copped the honors this year by outshining all other seniors in the scholastic field. Marjorie DeBrunner, Ruby Olson, and Helen Dailey were the recipients of the honor.

Marjorie DeBrunner was known college-wide for her ability in science. She outshone many a male in a generally thought of masculine art. Helen Dailey was active in many organizations and gained majors in both English and commerce. Ruby Olson devoted her time to LSA, the Home Ec Club, and Sigma Tau Delta.

Sister Leonarda Yilk, of St. Catherine, Kentucky, not enrolled here at the present time; Maxine Wardrop, Kearney; Lorraine Schmidt, Poole; and Marjorie Soderholm, Holdrege, received honorable mention.

Policies and plans for Sigma Tau Delta were drawn by Mr. C. T. Ryan, sponsor, and Jerry Richter, president. Maxine Wardrop and Clarence Mitchell made plans for a better-than-ever Antler.

In Behalf of Literature

To understand and appreciate good literature was the objective of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity. This fraternity was established in Kearney on November 20. Not only does Sigma Tau encourage the reading of good literature, but it also helps aspiring young writers to go forward in the field of creativeness.

The organization meets once a month, combining business and social meetings. They usually have a guest speaker who talks on a topic of interest to the group.

The president is Jerry Richter; vice president, Maxine Wardrop; secretary, Marjorie Soderholm; treasurer, Cathryn Spelts; and Howard Glenn is historian. Mr. C. T. Ryan, head of the English department is the sponsor.

Membership is limited to English majors and a small number of English minors.

The Sigma Tau Delta fraternity publishes the Antler, a literary publication, which contains creative work of the students. Maxine Wardrop is the editor this year and Clarence Mitchell is the business manager.

The fraternity also sponsors a freshman essay contest. The essays judged to be best are printed in the Antler.

One of the most enjoyable events of the year for Sigma Tau members is the Christmas breakfast at the Ryan home, featuring Mr. Ryan's famous cooking.

The spring formal dinner concludes their activities for the year.

Cathryn Spelts, Marjorie DeBrunner, Ardella Rundquist, Helen Dailey, and Hazel Ibsen fulfilled their Xi Phi duties.

Whether the conversation centered on physics or the comics, Frances Amen, Cathryn Spelts, Ruby Olson, Larry Martin, and Gretchen Story could speak with authority.

It's very seldom a person can point a finger and declare "Those students are brains!" But if that person was pointing to some Xi Phi members, he would be entirely correct.

Xi Phi is the organization on this campus that is comprised of those who are scholastically high, and high also in leadership. Xi Phi members are in all organizations on the campus, doing a good job, and although they pull the "A's", they're average collegians like everyone else.

The organization is under the guidance of

Brilliance Counts

Dr. Stout and Miss Dorothy Williams. Ella Mae Sizer headed the group until second semester. Marjorie DeBrunner took over in her absence.

Xi Phi meetings are conducted informally, and feature, in addition to the regular business, a program of interest to all.

Front Row: Miss Williams, Dr. Stout, Frances Amen, Harriett Conger, Helen Dailey, Marjorie DeBrunner, Ruth Dunbar.

Third Row: Maxine Wardrop, Gretchen Story, Cathryn Spelts, Marjorie Soderholm, Ella Mae Sizer, Ardella Rundquist.

The Democratic Spirit

The Council hashes over village matters, while Dean Stutheit lends advice.

"Honorable Mayor, I have a problem."

"Tell the village board about it, citizen."

Yes, even though council meetings in Vets Village are not nearly as formal as the preceding conversation, problems are the main points of business. The "honorable" mayor of the village is Leroy Pope, although this dignitary is just known as Pope by the boys.

Democracy is displayed in its purest form as the village council argues pro and con on important measures.

At six-thirty every Monday night, the W.A.A. takes over the gym. Under the leadership of Donna Neal, president, and Miss Yingling, sponsor, the girls play basketball, badminton, volleyball, and other sports.

The organization has a point system for attaining awards. The awards are a "K" with W.A.A. on it; a small pin; a necklace; and a white sweater with a "K" on it.

A Sporting Chance

The love of sports brought these girls together each week to engage in a round of fun and competition.

Slightly Illegal

While Mr. Hoffman studied the map for the shortest route to Minneapolis and a press convention, Maxine Wardrop, Norma Lewis, Mrs. Hoffman, and Barc Wade had a big laugh. The reason? It was a Colorado map.

Whether it was digging holes on the college campus, foraging for lumber, or just having a simple business meeting, the Press Club did it the hard way. Perhaps it paid off, though, since Press Clubbers snagged first prize in the Homecoming campus display contest and sponsored one of the most profitable booths at the Christmas Carnival.

Presiding over the twenty-nine members at the meetings, which are held on the second Tuesday of every month at seven, is President Don Jester. Maxine Wardrop is vice president and Margaret Peterson was the first semester secretary-treasurer. Barbara King was appointed to that office second semester. Lending a helping hand, and plenty of moral support is Mr. Harry Hoffman, sponsor.

The night of November 25 was a big one for Press Clubbers. The active members gave a dinner to initiate the new members. They tried to secure Guy Williams, but he was unable to attend. His speech was given, anyhow, by his acting deputy. Miss Mary Rose Lantz, a former Kearney student, talked to the group concerning her magazine career.

In their spare moments, Press Clubbers published "Baby Antelopes" for school highlights. With the "Baby, Baby Antelope" they combined news with a menu and placecard for the banquet.

Conventions that Press Club members attended were the National Press Association meetings, held this year in Minneapolis, Minnesota. The editors of all college publications attended these meetings.

Press Club members Zelda Jeanne Ryan, Don Jester, Jim Bowers, Ron Kenney, DeWayne Triplett, Mr. Hoffman, Kenneth Gillming, Norma Lewis, Keith Jorgensen, and Jeannette Harrison discuss the merits of their latest journalistic attempt.

Masculine Interests

Men's Leaguers Bill Gogan, Glenn Weiss, Bob Hauver, Leo Galloway, and Dean Stutheit plan the strategy for next meeting.

If you were a man and wanted things managed differently, if you wanted some new social groups, or if you wanted something on the campus that was not, your best bet would be organization through the college Men's League. Their purpose on the campus was to further men's activities and ambitions.

Mr. Stutheit, Dean of Men, proved to be a capable and interested sponsor. Ellis Burton as president, Bill Gogan, vice-president, Leo Galloway, treasurer, and Gerald Young, secretary, kept the organization running smoothly.

Among the most important accomplishments was the nomination of the Homecoming Queen. Nominees included Norma Ferris, Donna Neal, Mary Mason, Arlene Nelson, Beverly Austin, Dora Mae McGrew, and Theodocia Eloë.

Another highlight was the formation of the popular Buck and Doe Club, and the establishment of the photography, model airplane, and music clubs, which added to the enjoyment of men who were interested in those hobbies.

Just before a Men's League council meeting, members Wayne McKinney, Kenneth Lamb, and Gerald Young check on the new announcements posted by the Dean.

Second Row: Lorraine Schmidt, Joan Althouse, Miss Robinson, Joan Hardy, Cletis Henry, Beverly Goldenstein, Elda Anderson.

Woman's World

The college Women's League meets monthly for a business meeting and a program. The president, Gretchen Story, plans the meetings along with Lorraine Schmidt, vice-president, Joan Althouse, secretary, and Joan Hardy, treasurer. Miss Robinson is the sponsor.

Second semester, the League undertook a budget survey of the women on the campus. The reason for the survey was that many prospective students write to the Dean of Women asking for information about average expenses incurred during a college year. Elda Anderson was a very able chairman of the survey.

The program committee for February was able to secure an interesting speaker, one that will long be remembered. Miss Merry, an exchange teacher from England, spoke of the school system in England, compared it to ours, and told how exchange teachers are chosen.

... At any rate, Joan Hardy took care of all the details as she explains the survey to a prospective member.

Perhaps the budget survey was the topic when Miss Robinson and President Story got together.

This Is It

Editor-in-chief, Norma Lewis

Staff members Joyce Applegate and Ward Schrack discuss the merits of a Speed Graphic.

Photography Director Keith Jorgensen and Make-up Editor Colleen Martin pulled a good joke.

What would be the best cover for a yearbook was the problem of Margaret King and Kenneth Gillming.

Page after page of copy had to be typed as Joan Althouse and Keith Jorgensen could testify.

Here is your yearbook. We've gone mad three or four times on the little undertaking that you're looking at right now. We've typed copy until midnight, gnawed pencils into stubs, and paced miles of floor striving to put out a super yearbook.

Innumerable times we've raced from first to third, from third to first, and back again, vainly searching for a photographer. We've peered in every dark hallway, hot on the trail of an unusually shy student, who refused to have his picture taken. We've arranged photography schedules, never to be followed, but we arranged them, nevertheless.

Vacations were not for us. We were glad to see school begin each time, for that meant some relief from the Thing, as we called the annual. The Thing sometimes seemed to be our master, as we were caught in its tenacles, and knuckled to its will. But don't get us wrong, we loved it. We loved every hard-working, worrying minute of it, and if you like the 1948 Blue and Gold, we will whoop for joy. Our job was to please you, Mr. Average Student; if we did, it was well worth it.

A year at college can be a big event, or just a minor skirmish in a lifetime. The purpose of the Blue and Gold is to record, as truthfully as possible, just what went on between September and May.

The year saw freshmen make rapid advances in college life. They had forgotten, and they tried to make you forget, the way they entered college. The year played Cupid, as engagements and weddings were revealed. Many a girl took advantage of Leap Year, and mapped her strategy to snare a man. You'd be surprised how well it worked, too.

Down in the Blue and Gold office, we spent most of our time figuring the best way to spend our money. The balance was always on the losing side, but we kept up the struggle against inflation. Two and two make five, it seemed, in this price-rising world.

Without the cooperation and moral support of an energetic staff, our job would have remained undone. Their abilities, while in great demand throughout the college, carried us over the rough spots. They helped because they wanted to, and that made it even better.

Jim Belschner and Leslie Mason were the men who raised the money and paid the bills—both very important jobs.

An efficient staff realized that a yearbook took as long as the name designated . . . a year.

Cindermen
with speed and skill
. . . . can win

Hopes for gaining a repeat performance of the winning of the cinder crown were higher than ever in Kearney. With 16 lettermen boosting the morale of both fans and coaches, anything could, and did happen.

State record-setters Hauver and Simanek prepared to defend their titles. Other participants began practice with the objective of setting a few records of their own. As the track season opened, our team looked as strong, and perhaps stronger than any team in the running.

*Full schedules of meets kept our boys in good form, and kept their thoughts centered on bringing home the victory. April 7th, the Antelopes journeyed to Fort Hayes. One week later they could be found at Creighton. April 17th, the Kansas relays were the item of interest. On April 21 we entertained York at a field meet. Immediately after, our boys participated in the Drake relays at Des Moines, Iowa.

Relay

During the last of April and the first or May, we held two exchange meets with Hastings, alternating the sites. On May 13th and 17th, we were given the chance to display our talent at the NCC meet, which finished the all-star season for this year.

One of the most ambitious undertakings of the athletic department is the sponsorship of an invitational track and field meet for high schools. This meet has become something of a tradition on our campus, this being its 23rd year. Invitations are sent to 150 nearby high schools.

The management of such a meet requires much time and planning. To succeed in combining as many events into one day requires the utmost in speed and efficiency. Both Class A and Class B high schools are invited to participate with schools of their own class.

At the conclusion of the meet, trophies are awarded to the team in each class that has scored the largest total of points, and to the winning 880 yard relay team in each class. Trophies for these contests are furnished by the civic organizations of the city of Kearney. In addition to trophies, those students who place in each event will receive medals, designating their achievement.

Since only two records were set last year, this year should, if the odds are with us, be a bang-up year for the invitational track and field meet.

All in all, with both the college meets and the high school invitational meet, track proved that it was not the neglected sport.

MERLIN QUILLEN
Relay

Kearney had a strong relay team, composed of Harvey Stroud, Bob Hauver, Merlin Quillen, and Kenneth Wright.

Even a record-setter must keep in form. Bob Hauver practiced daily for the quarter-mile event.

Kearney's hopes for the broad jump champion were founded in Dick Powers.

Javelin-hurler Warren Monnington outshone his competition in many meets.

Competitive Golfers

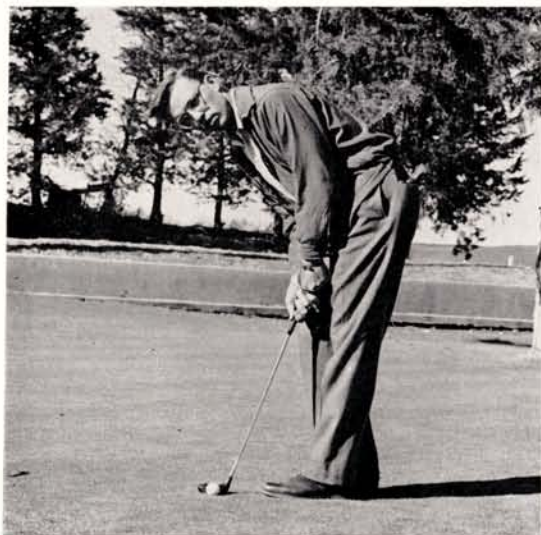

The golf squad was the sports interest of Bob Merryman, Ted Wells, Orville Scown, John Lancaster, and Bob Larson.

The crystal ball was a bit hazy when consulted as to the outcome of the Kearney golf squad. Perhaps this fact could be traced to absence of lettermen on this year's team, and also to the fact that our last year's record was nothing to write home about.

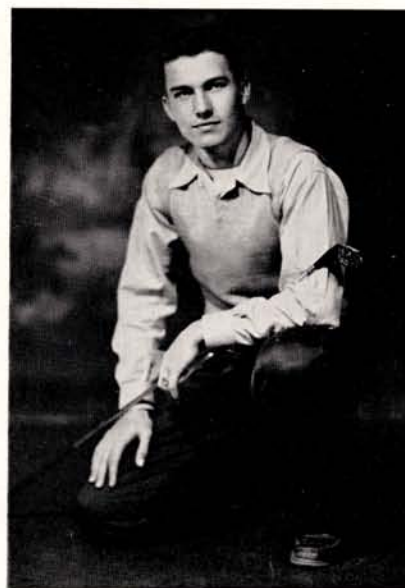

Seven men indicated their interest in this sport, and spent most of their spare time on the Country Club course. Most track meets included golfing, so the Antelopemen received a good chance to display their prowess in the game. From here it looks as though our men should stack up pretty evenly with the Nebraska competition.

One of the most promising members of this year's squad was Sunny (Orville) Scown.

John Lancaster was prepared to keep Kearney in the golfing limelight.

Tennis Team

Letterman Dean Nicholson proved his skill on the court, as he socked a ball with all his might.

Tennis prospects looked better than average for this year. Twenty men turned out each afternoon at three to bat a ball around the court. Four of these twenty were lettermen, which made things look even better.

Credit should be given to Miss Elliott, who spent her free afternoons giving the boys pointers on the technique of the game. Tennis matches were included in every track meet Kearney attended, with the exception of the Creighton track and field meet.

Wayne McKinney, tennis letterman, reached the finals in last year's state tennis bout. From the twenty men in training, we should have two or three prepared to take the finals in this year's tournament.

Wayne McKinney, Kearney's threat on the courts, kept in practice by slamming a high ball.

Polley, Marymee, McKinney, Nicholson, Lengkeek, Burton, Bogue, and Byrum fought it out on the tennis court.

From Small Fry

The accumulation of a year's collection of pictures

Grow never revealed to us the name of the lucky girl he was calling.

Presenting . . . the brains. Scholarship winners were Harriett Conger, Mary Boyd, Ronald Kenney, and Ruth Dunbar. Don Zimmerman also won a scholarship this year.

Bottom: Zelda Jeanne Ryan was not going to drown, when the boat went down. Anyhow, that's what she said in the play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

To Seniors

Practice teaching in A. O. Thomas was work, but fun.

Right: A fast basketball game between Kearney and Chadron. The final tally was way over the eighty mark. Kearney on top, of course.

Among the Dean's faithful were Mary Mason and Joan Hardy.

The editor and photogs Miller and Schrack were dreaming of the day they too would wear the cap and gown.

The Whirl of College

No need for coats, according to Zelda Jeanne Ryan and Eileen Crawford, taking full advantage of the sunshine.

Typical of all veteran families, the Leland Marrows enjoyed their Vets Village home.

Frat Presidents Hock and Buettner discussed fraternity policies.

∴ Bob Hauver and Bill Gallagher were descending from third when they were snapped.

As spring advanced, the new Student Union did, too.

How we looked when caught off-guard was adequately represented by this section of cheerers at the Hastings-Kearney game.

At the end of a long day, Eileen Crawford took time off from studies to write a letter.
