

ATO

Fraternity caters to neighborhood

Alpha Tau Omega is a fraternity designed to promote "brotherhood and a sense of accomplishment," according to Bob Neville, ATO president.

ATO claimed 25 members last year, 10 of which were new pledges. The Little Sister program had 23 members.

One major event for the year was the ATO formal, held April 3, where the Little Sister Sweetheart was announced. Paula Slusarski, Monroe, claimed the title for the 1979-1980 year. The formal was held in Grand Island at the Holiday Inn.

A Founder's Day banquet was held March 29 in honor of the founders of ATO. All alumni were invited back to the KSC chapter. Dave Thomas of Denver was the guest speaker.

ATO also had a couple who danced in the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-thon on March 7-8. They were Chris Gaspers, Rushville, and Tami Nielsen, Minden. The members were also very active in social services in the community. Many members gave blood to the Red Cross bloodmobile and their time to the Bethphage Mission.

Money-making projects consisted of delivering flowers for Kearney Floral and telephone books for General Telephone Company.

"All in all, the ATO's had a great year," said Neville, "and are looking forward to a better one next year."

Seeks Greeks

Councils promote membership

Stimulating communication and goodwill between the Greek houses are the primary goals of the Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) and the Panhellenic Council. The IFC is the governing body of the KSC fraternities. Selected members from the seven fraternities meet twice a month to plan all-fraternity activities and to put together a rush pamphlet and a newsletter for each house. During the '79-'80 school year the IFC also initiated a president's meeting for the presidents from each fraternity which meets bi-monthly. Working with the Panhellenic Council, the IFC also organizes Greek Daze each spring.

The Panhellenic Council serves as the organizing and governing body for the five KSC sororities. At the beginning of each year the council takes an active part in planning rush proceedings. During the year it plans an officer's retreat for the executive members of each sorority and helps iron out problems that may arise between the sororities. The council is also responsible for organizing the Panhellenic Pot Luck Supper each fall and the all-sorority Scholarship Banquet each March. Both the IFC and the Panhellenic Council encourage scholastic achievement and unity among the Greeks.

Beta Sigma Psi fraternity offers its members an "opportunity for leadership," as well as a home away from home. Beta Sigma Psi is unique among collegiate fraternities in that it is a fraternity for Lutheran college men.

Brotherhood is the basic foundation of any fraternity, and the Beta Sigs feel the best way to foster brotherhood is through the bond of common faith. The fraternity's three main objectives are to develop each member spiritually, scholastically, and socially. Xi Chapter tries to meet these objectives by working at Campus Lutheran, scheduling many social events and striving for a high rank among fraternity grade averages.

Community projects, such as doing works at Bethphage Mission and participating in the Big Brother program, have kept the actives and associate members busy with city affairs. Beta Sigs continue to stress participation in student and intramural programs, as these programs help achieve the fraternity's goals.

The Antelope, the weekly newspaper on the KSC campus, kept students informed as to what was going on in the college community, as well as important issues in the campus area. Published every Thursday except for holidays the Antelope averaged about 5,000 copies in circulation per week.

The biggest change in the newspaper itself for this year consisted of the addition of the columnists' pictures on the editorial page, plus the fact that the staff felt that they offered a lot more professionalism than last year. This was emphasized by the news coverage in regard to other college newspapers.

The Antelope has claimed the All-American Newspaper Award since the beginning of the 1977 school year, when they earned the award from the Associated Collegiate Press.

The Encounter, a supplement to the Antelope, is published monthly. This once a month deadline gives the Encounter a more in-depth format than the Antelope, since it is published monthly as opposed to weekly. The Encounter involves more than straight news—it gives a more emotional view of the topic being presented.

"There's been a lot of improvements in the last few years, and I think this year's Encounter is really the best there's ever been," said Editor Tricia Keeley, Scottsbluff.

The Society for Collegiate Journalists (SCJ) is a journalism honorary that is open to students who have worked on a student publication for two semesters. New members were initiated in December and April.

A national convention for SCJ and journalism students meets every two years. SCJ sends as many people as possible to the fall

SCJ sponsors a Homecoming activity each year. They also sponsor the annual Journalism Christmas Party and the Journalism Picnic in the spring.

Money-making projects for SCJ this year included baking goodies for a bake sale and stuffing inserts for a local newspaper.

On the Air

Systems broadcast new formats

A format of contemporary music, rock, jazz, and Sunday morning classical music comprised the non-profit, non-commercial radio station of KOVF-FM. Going by the call letters of V-91, the station was a student production supervised by Dr. Bruce Elving. Anyone could go on the air, providing they were screened and an air check was run to test the sound over the air. Radio workshop students were required to have a two-hour air shift.

There was a definite format change during the second semester of this year. More Top 40 and disco music was played. The staff was different, new disc jockeys were given air shifts and there were more localized public service announcements and promotional advertisements.

"Since we changed formats, there's a lot less apathy, and more enthusiasm," Jeff Stoltenberg, production director, said. "Our staff looks at it as fun rather than work."

Stoltenberg summed up V-91's goals for the second semester by saying, "We opt for 15% listenership. My job is to make sure all announcers run a tight shift so that we have a good sound. The better we sound, the more listeners we have."

Alpha Epsilon Rho is a national broadcasting honorary. The KSC chapter, established in 1978, is a fairly new organization and is developing through the aid of area chapters and learning at national conventions.

Alpha Epsilon Rho had 13 student members with two professional members. The officers were: Valerie Cline, Bertrand, president; Tom Larson, Gothenburg, vice-president; Denise Harrington, Old Bridge, NJ, secretary; Tony Dillehay, Plattsmouth, professional alumni; and David Whillock, faculty advisor.

Activities included money-raising projects and attending the national convention at Las Vegas.

Members participated in the annual Bike Bowl, sponsored a dance, and was involved in getting broadcast majors and minors involved with working to become a more professional organization.

The Blue and Gold has come alive!

After a seven-year absence, the KSC yearbook, The Blue and Gold, is making a comeback.

According to Rob Wilson, yearbook adviser and first-year instructor, a decision to bring it back was made after a poll was taken in 1978 in the Introduction to Mass Communication classes taught by Peg Austin, adviser to the student newspaper. Wilson said the results of the poll showed a great interest in the return of the yearbook.

"Yearbooks are in a revival period," Wilson said, "just as many fads in the '50's are popular now."

To make up for lost time, a special "looking back" section was added to highlight the events which occurred at KSC while the book was absent. It covers sports, celebrities, concerts and physical changes on campus.

A staff of more than 30 students began work on the publication in early September and continued until May to assure complete coverage from moving in to graduation.

The 248-page book was published during the summer months with distribution during registration the following fall semester.

Cost of the yearbook began at $10 but increased to $15 in the spring. Unreserved copies were sold for $20 after publication.

After several weeks of instruction from Adviser Wilson, the combined efforts of Editor Nancy Calahan, Geneva; Copy Editor Tammy Moerer, Johnson; and Layout Editor Paula Kite, Stella, aided students with layout, copy, captions and photo selections. Photographers were led by Photo Editor Carla Meyer, Bertrand and financial and business matters were directed by Business Manager Nancy Jones, Silver Creek.

Crim. Justice; Med. Tech.

Clubs serve to better the community

Criminals beware. The Beta Chi chapter of Lambda Alpha Epsilon is everywhere. Now in its fifth year, the Criminal Justice Club assists the community by doing office work for Parents Anonymous. At high schools in the surrounding area, the club has strived to improve the administration of criminal justice with its "Dog and Pony Show." This project allows students to sentence criminals, acted out by members, and ask questions about prison life.

Helping to reduce theft on campus, the chapter's Catch-A-Thief program allows students to have their valuables labeled, making them easily traceable if stolen. The chapter was busy as it hosted the 1979 State Criminal Justice Conference. A social medium is also a part of the club. Skating parties and informal meetings help to unify the chapter.

Business; Education Clubs

Associations promote human interaction

Would you like to be a high financier in the business world? Being a member of Phi Beta Lambda could assist you.

A business service organization, Phi Beta Lambda allows you to work with businesses to observe their operations and to learn more about the business world. To promote this goal the club had lecturer Wendell Nutt of the Optimist Club speak of the business future. The club's major contribution is its sponsoring of the state convention. Students from 11 colleges compete in such fields as accounting, secretarial skills, dictation and more.

"Teaching is to touch a life forever." True in every respect, the Nebraska Student Education Association adopted this as their theme for the spring convention in Kearney. Striving to help students to become more knowledgeable, better informed and develop a broader perspective for the teaching profession are aspects of SEA. These goals are achieved through four publications on teaching, conventions, speakers and panels. An added benefit in being a member is $500,000 in liability insurance coverage. But the activity is not limited to teaching. Members have been busy with a Homecoming float and selling T-shirts. As any member will tell you "teachers is Guat People."

Ambassadors; 4-H Club

Organizations serve campus, community

The KSC Ambassadors consist of 12 students who serve as hosts and hostesses at official functions given by President McDonald and his wife.

The six men and six women are selected in the spring after a sequence of interviews.

An orientation retreat for the Ambassadors met for a weekend in September at a cabin near Kearney. Various administrators spoke to the group about the structure of the college. This enabled them to answer questions asked by visitors of the college.

The Ambassadors serve as guides for visitors to the campus; including foreign diplomats, such as the Russian delegates two years ago; state senators; and alumni. They also assist in the commencement ceremonies at graduation.

The Ambassadors spent another weekend in a cabin this winter, but this one was located in Colorado. The group including President McDonald, skied Copper Mountain and Breckenridge.

The group is coordinated through the College Relations Office.

A Lasting Impression

Academics

Administration

Officials steer KSC to record enrollment

The top administrator, Dr. Brendan J. McDonald, is the sixth president in the KSC history.

President McDonald grew up in Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada. He came to the U.S. to attend St. Cloud State University in Minnesota where he earned his undergraduate degree in physical education and physical science.

He earned his master of arts degree in administration and counseling at the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis and went on to receive his Ph.D. in philosophy at Michigan State University in East Lansing, Michigan.

McDonald was vice-president for academic affairs at Mankato State for four years and was vice-president for administration at St. Cloud State for one year prior to coming to KSC as president in September 1972.

In the past eight years as president at KSC, he has made significant changes.

Among these changes are: an increase in enrollment, the nursing program, a master's program in business administration, establishment of six-year level specialist degrees in education administration, the psychology department and the criminal justice program.

He has also made developmental changes on campus. Major changes include: the construction of Founders Hall, the Fine Arts addition, renovation of Case Hall and the expansion of programs to West Campus.

Fine Arts

Programs, wing provides new addition

Approximately 65 faculty members and 617 undergraduate majors complete the Fine Arts and Humanities School at KSC. Majors offered in the school are Journalism, English, Art, Speech, Foreign Languages and Music.

In the past seven years, the School of Fine Arts and Humanities has made many changes.

In physical changes, the sculpture annex, on west campus, was added to the Fine Arts School. Another change was the new wing which was added on to the Fine Arts Center in the 1979-80 school year. The new wing consists of an art gallery, classrooms and offices.

Buildings weren't the only changes in the past seven years. The school also extended their academic programs, according to Dr. Harry Hoffman, dean of Fine Arts and Humanities. The Foreign Language Department added translation in foreign languages and the Music Department expanded their program by adding classes in Music Merchandising and Music Therapy.

Advertising and Public Relations majors were added to the Journalism Department and the English Department included a Language Arts major in their curriculum. The school also began to offer a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Each year the drama department puts on five plays. The performances include a dinner theater, a musical and a production given by the Alpha Psi Omega honorary. The students also work on productions with the community theater.

In addition to this, students in the Music Department have recitals throughout the year and senior art students display their art exhibits in the gallery.

Management Trade

Business booms and moves out west

The School of Business and Technology consists of five departments, but they all have one thing in common: an enthusiasm on the part of both students and faculty. Students really "got into" what they were doing in their major areas, whether it was practicing karate, learning shorthand, or studying furniture styles.

Gene Koepke heads the Business Department, the largest on campus with an enrollment of 1,300. Its curriculum has changed considerably in the past five years, now offering a major in accounting, business administration, personnel, marketing, management, or real estate. A two-year secretarial program is offered also.

Business faculty offices are located on West Campus, but classes meet in the Otto Olsen building. The Master's Degree in Business program is popular. Judging from 1979 enrollment, graduates will continue to expand the program.

The Nebraska Safety Center is the newest addition to the School of B & T. It was established in 1978 with the help of Nebraska Senator Ron Cope, Eugene Buck, and Floyd Krubeck, both of the Industrial Ed. Department.

Darrel Jensen directs the center, which emphasizes traffic, industrial, recreational, home, and fire safety. Students minored in safety education, took classes in motorcycle safety, or worked toward an endorsement in driver education.

The Safety Center is located on the second floor of the old TB hospital. A defensive driving range is in progress and completion is planned for 1981.

Students in the Industrial Ed. Department were busy working on various projects and training for teacher education or industrial management in construction or manufacturing.

The sound chairs in the student union were designed and constructed by plastics classes several years ago; this year one of their projects was a canoe!

Dr. Ron Tuttle, industrial chairman, saw over 40 men graduate from the department in 1980. They took classes in power and auto mechanics, metals, woods, drafting, graphics, welding, electronics, photography and crafts.

I.E. 110 is an introductory course in which students received one credit hour for six weeks. They were able to plan their entire four-year schedule as well as familiarize themselves with different jobs in the industrial field.

Military Science students in their junior or senior years received $100 a month from the U.S. Army for going to school. Students belonging to the National Guard received extra pay.

About one-third of ROTC students this year were women. Four senior girls comprised the largest percentage of females to graduate from KSC in the Military Science program.

Rifle teams, pistol labs, parachute club, self-defense class, scuba lessons, and rapelling were a few of the activities in which students participated.

The departmental staff changes every three years, as a part of U.S. Army policy, according to Capt. Douglas Broulette and Col. David Harrigan.

Housed in the Otto Olsen building is the Home Ec. Department, headed by Wilma Larsen. 180 girls majored in home ec. this year, but not only in vocational home ec.

Rich Sund, Guide Rock, with rope secured, rappels down the walls of the A. O. Thomas building (Photo by Camille Whitefoot).

Many new areas were offered, dietetics being the most recent program added. Women also specialized in fashion merchandising, interior design, consumer services, human development and relationships, food and nutrition, and clothing and textiles.

A popular course with KSC students was Home Ec. 151, Human Sexual Behavior, taught by Helen Redden. Many students took the Marriage and Family course also.

The Homecoming breakfast is an annual event for the Home Ec. Department, and this year dozens of alumni attended. Combining their efforts, the Home Ec. and Industrial Ed. departments produced the winning float in the '79-'80 parade.

The Sciences

the body and mind*

The School of Natural and Social Sciences has experienced many changes within the last seven years. One of these changes is the moving of their office from Bruner Hall of Science to the Fine Arts Center.

Other changes include the addition of new programs. Some of these new programs include nursing, social work and criminal justice programs.

The nurse's program is a four-year baccalaureate program. The first nursing majors graduated in May with approximately seventeen in the class.

Nursing students receive training that will be beneficial to those planning to practice in rural settings. Their training includes working at the Good Samaritan Hospital and the Veterans Hospital in Grand Island.

The west wing of the Tuberculosis Hospital at West Campus has been renovated for the classrooms and lab space.

Also new to the School of Natural and Social Sciences is the criminal justice program. It is run in cooperation with North Platte Junior College and McCook Junior College. Students at these two locations can also take the criminal justice courses and receive their degree without attending KSC.

In conjunction with the State Historical Society, a new archives has been added to the Calvin T. Ryan Library. The archives are a new part of the History Department and are available to the public.

Education

School houses 40 per cent of the graduating students

The School of Education is growing. Containing approximately 40% of the student body, the school consists of 1,600 undergraduate and 1,200 graduate students pursuing a career in education. Many changes are taking place in the individual departments to meet the needs of these students.

The Department of Student Teaching now offers students the option to teach for a full semester while receiving college credit. Other classes are being offered to expose students to the classroom environment. Education 390 Observation and Participation involves 40 of classroom observation in the teaching field, and Education 464 Contemporary Issues in Education is a required class prior to student teaching.

The Educational Administration and Counseling and Education Psychology departments offer specialist degrees for graduate students. KSC is the only state college that prepares school psychologists.

In the Special Education Department, headed by Dr. Larry Betterman, programs have been developed and revised. The master's degree has been expanded to include four levels of study: the Resource Itinerary Personnel, Emotionally Disturbed, Mentally Retarded and Specific Disabilities.

ts

The Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education now offers an Early Childhood Handicapped endorsement. This endorsement provides students with the teaching experience needed for early childhood education programs serving pre-schoolers, infants, and children with handicapped conditions.

The Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department provide an athletic training endorsement. This endorsement deals with sports injuries, teaching preventive measures as well as the care of these injuries. A new program is a sports communication minor which includes broadcast journalism in the field of sports. There is also an exercise psychology laboratory that accesses human performance in order to plan new exercise programs.

The Departments of Education are changing and developing new programs to meet the needs of students and their careers. As Dr. Leonard Skov stated, "For better or for worse, the size of our department makes KSC very responsible for what is going on in Nebraska classrooms."

Graduate School

Students return for further fulfillment

Although this is only the first year that Thomas Flickema is the acting Dean of the Graduate School, it has been in existence for 26 years. Students pursuing a master's degree usually either attend classes or student teach. According to Flickema, graduates spend two and one half to three years in graduate school, if on a part-time basis. Those who attend full-time, can complete their masters degree in about one and one half years.

Student Gov't

Senate controls purse strings

Since 1967, the Student Senate of KSC has been keeping active in student activities. According to President Mike Sunderman, the Senate is a governing body designed to handle student opinions and rights and is responsible for allocating student activity fees.

In the past, the Student Senate was credited for allocating money to CAC for sponsoring a variety of speakers, concerts, dances, and free movies. They also helped with book exchanges, course description pamphlets and the campus traffic court.

the '20s

Lopermania

Brilliance sparkles across the athletic spectrum

The 1970's. For many Americans it was a time of rising prices and shrinking dollars. But for KSC it was a decade of growth and prosperity in many aspects. Enrollment jumped from 5,800 in 1970 to 6,500 in 1980. Buildings went up, skirts went down, records were broken, and tuition took a hike from $14 per credit hour in 1970 to $18 in 1980.

In the sports department, the 70's were Tom Kropp, the NAIA National Basketball Championships, "Charlie's Angels," "Scorin' Loren" Killion, and a chance to compete in the Apple Bowl. But perhaps the most exciting and memorable event for Loper fans was the Cinderella Team from Nebraska that almost took all the marbles in KayCee.

March, 1978, a 30-point, 19-rebound game from KSC standout Tim Higgins led the Antelopes past rival Hastings to determine who would represent Nebraska in the 41st Annual NAIA Basketball Championships at Kemper Arena. The rest is history.

Tom Ritzdorf and Randy Cipriano were named to the NAIA First Team (Photo by the Antelope).

The unseeded Lopers began their fourth appearance in the NAIA tournament by edging eighth ranked Mercyhurst College, PA 70-69. Next in line was the Wisconsin-Parkside Rangers, seeded ninth. Tim Mohanna of Cairo stole the show when he tipped in the tying basket at the buzzer to put the game in overtime, 71-71. Randy Cipriano, Lincoln, then took control and sank 9 of 10 free throws in overtime play and the Lopers came out on top 84-80.

The toughest game was supposedly ahead against number one seeded Winston-Salem, NC. But the Lopers ignored the ranking and with a 24-point effort by sophomore Higgins, won 89-76. Quincy, IL was the next victim to fall on the Loper's trek to the championship game. A miracle last second bucket by Tom Ritzdorf, Howells, gave KSC a 76-74 victory over Quincy and a shot at the championship.

It was the Lopers vs. the Lopers in the final match. Second seeded Grand Canyon, AZ proved to be the only stumbling block for Kearney as they were defeated 79-75. But the show wasn't quite over for the Lopers. Senior Ritzdorf and junior Cipriano were named to the NAIA Tournament First Team and Higgins, an Omaha native, was chosen for the Second Team. Ritzdorf was also awarded the Chuck Taylor Award for the tourney's Most Valuable Player. Cipriano was the recipient of the Charles B. Stevenson Hustle Award. The cagers compiled a 22-7 record.

In their last appearance of the decade, the Lopers, seeded 14th, won their opening round contest by downing LeMoyne-Owen College, TN 98-79, but were eliminated by eventual champs of Drury, MO 72-69. The Antelopes finished their 1979 season 25-8 and for the second year in a row lost to the NAIA national champions.

Some have labeled the years from 1971 to 1975 as "The Tom Kropp Era." He has been called the greatest athlete to compete at KSC in both basketball and football. A 1975 graduate, Kropp spent two years as a fullback before missing his junior year with a knee injury. As a senior linebacker he was named to the NAIA All-American team.

In basketball, Kropp won the Charles B. Stevenson Hustle Award at the 1975 NAIA National Basketball Championships even though KSC lost an opening round game to second seeded Fairmont, WV, 94-86. It was the first time the award had ever gone to a player who participated in only one game.

In his four years under Coach Jerry Hueser, Kropp set the following records: 51 points in one game; 596 points in one season; 1,885 points in his career; a 20.6 point average; and a 11.2 rebound average. His career scoring record was broken by 1977 graduate Loren Killion who compiled a career 2,100 points. Killion was also on the NAIA District 11 All-District team in 1974, 75 and 76.

Kropp continued his success story when he was drafted in the eighth round of the NFL draft along with hometown teammate Kirk Heyer, by the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers. But basketball his first love, the Aurora native signed up with the Washington Bullets and later, the Chicago Bulls. After a brief study in the KSC graduate program, Kropp joined Killion in the Belgium National Basketball League in 1979.

The Antelopes weren't exciting only on the basketball court in the 1970's. The football field was also a successful spot, especially in 1977. Coach Claire Boroff led his crew to the NAIA semi-final playoff game in Weatherford, OK. The Division I winner would advance to the Apple Bowl in Seattle's Kingdome for the championship. But the Loper gridders lost to eventual runner-up Southwestern, OK 21-7. An 8-2-1 record landed KSC a fourth place in the Division I poll when the season ended.

Just the year before in 1976, Boroff's squad posted its best record since the 1967 team under Al Zikmund went 9-0. Boroff and company earned a 9-1 record and finished seventh in the nation.

"Charlie's Angels," the title given to Coach Charlie Foster's women's track team, has also been exciting, dominating the Nebraska teams for many years. Retiring in 1972, Foster coaches the "Angels" on a voluntary basis and has built one of the best woman's squads in the Midwest.

Two of Foster's products, Marilyn Wiese Dubbs, Wood River, and Jill Stenwall, Winside, have earned national attention.

Dubbs, a 1977 graduate, won every event in high jumping in 1976 and 1977, including a winning 6' jump at the famed Drake Relays in Des Moines. That 6' leap was an all-time Drake record and is the highest any Nebraska woman has ever jumped.

Fellow "Angel" Jill Stenwall, a senior at KSC, topped a winning season in 1979 by throwing the shot put her career best of 51'1" at the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs, CO.

A men's track squad member also has been in the national spotlight. Carl Stromberg, a 1977 graduate from New Jersey, ran for both the track and cross country teams at KSC. After graduating he went to the west coast where he has won several marathon races.

In 1975 and 1977 the women's volleyball team was also in the spotlight. The squad took their first trip in 1975 to the AIAW National Championships since the team began in 1966. After winning the Region VI AIAW Title in Cushing Coliseum, Coach Rosella Meier's team finished seventh in the nation in a field of 15.

Two years later the spikers earned a berth in the Small College National Tournament at Pepperdine University in Los Angeles. The Nebraska state champs lost to Lewis and Clark and eventual national champions Texas Lutheran. But the team got an opportunity to participate in a benefit game with celebrities Ben, Mary Ellen and Erin from the television series "The Waltons," Joanie from "Happy Days," and Los Angeles Dodger Pitcher Don Sutton and Manager Tom Lasorda.

The women's basketball team posted a 21-9 season in 1979 setting a KSC record for the most wins in a season. The women cagers also took the runner-up spot in the State AIAW Tournament after a loss to Midland.

THE 1977-78 WAGONEERS—Front Row: Janet Collins, Overton; Mary Jo Meyer, Bertrand. Second Row: Taine Fruit, North Platte; Pam Kenny, Amherst; Jill Lupher, Minatare; and Jennifer Dlouhy, Kearney.

Another "new" for Loper fans was the organization of the Spirit Squad in 1978. The 12-member group is a combination of the cheerleaders and Wagoneers. The Wagoneers were organized in 1955 as a dance group to perform at basketball and football games. According to the 1955 Blue and Gold, their purpose was to provide an opportunity for students to participate in a special activity emphasizing precision drills and popular dance routines.

That's Entertainment

Spotlights showcase top artists on campus

Sports not only highlighted the '70's, but many well-known faces visited the campus. John Denver performed in concert in 1973, as well as comedienne Lily Tomlin. In 1974, it was singer Michael Johnson, comedian Robert Klein, country-western star Johnny Cash, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Jim Stafford, Sly and the Family Stone and the Franklin and Davis Comedy Duo, a regular on "Saturday Night Live."

Making appearances in 1975 were Dave Loggins, The Hues Corporation, actor Vincent Price and Barry Manilow with back-up comedian David Brenner.

The following year brought Michael Johnson to the stage again, the second of four KSC appearances. Singer and writer Harry Chapin performed in the spring of 1976, also. In October, England Dan and John Ford Coley and Starbuck performed for the 1976 Homecoming concert. Soon after, David Toma spoke about his life as a New York City street cop. The television series "Baretta" is based on his experiences with crime. Vincent Bugliosi, author of "Helter Skelter" also talked about his experiences with the Charles Manson murder trials.

"Spiders and Snakes" was one of singer and writer Jim Stafford's earlier hits. He gave a concert at Cushing Coliseum the winter of 1975.

"Black Elk Speaks" was presented by the Folger Theatre Group in January 1977. The production, based on the book by John G. Niehardt, spanned the 400-year history of the native American Indians. Niehardt was a native Nebraskan and poet laureate.

Well-known editorialist Paul Harvey spoke at KSC in 1978 and Emmett Kelly, Jr., following his father's footsteps, brought his act and his circus to campus. The only other shows in 1978 were by the Ozark Mountain Daredevils and Michael Johnson, his third concert at KSC.

Spring 1979 brought the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra to Campus. The group, one of 31 major symphonies, appeared in Nebraska for the first time. Other celebrities to visit KSC in the spring of 1979 were Ann Compton, ABC News correspondent to the White House and once again, Michael Johnson.

--by Nancy Calahan

Michael Johnson appeared in Kearney five times in the '70's, his last concert in 1978.

"Jackie Blue" was the favorite song by the Ozark Mountain Daredevils at KSC in 1978.

Comedian Robert Klein now appears on several talk shows such as "Mike Douglas" and "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson.

ABC News correspondent Ann Compton reports on the happenings in the White House. She spoke to a KSC crowd in February 1979.

David Toma shared his experiences as a narcotics investigator.

Academic Skyscrapers

Higher education soars to new heights

KSC's growth has not only been evident in the increasing enrollment figures, but also in its physical appearance. Buildings went up and down, more parking was provided, additions were made and the growing process continues as KSC continues to grow.

The construction of Founder's Hall was a major step toward expansion. Dedicated on April 28, 1978, the $1.8 million building houses 11 departments in the School of Education, Fine Arts and Humanities and Natural and Social Sciences. According to Brendan J. McDonald, president, in a 1978 issue of the K-Stater, the building is dedicated to the memory of the original faculty and administration of the college, hence, Founder's Hall.

Another development in the '70's was the addition of West Campus on College Drive. The former TB Hospital was first granted to KSC in 1972 by the Nebraska State Legislature. The main building of the hospital houses the Nursing Program, Safety Center, Vocational Center, Nebraska Arts Council and Speech Pathology. In 1977 the business faculty made its move west to the old nurses quarters, formerly the Campus House. The construction of College Drive bordering the north side of campus in 1976 helped bring the two campuses together.

This 1974 snow scene of the front of the Administration Building will be one of several memories after it is gone. Plans for the demolition of the three-story structure have begun (Photo by KSC News Bureau).

The most recent major construction project was the $750,000 addition to the Fine Arts Center. Groundbreaking ceremonies were in 1977 with the first classes using the wing in 1980. When the building is completed, present occupants of the Administration Building will be relocated to other parts of the campus so the 75-year-old structure can be demolished. That project, however, will not take place for several months after the move into the new art wing.

Additional campus changes have included the construction of more parking lots. This is one of the first steps toward providing peripheral parking around the campus, which will eventually lead to closing the intersecting streets to the internal campus. The area between 27th and 28th Streets west of 9th Avenue was cleared and paved in 1976. The following summer the parking lot behind Mantor and Randall Halls was completed.

The redwood-paneled KSC sign near Highway 30 was finished in 1976 after the original marquee was destroyed in a fire of undetermined cause. The style of the sign matches that of the signs which were constructed in front of all campus buildings in 1977.

A major facelift for Case Hall, men's and women's living quarters, was completed in 1979. The oldest dormitory on campus received new plumbing, electrical and mechanical systems, study and television lounges, laundry equipment, new fire escapes, windows, a coat of paint and carpet.

Working on the final pages of this book is like a dream come true when not long ago the Blue and Gold was nothing more than an idea. The trek from idea to reality has not been an easy one, as I'm sure the staff will agree. A new editor, a new advisor and a new staff starting from scratch created more problems than I thought possible. Plagued with slow sales, unorganization, unanswered questions and no office, the first six months looked hopeless. But with lots of patience and perseverance, the first shipment of pages was sent and we struggled on. After what seems like an eternity, the last few pages are due to be marked off and mailed.

Since the last Blue and Gold in 1973, many changes have been made at KSC. Our goal has been to provide an inside look at KSC in 1980 and touch on the highlights of KSC since 1973. No doubt we have forgotten people, places and events, but we hope we have given an idea of the hectic world in which college students live.

The 1980 Blue and Gold is simple, but we hope the ordinary doesn't overshadow the potential for growth and tradition. "A Lasting Impression" is what we, the Blue and Gold staff, hope this book will be.

I would like to give special thanks to the following people for their constant encouragement and concern: Peg Austin for the idea for a yearbook, Jim Rundstrom for his advice and last minute help, Bill Meier and Pauline Jacobson of Zimmerman Printing for their patience with us, my husband Scott for his understanding, and the person who kept me and this book going when things looked hopeless—Rob Wilson.
