Senate reorganizes Student Court, starts Traffic Court

Student Senate has served as the student's governing body since its formation in 1967. Its primary functions are to handle students' opinions and rights and to allocate student activity fees to various campus organizations, according to Sue Miller, president.

Members of Student Senate are elected by a majority of the student population. After preparing platforms and campaigning on campus, four freshmen, three sophomores, two juniors and two seniors are elected as senators each March. Four senators-at-large, the president and the vice-president are also elected at this time.

During the past school year students witnessed the reorganization of the Student court, which had been out of operation for the past seven years. The court handled such cases as alcohol abuse, vandalism and cheating, each a violation of KSC laws. Traffic court, book exchange and campus clean-up were other activities handled by the Student Senate.

SEA/EI Ed

Groups provide ideal setting for discussing education issues

The Elementary Education Club was organized in 1969 by Dr. Wayne Marshall. It provides elementary education majors with the opportunity to discuss education issues and is an ideal place for students sharing a common interest to get acquainted.

Approximately six meetings were held during the year. These meetings often included speakers on various issues related to teaching. Dr. John Dudley from Stephenson School Supply spoke to the group about motivation in the school.

A visit to an open classroom in Hastings was included in this year's activities. An open classroom combines several grades in one classroom setting.

The group's social highlights included a Christmas party and spring picnic. Student teachers were invited to the picnic to share experiences they had encountered.

Faculty adviser for the Elementary Education Club was Dr. Ed Walker.

The local chapter of the Student Education Association was established in 1951. It is open to education majors of all ages and provides the opportunity to discuss educational problems ranging from discipline to drug and alcohol abuse.

Group meetings were conducted on the second Thursday of each month. Guest speakers and films often highlighted the night's discussion. Social activities included a wine and cheese Christmas party and a barbecue in the spring.

Members paid dues of $13.50 a year, which entitled them to up to $500,000 in liability insurance during the time they student taught. They also received four publications pertaining to education.

Becoming a member enabled students to attend state teachers convention at no cost. T-shirts were sold at the convention as a money-making project.

Meetings were conducted on the first and third Wednesdays of each month and often included a speaker relating experiences of some area relevant to psychology.

Psych Week was held April 8-10 to promote areas of psychology to the college and community. Activities included several speakers, a panel discussion on relationships, a rat race, and a wine and cheese party. The event was concluded with a banquet at the Ramada Inn.

Antelope/Encounter/SCJ

Publications, honorary strive for journalistic professionalism

The Antelope is the weekly newspaper published every Thursday except during vacation periods by KSC students. Circulation of the paper reached 5,200 this year.

Editors of the Antelope and the Encounter visited Chicago in October for the Associated Collegiate Press Convention. The Antelope was in competition for the Pace-Maker Award, an honor given to the top five college newspapers in the country. The KSC newspaper was also honored with an All-American rating, received for the sixth consecutive semester.

The Encounter, a supplement to the Antelope, was published once a month during the fall semester, but completely changed its format for the spring semester. Published only once, in April, the Encounter was no longer a tabloid, but an eight and a half by eleven inch magazine. The 32-page publication included a variety of stories, art and photography. Printed on a better quality paper with more distinctive advertisements, the Encounter came across as the professional publication the editors aimed for.

The Society for Collegiate Journalists is a journalism honorary open to students who have worked on a student publication for at least two semesters. Fifteen new members were initiated this year.

Many SCJ members went to the national SCJ Convention held on the Evangel College campus in Springfield, Mo., in April.

Money-raising projects for SCJ members included bake sales and selling "Lopers do it in a herd" bumper stickers.

Social events this year ranged from a Homecoming reception for KSC alumni to the annual Christmas party at Western Inn South and the annual end-of-the-year picnic at a local sand pit south of Kearney.

KSTV/V91

Students gain 'hands on' experience in radio, television media

Professionalism is needed in broadcasting as well as in any other area, and, at KSTV, professionalism is one goal "we strive and shoot for," according to Robert Larson, KSTV adviser.

Larson's return to KSTV after a year's absence was one of the changes KSTV experienced this year. Under his guidance, the station returned to a five-day broadcasting week. Working with a three-man skeleton crew four days a week, students learned to work cameras and other audio-visual equipment. Each student rotated from one position to another during the semester in order to gain a background in each of the areas of television production.

In addition, students wrote their own stories and produced their own video-taped interviews, focusing on campus news in preparation for the Wednesday broadcast, at which time a full 16-man crew was used.

Larson said another change he noticed in broadcasting was that many non-traditional-aged students were returning to retrain themselves for better careers.

KSTV has grown considerably since it was first established through a government grant in 1958, according to Larson. At that time the station was part of multi-view cable television. Then, in 1975, a closed circuit cable was brought in, allowing KSTV to originate programming for live remote productions and news presentations. Originally located in the basement of the Administration Building, KSTV is now housed on the second floor of the A. O. Thomas Building.

Campus radio station, KOVF-FM, known to many people as V-91, had an active year with more listeners than ever before. The station, managed by Tony Dillehay, received many additions in programming during the year.

In January, V-91's Back-to-School "Blow-Out" dance was enjoyed by many in the Student Union Ballroom. March brought another dance with a high attendance.

Early in February, V-91 held their "Delicious Valentine" contest. Listeners could call in to win pizzas and sandwiches by naming a secret ingredient. The grand prize was a dinner for two at one of Kearney's finest restaurants.

V-91's extensive coverage of the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-Thon was another big project, and many tuned in to hear the live bands and the results of the 30-hour dance. In addition, live interviews with dance contestants and band members were conducted.

V-91's request line was an added feature for its audience. Many listeners called in the music they liked to hear, and many were given V-91's "Instant Request" priority.

V-91 also provided interviews with KSC students, kept the public tuned in to the world with news updates and passed along information concerning special local activities.

Anyone could be a V-91 disc jockey, and many new dj's received training at the station this year. Learning to "spin the records" was a combination of fun and hard work for those in the radio workshop.

Circle K

CPR marathon places club record in Guinness Book

There's an old poster hanging in the Administration Building which sums up the purpose of KSC's Circle K Club.

The poster reads:

Community
Involvement
Recognition
Cooperative
Learning
Enrichment
Knowledge

The club's theme, 'Caring...Life's Magic,' was the basis for this year's activities, according to Jim Welborn, club president.

Welborn said the club raised $1,200 in their Walk-a-Thon for the March of Dimes. Other club activities included a CPR Marathon February 14-28. The club sponsored 340 hours of continuous CPR to break into the Guinness Book of World Records.

Circle K is in its seventh year on campus and is open to any person enrolled at KSC. Members also serve at the district and international level.

Spurs/4-H Club

Service to community stressed by clubs

Spurs, a service organization for sophomore women, has been involved with fund-raising and service projects since its beginning at KSC.

The 30-member organization visited the children's ward of the Good Samaritan Hospital, donated money to the Un-Pub and Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-Thon and also helped with tours at the Frank House during the 1980-81 year.

Spurs also organized a Mr. Legs Contest, in which KSC men's basketball players' legs were photographed and displayed in the union. Students placed money votes for their favorite legs, and the money raised from the contest was donated to the Special Olympics.

The KSC chapter also hosted the Spurs Regional Convention in the spring.

Ambassadors/Jazz Rock

Ambassadors, musicians find different ways to promote KSC

During a two-day retreat in September the KSC Ambassadors learned about the various offices and departments on campus so that they could answer questions asked to them by visitors.

Ambassadors assisted the office of the president by serving as hosts and hostesses for presidential functions. They also conducted tours of the campus for such guests as alumni, dignitaries, and senators and assisted Vincent Price when he visited the campus.

Crabtree Warriors

Intramural success follows Warrior group

Crabtree Warriors was founded two years ago on the second floor of Randall Hall, when seven friends decided to form an intramural basketball team. Its name was derived from the last name of one of the founding members, Sheldon Crabtree. Approximately 125 KSC coeds are now associated with the group.

Intramural success has followed the Warriors throughout its two years of existence at KSC. During the 1980-81 year they were first in the men's beef pull, men's wrestling and men's single tennis. Second place status was earned for pre-season and regular men's basketball. The coed softball team made it to the championship playoffs. Besides participating in a wide variety of intramural sports, including volleyball, turkey trot, basketball, softball and women's wrestling, team members also took time out for numerous social events during the year. With the motto "Have a beer, it don't matter," the group of friends celebrated year-round with back-to-school parties, a toga party, Christmas party, Valentine's party and others.

During spring break ten members of the team went skiing at Copper Mountain and Breckenridge, while others vacationed in Arizona or remained in Kearney. A two-year tradition of a camping trip to Branched Oaks in August was continued in the summer of '81.

Phi Beta Lambda

Club strives to build competent, aggressive business leaders

Interaction with the local business community is the main purpose of KSC's national business organization, Phi Beta Lambda.

The club strives to build competent and aggressive leaders through various projects and conventions.

President Dianne Thieszen said the club sold Diamond Jubilee mugs during homecoming, held a pie-eating contest, attended the regional conference over fall break, attended a leadership conference in Columbus, Neb., and sold advertising for a desk blotter that was distributed to KSC students.

The club also hosted the state convention April 6-7 at the Kearney Holiday Inn.

Thieszen served as state PBL secretary and Diane Dunse as state vice president.

Another major project was holding a breakfast for local business persons during the National Phi Beta Lambda Week, February 8-14. The club presented information to the local business community about PBL.

The club is open to all business students at KSC. Thieszen said the group hopes to reach 75 members before the end of her term.

Advisers for the club are Sam Reno, Dale Ingram and Amy Lease.

Alpha Phi Omega

Service fraternity seeks to serve others

Playing musical chairs with handicapped children was part of an APO pledge project of which Margaret Moritz, Omaha, takes a part.

The purpose of Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity is to develop leadership, promote friendship, and provide service to humanity. Alpha Phi Omega is unique in that it is a service fraternity and therefore has no conflicts with social fraternities or independents.

A self-governing organization, the Xi Beta chapter on campus elected new officers each semester to develop leadership. To promote friendship, APO members often gathered to socialize at Sax's Pizza or went dancing at Dicky Dugan's after Wednesday night meetings. They also planned a family night at the Armory with a potluck dinner and dance. Because of its success, they hope to make the event a tradition.

Service to the community as well as to the nation is the most important aspect of Alpha Phi Omega. The Muscular Dystrophy Superdance, a year-round project, was the biggest service carried out by APO and was the largest money-raising Superdance in Nebraska. Other service projects this year included assisting the Red Cross in setting up the Blood Mobile, working with mentally handicapped children from Whittier's Special Service School, visiting the elderly at Mother Hull Home, painting the houses of the Mid-Nebraska Retardation Services and taking fourth graders from Bryant Elementary School to the movie "Lady and the Tramp."

Alpha Phi Omega Little Sisters served as a strong support system for the fraternity, assisting with projects and providing the men with treats at the meetings and organizing special events such as a surprise kidnap breakfast at the Thirsty Ear.

NHEA

Home Ec majors publish cookbook

Working hard to publish a cookbook and having fun selling donuts during NHEA Week were but two of the highlights of 1980-81 for members of the Nebraska Home Economics Association.

Although NHEA itself is relatively new compared to other campus organizations, the home ec department is one of the oldest at KSC. Established in 1909, the "Domestic Science" program, as it was then called, initially occupied a cottage on campus. Today, the program has grown to encompass four major areas of specialization: clothing and textiles, dietetics, human development and family economics and management.

Open to any home ec major, NHEA met twice a month during the year, often with a guest speaker present. Throughout the year members worked to submit recipes for their cookbook and made plans for the state convention in Omaha, which were held in both the spring and fall semesters. During NHEA Week in April, members had displays in the union breezeway and also gave home ec presentations in Kearney and other area schools. A field trip to the Golden Rod at St. James Square to learn about the gourmet food business was also a highlight of the year.

Club member Leatha McCabe was elected vice president at the state convention and will be an official when the convention meets in Kearney next year.

Rapid growth of KSC during the 1960's helped initiate the movement towards national affiliation with the Greek system. National organizations, faced with negative reaction to the "Greeks" on many major campuses, began to look toward colleges such as KSC as potential areas for expansion.

The Greek system is now a strong organization on the KSC campus, working toward unification of the five sororities and seven fraternities under the guidance of the Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) and the Panhellenic Council.

IFC, the governing body of the fraternities, is composed of 15 individuals including two representatives and the president from each house. IFC deals with the promotion of the Greek system, organizes community service projects and participates in Honey Sunday each year. Together with the Panhellenic Council, the IFC also organizes Greek Daze each spring.

Panhellenic Council, the governing body for the five KSC sororities, participates actively in rush proceedings and organizes various service projects. During the year, members plan events such as the all-sorority banquet, the annual Scholarship Dance and Greek Week. The council also deals with potential problems between the sororities as they strive to reach their goal of unification between individual houses.

Alpha Omicron Pi

AOPis stay active through service projects, social functions

Alpha Omicron Pi first started as a local sorority, Phi Sigma, in 1967. It became a national sorority on the KSC campus in 1969.

In 1980-81 AOPis were busy with numerous activities and functions. During the Diamond Jubilee festivities Kelly Johnson, Alliance, was crowned homecoming queen. Members also participated in the Sig Ep Olympics, where Cindy Christensen, Fremont, was crowned as queen.

Alpha Omicron Pi was busy with many service projects throughout the year. Over $1700 was raised for the Arthritis Foundation during their annual 75-hour rocking chair marathon. During the spring semester AOPis raised money for Headstart by having a car wash. Members also raised money for Easter Seals and Campus House. Because of their activeness, AOPi was nominated for a distinguished service award by their regional vice president. The award was presented at the International Convention in Kansas City in June.

Functions for the fall semester included a Thanksgiving dinner for members and Big Brothers, a Family Day and a Halloween Party with the alumni children. Members showed their appreciation for their alumni by planning special activities one week, including a picnic and serenade.

Social events for the year included Champagne Ball, Kidnap Keg, Sisterhood Keg and AOPi Rose Formal. At the Rose Formal Donna Suhr, Seward, received the Girl of AOPi award and Pat Minton, Omaha, was honored as the Big Brother of the Year.

Alpha Phi

Campus activities, 'Miss Nebraska' sister highlight year for Phis

Originally organized as Kappa Alpha Phi and the last sorority to go national, the Alpha Phis participated in numerous campus activities throughout the year.

The house has several members who participated in Ambassadors, Spirit Squad, Who's Who, the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-thon, and as candidates for homecoming queen.

One highlight of KSC's Diamond Jubilee year occurred in the spring, when sister LaDonna Hill was named Miss Nebraska-U.S.A., the first KSC coed to earn such an honor. Miss Hill, from Seward, Neb., made a national television appearance at the Biloxi, Miss., pageant in May.

The KSC chapter was honored as the second strongest chapter in the nation and was the top regional chapter.

Sisterhood was also stressed. The house, along with Phi Kappa Tau, competed in several homecoming activities, including the float competition and the banner contest, which they won. They also held a banquet at Ramada Inn for their alumni during homecoming.

Other house activities included a fall retreat, a January formal, a hog roast in September, a Christmas Fiesta and a ski trip to Copper Mountain and Loveland Basin in Colorado.

The house pledged 29 new members in the fall and initiation was held on Feb. 1.

The chapter also performed several service projects in support of the Heart Fund. These included selling heart-shaped lollipops and sponsoring a dance for minors at Dicky Dugans.

Chi Omega

Oldest sorority exhibits school spirit, community involvement

Chi Omega was the first sorority to be founded on a national plan. The Chi Omegas came to KSC in 1962 as the Iota Zeta Chapter.

This year Chi Omega was an active money raiser for Easter Seals through their annual Bunny Hop. They also made placemats for local senior citizen homes, helped raise money for Campus House and helped at the Frank House needlepoint exhibit.

Chi Omega members showed their homecoming spirit by winning the Diamond Jubilee Sweepstakes. They placed first in float competition with the Beta Sigma Psi fraternity. They also placed first in the spirit and sign competition and third in the banner competition.

The sorority also participated in Bike Bowl and Greek Daze. Sue Haeberle, Kearney, was named Greek Woman of the year during Greek Daze. Chi Omega also took part in the Sig Ep Olympics, with their pledge class placing first.

Functions for the 1980-81 year included Cotillion Formal Dance, Cottonball Theme Dance, 50's Sock Hop and House Party. Chi Omega also had a mother-daughter Valentine Dinner and Parent's Day.

Gamma Phi Beta

House participation, campus activities stressed by sorority

Campus activities and house participation are two strong ideals in Gamma Phi Beta.

The house pledged 31 new members in the fall and all qualified for initiation January 24. An inspiration week was held prior to initiation to prepare the pledges.

During homecoming the house built a float with the Sig Eps and held a breakfast for their alumni. A banquet was held after the football game for alumni at the Ramada Inn.

Social activities included a Ranch Dance in October, Mistletoe Madness in December and formal in Grand Island March 28th.

The only sorority house located off-campus, the Gamma Phis had members in several honoraries, including Delta Omicron, Society of Collegiate Journalists, and Who's Who, and the house ranked second among KSC sororities scholastically.

For service projects, the Gamma Phis sang Christmas carols at the elderly homes, gave blood during a blood-mobile visit, sponsored a Honey Sunday and danced in the Muscular Dystrophy Dance Marathon.

Nationally, the house was awarded Scholastic Excellence during its National Convention. They were one of seven chapters in the nation to win the award.

The chapter has been on campus since May 11, 1963.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Sig Eps combine leadership, involvement for productive year

In 1916 the Caledonians, later renamed Sigma Phi Epsilon, became the second fraternity to organize on campus. The year 1980-81 was a very productive one for members of the fraternity. Five Sig Eps were elected to Student Senate offices, including Dave Riley, Lincoln, who was elected president.

Also receiving honors during the year was Tim McGill, Omaha, who was named Greek Man of the Year during Greek Daze. McGill also won the titles of Most Outstanding Senior in the House and Most Outstanding Senior on Campus within votes of the house.

Sig Eps were also productive among the community. They visited the residents of Mother Hull House and also entertained the residents of the Bethphage Mission. At Christmas the Sig Eps put up Christmas lights around Kearney.

During homecoming the Sig Eps and Gamma Phis entered their float in the parade competition. A party for their alumni was also included in homecoming day activities.

Other events of the year included functions with each sorority on campus, Toga Party, Purple Passion, Sweetheart Formal and Spring Phi-ver. Members of the fraternity also took their annual ski trip to Steamboat Springs during spring break and participated in campus events like the Bike Bowl, intramural sports and the Muscular Dystrophy Superdance.

Beta Sigma Psi

Fraternity strives toward goals, establishes Little Sis Chapter

Xi Chapter, Beta Sigma Psi, at KSC was very busy during the 1980-81 year. In addition to helping the community through participation in activities such as Cancer Fund drives and bike-a-thons, Beta Sigs also strove toward and achieved their three main goals of developing each member spiritually, scholastically and socially.

Spiritually, Beta Sigs were active at Campus Lutheran. Helping usher and folding bulletins were but two of the many things the fraternity did for the church.

Scholastically, Beta Sigma Psi is proud of its 3.1 GPA, one of the highest of the fraternity averages.

Socially, the year was also busy. Beta Sigs placed first in KSC's 75 anniversary homecoming float competition with the Chi Omega sorority. This enthusiasm was then carried into second semester by the formation of a Beta Sig Little Sister Chapter. Sixteen women were initiated into the charter membership.

Phi Delta Theta

Fraternity activates large pledge class

Phi Delta Theta had, as with other organizations, a very busy school year. A fall pledge class of 30 men, the largest pledge class in the chapter's history, was activated in January. Highlights of the first semester included the annual Cattle Drive party and a homecoming celebration with many alumni of the chapter.

Second semester brought the annual Formal and Hog Party and many community service activities. The Phi Deltas raised the most money of any organization for the second straight year during the Salvation Army Christmas Bell Ringing campaign. The chapter also sponsored a bike-a-thon for Cystic Fibrosis and came in third place for the most money raised in the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-thon. Several members composed the first-place intramural flag football team, combining a 28-0 record. The chapter also came in third in the Greek Daze fraternity competition and members were involved in such campus organizations as Ambassadors, Student Senate and track.

Sigma Tau Gamma

Oldest national fraternity celebrates 20th anniversary

Sigma Tau Gamma has been a part of KSC life since 1961. Being the first fraternity on campus to go national had its obstacles, but participation in campus activities has always been stressed throughout the years.

Activities for the Sig Taus in 1980-81 included raising money through a dance-a-thon and bike-a-thon and selling seeds for Campus House.

Sig Taus also participated in quiz bowl and placed first in the trike races during Bike Bowl.

The men of Sig Tau were also involved in campus activities. Some of these activities included varsity as well as intramural sports, Interfraternity Council and many different organizations.

Functions for the Sig Taus included Toga Tromp and White Rose Formal. The fraternity also had numerous functions with sororities including a sock hop, Hawaiian party and pajamma party.

In celebrating their 20th anniversary the Sig Taus will publish a booklet about their fraternity.

Alpha Tau Omega

First KSC fraternity earns top GPA, stays active in campus events

Originally organized in 1915 as the Phi Tau Gamma fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega was the first fraternity for Kearney men. The year 1980-81 marked the group's 15th year as a national fraternity.

Helping KSC celebrate the Diamond Jubilee, ATOs placed second in both the yell contest and the float competition. Over 90 alumni returned for the hog roast after the game.

For Halloween the ATOs sponsored a haunted house. Members raised $400 during the event and passed the proceeds onto the Buffalo County Citizen Advocacy charity.

With the beginning of the spring semester, the ATOs activated seven men and ten little sisters into their program. The fraternity was also recognized as the top fraternity on campus according to GPA ratings supplied by the Dean of Students.

The ATOs were also active in intramural sports. ATO Todd Graus won the individual archery title and combined with Roger Marcelino, Jeff Lodl and Dave Schroeder to win the team title.

Fraternities, sororities celebrate themes of growth, Greek Daze

The Phi Kappa Tau fraternity grew tremendously during 1980-81, nearly tripling its membership during the year. The growth in membership added an extra boost to the group's goals of unity and enthusiasm.

Along with the increase in numbers, Phi Kappa Tau also received an increase in support from its alumni in 1980-81. At their alumni banquet in April the Phi Tau national president, vice president and executive director all returned to share in the celebration.

Phi Taus showed their spirit of enthusiasm by winning the car in the Coors Contest and by raising the most money in the fraternity division of the Miller Recycling Contest. During Bike Bowl members placed in the top five for the fifteenth straight year.

Much time and energy also went into renovating the Phi Tau house during the year. Members reseeded the lawn and planted bushes and also purchased new furniture and a kitchen stove.

Changes in academic programming are what Brendan J. McDonald views as the most profound changes in his nine years as president of KSC.

At McDonald's first graduation commencement in May of 1973, 87 percent of the graduates received teaching degrees. In May, 1981, less than 40 percent received degrees in teaching.

More cooperative programs with other institutions and changes in the physical campus are what McDonald predicted for KSC's future. Physical changes will include the remodeling of the A. O. Thomas Building, the expansion of the library and the gymnasium, a move of the union to the Nebraskan, and the eventual closing off of all automobile traffic on campus.

"Two major changes are an adjustment of the college to the current enrollment decline and the inflation and uncertainty of the economic structure," McDonald said.

Establishing a budget which will distribute funds at KSC in the most feasible way is the primary responsibility of Earl Rademacher, vice president for administration and finances.

"There has been a tremendous growth in the number of students, faculty and staff, and also the facilities and programs," Rademacher said. "All these factors make the running of an institution this size difficult."

"Times of frustration have been and continue to be a challenge," Rademacher said, "but it's very interesting work and the association with both the students and staff is really rewarding."

In August of 1963, Marvin Knittel came to KSC's School of Education in the Department of Counseling and Educational Psychology. In 1972, Knittel moved to the position of Vice-President of Academic Affairs. With the completion of the 1980-81 school year he returned to teaching.

Each of the deans of KSC's five schools, the library director, admissions director, and registrar's director all report directly to Knittel. In addition to other duties, he also reviews all academic programs.

The greatest challenge of his successor, according to Knittel, will be "to develop programs coordinated to suit the style of living we'll have five or six years from now, when the major effects will take place."

Looking to the future while reviewing present academic programming is also the primary concern of the Faculty Senate.

Each of KSC's five schools are represented on the 33-member board. Members of the senate, formed in 1972, are faculty-appointed.

According to Chairman Richard Jussel, the senate is consulted in the processing of building and wings. It is also concerned with providing all departments with the best possible facilities for KSC students.

Business and Technology

Recognition grows in KSC's largest school

With the largest number of both majors and faculty, the business department spent the year organizing a permanent residence on West Campus.

As growth in the school continued, so did the recognition in two KSC students, Diane Duncce and Diane Thiesen were endocrinated as state officers in Phi Beta Lambda, the business honorary.

As the Master of Business Administration (MBA) program was phased out and became a cooperative program with UNL's College of Business Administration, a finance option was added to the bachelor's degree in business administration. This option put emphasis on accounting, operational research, credits and collections.

Employing 21 full-time and 12 part-time faculty members, the School of Business and Technology relies heavily on professional business people within the community to assist its teaching staff, giving KSC students first-hand experience from "on-the-job" instructors.

In 1921, the State Normal School at Kearney was changed to Nebraska State Teachers College. The significant difference between today's state college and the teachers college, as cited by Leonard Skov, Dean of the School of Education, is that today the campus is not limited to classrooms in a 20-block area, but extends to over 50 counties.

Sophomores majoring in special education and elementary education participated in a new program this year called the Hastings Project. This project involved 23 students observing school activities as a field experience in Hastings, NE.

An external degree from KSC was also offered in elementary education at both the McCook and North Platte junior colleges, with approximately 30 to 40 students participating at each center.

Another addition to the school was the Human Performance Lab, which is entwined with Kearney Medical Facilities to relate exercise with the cardiovascular lab.

An expected change in the education department will prepare students to teach in a non-educational setting, such as work training in an industrial field.

With a full-time faculty of approximately 70 professors, the school has nearly 400 graduates per year, with 1,500 undergraduates at some stage of preparation for a degree in teaching.

Fine Arts and Humanities

Dedications, trips add to heritage of school

When the School of Fine Arts and Humanities was formed in July, 1969, it had four faculty members. At one time that staff grew to 28 and this year the school employed 72 full-time faculty members.

The Diamond Jubilee celebration marked many additions to the school, including the dedication of Drake Theatre. The theatre in the Fine Arts Building was named in honor of Miriam Drake, who taught speech and English classes and directed numerous plays during her 47 years at KSC.

A series of classical films was shown during the year by the English Department, while a language and literature series accented department activities.

In addition, several trips were sponsored by the International Education program, including tours in London, Guadalajara, France and Italy and a student exchange with Japan's Doshisha University.

In June, the Hostetler Amphitheatre, located between the library and the Fine Arts Building, was dedicated. Given to the college by Florence Raymond in memory of her father, the amphitheatre was used during the year for various activities ranging from theatre performances to small-group concerts.

Natural and Social Sciences

School strives for top program in state

Although a division of math, science and social science has been a part of KSC since 1905, the School of Natural and Social Sciences itself did not begin until 1968.

With the addition of new programs and majors over the years, the school is, today, one of the best in the state, according to Dr. R. David Clark, dean of the School of Natural and Social Sciences.

"We have the best science education program in the state, barring none, and we have the track record to prove it," Clark said.

Many of the faculty and alumni who helped make the school what it is today were honored for their achievements during the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

A one-day symposium honoring Dr. Don Fox, the first dean of the school, was sponsored by the chemistry department. Serving as guest speakers for the event were eight graduates of the school, who presented lectures and discussed their research work.

In addition, Dr. Philip S. Holmgren, chairman of the school's history and philosophy department, had his history of KSC printed especially for the event.

"I think the Diamond Jubilee was a very successful project," Clark said. "Our school has made a lot of important achievements and contributions to the field of science, as evidenced by both our alumni and our faculty. I think it was important that the Diamond Jubilee gave academic achievements honor too."

Graduate School

Students strive to attain advanced degrees

Graduate School has come a long way since it first began at KSC in 1954, when it offered only a few areas in which to earn a master's degree. Today, 24 different areas are represented in the three areas of master's degrees: Master of Business Administration, Master of Arts in Education and Master of Science in Education. The specialist degree is awarded in Educational Administration and in School Psychology.

Graduate course work is offered by departments which do not offer a degree program. A student may select courses from these departments for personal enrichment, for transfer to another institution or as a part of an approved undergraduate degree program.

About 175 students earned doctorates in 1981, according to Thomas Flickema, Dean of Graduate School.

Working directly with President McDonald on special events and supervising the News Bureau and Print Shop are the main duties of Hal Colony, director of college relations.

According to Colony, the goals of the College Relations Department are "to provide more information to the public about what is being done and help them understand what KSC is all about."

"My job is flexible," Colony said. "It's always a challenge and it really keeps you on your toes."

Whereas Colony's job is to promote effective communication between KSC and the Kearney community, Dean of Students Robert Nye seeks to improve relations between KSC students and the administration.

Although Nye has foreseen many changes in the operation of student services, he said that an area that should be touched on more heavily is the rewards given to high academic achievers to keep their grades up. Nye also said that the percentage of placed students after graduation is an attractive asset to KSC.

The year 1980 marked the last year of Nye's position as dean. He retired and moved to Texas at the end of the school year. Reflecting on his eleven years as dean, Nye said he's "always enjoyed it tremendously."

"I learned a lot about people, especially young people. I think the college age group is the finest in the world. They're great to work with and a pleasure to be around," Nye said. "It's been a stimulating experience."

Blue and Gold

Hard work, determination play key roles in yearbook production

Most any KSC student can name a class that, although worth only one credit hour, seemed like it should be worth five or more. Yearbook production often was just such a class to the nearly twenty students who worked either part-time or year-round on the staff of the 1981 Blue and Gold.

Armed with an obvious theme—the Diamond Jubilee—and with only five veterans of the previous year's staff, the 1980-81 staff set out early in the year with goals of learning yearbook techniques and covering a wide spectrum of KSC life, all the while striving for a quality that would exceed that of previous books.

Planning for the yearbook began in mid-July when copy editor Connie Custer and advisor Rob Wilson attended a five-day workshop sponsored by the book's publisher in Glenwood Springs, CO. Actually completing the book was a task that stretched, for some, into the middle of June.

Whether a photographer, an editor, a reporter or a business person, each staff member found yearbooking a time-consuming, often difficult project. While forgetting to make or take a photo assignment, losing a piece of copy or even missing a deadline were not every-day occurrences, they nevertheless happened at least once during the school year. But the feeling of pride the staff felt when at last all the work was completed was well worth the effort.

After a year of many long hours and a little bit of anxiety, the special Diamond Jubilee edition of the 1980-81 Blue and Gold is finished.

I am especially proud of this edition as it represented KSC's 75th anniversary. 75 years of growth and change have made KSC what it is today and we—the staff—hope that the 1980-81 Blue and Gold represents the growth and change that occurred in both the students and the college itself.

I owe special thank yous to Connie Custer, who spent many extra hours making sure each piece of copy was correct, Mark Winz, who was tireless in the darkroom and always there when we needed him, and Jana Barnell, who made sure every dollar was counted.

Although we all worked hard to finish the Blue and Gold, there is one person without whom the yearbook could never have been completed. I would like to thank Rob Wilson for all the support, encouragement, concern and understanding he has shown me throughout the past year. He kept me going when it seemed as if I would never be able to finish this—the final page of the 1980-81 Blue and Gold.

Thanks, Rob.
